TO CALL STATE POLICE

summer, farmers are seen plowing their fields, painting houses and doing other kinds of work wholly devoid of the urgency that might justify a little work on Sunday. The state police will be asked to put a stop to all this unnecessary work.

Annual Meeting.
The annual town meeting will be held on the first Monday in March and already the coming meeting is the topic of much discussion. It is believed that the "pay as you go policy" in the town's expenses, which was adopted two years ago, will be dropped this year. There is much dissatisfaction over this system, which, according to many resulted in a heavy increase in the tax rate. The first year this policy was put into effect the tax rate jumped from between $19 and $20 a thousand to $28.50. Last year there was a drop of 60 cents on the thousand; but that was not satisfactory to the heavy tax payers, who claimed they were overburdened. "If this policy is kept up a few years," said a taxpayer, "many of us will be driven to bankruptcy." This matter will be brought out at the meeting and in the opinion of many, the loan system will be resumed.

Building Ordinance.
Another important matter will be an article that will be inserted in the warrant, calling for the appointment of a committee to draw up an ordinance regulating the construction of buildings on the principal thoroughfares of Dracut, Lakeside avenue and Mammoth road. This will be brought about to put a stop to the erection of shacks in certain parts of the town which are calculated to convey the impression that the town is a gypsy camp.

Ice Crop.
H. A. Flanders, the ice man at Belle Grove is now enjoying a well earned rest after cutting about 100 tons of ice, the best seen for years. One of his houses is filled with ice about 14 inches thick, and in a few weeks if this weather keeps up, he expects to cut his second crop and fill up the other house, the capacity of which is 300 tons.

Fire Protection.
The recent disastrous fire which destroyed the residence and stable of Jas. J. McManis, a dealer, at Brookside, has caused considerable fear among the residents of that part of the town and the result is that they will advocate the purchase of a combination chemical, hose and ladder auto fire apparatus. At first it was thought advisable to make some arrangements with the Lowell fire department, but this is not feasible and accordingly there is a movement on foot to purchase a combination auto for the town and also make the department larger and more efficient. A fire auto located in the center of the town would protect all districts in a proper way and disastrous fires would not be so numerous.

Valentine Party.
All arrangements are now complete for the valentine party which will be conducted in Harmony hall, Collinsville on the evening of Feb. 13.

The affair will be given under the auspices of the Sacred Heart league for the benefit of St. Mary's church. The hall will be beautifully decorated for the occasion and a delightful concert will be given by the Newton orchestra, while tea and cake will be served. The committee in charge consists of the following: Miss Lena Collins, secretary; Josephine Whotton, Alice Kennedy, Mrs. William Kierman, Miss Bridget Maguire, Mrs. John McShea, Miss Margaret Fogarty, Miss Susan Fenlon and Miss Bridget Greaney.

Testimonial Party.
Rev. Thomas A. Walsh, pastor of St. Mary's church, Collinsville, and several parishioners will go to Roxbury this evening to attend the testimonial party for the benefit of their church, which will be given under the auspices of the summer vacationists of Dracut.

who reside in Boston, Roxbury and Cambridge.
The affair will be held in A. O. H. hall and a large attendance is expected to be on hand. The arrangements are in charge of John F. Burns, William and Fred Crowley and Miss Minnie Dunn, the latter being secretary of the committee.

Will Compromise.
Some time ago the residents of Collinsville petitioned the public service commission in Boston to force the Bay State Street Railway Co. to issue transfers on the Nashua line as far as Lakeview from any point in the city, but the demand was refused. There is now another petition in circulation and this time the petitioners are willing to compromise. They want the transfer privilege between Canney's corner and any part of Lowell as now in force morning and night.

London Police Think Murderer is a Passenger on Liner Grampian, Bound for Canada

LONDON, Jan. 23.—Wireless telegraphy was brought into play yesterday to track down a suspected murderer who is supposed to be on board the Allan line steamer Grampian, now on her way from Liverpool to Canada, the first port she touches being St. John, N. B.

The victim of the mysterious crime was Kent Reekie, who until recently was engineer on board a United Fruit company's steamer, understood to be Sixola.

Reekie arrived in England on Jan. 17 and was found shot dead near Wolverhampton on Jan. 20. He had several hundred dollars of American bank notes in his possession and the money is missing.
Reekie is said to have made the acquaintance of a man from Chicago whose name has not been revealed, but whom the police are now inviting to communicate with them to see whether he knows anything of Reekie's movements.

STATE WIDE BURGLARIES

YOUNG BURGLARS CLAIM THAT PLANS WERE MADE IN CONCORD REFORMATORY

WORCESTER, Jan. 23.—That a systematic campaign of burglaries touching Worcester and a score of other communities in Massachusetts was planned within the walls of the Concord reformatory, and that that institution schooled one of the burglars to practically all the knowledge he has of vice, were statements made and largely substantiated in the superior criminal court yesterday while the sentencing of Kenneth Duncan and Leo Landry was under consideration.

Duncan and Landry pleaded guilty of a series of nine offenses of breaking and entering, on which they were indicted, in Gardner, Athol and Fitchburg, when arraigned before Judge Hugo A. Dubuque.

State Police Inspector McCarthy, told the court that the men have been guilty of several breaks in Norwood and Watertown and that up and down the Merrimack valley they have made break after break.

Judge Dubuque asked Duncan if he had anything to say and it was then that the accusation against the reformatory was made.
"I don't ask for mercy," said Duncan, "but I do ask you not to send me back to Concord. I learned all that I know about crime there. I was a bad boy, but not very bad, and I got sent to Concord for about the first thing I ever did. I did not know really anything about crime until I went there, but when I came out I understood it all. I had learned. Concord is responsible for the record I have against me today. I expect to be punished, but I want you to know what Concord has done for me."

Dist. Atty. James A. Stone said: "As nearly as I can learn, from these and other follow-ups, I guess perhaps the information is correct—the gang that has been doing these breaks all over the state planned them while they were together in Concord."

Neither Duncan nor Landry asked clemency, but showed that they bitterly opposed going to the reformatory. Judge Dubuque imposed sentences of not less than three nor more than five years in state prison at Charlestown on each of the young men. The two are only about 21 years old, yet both have long records of crime, according to reports that were made to the court.

MATRIMONIAL

Mr. Theophilus Machon and Miss Harriette de Cateret were married last night at the home of Mrs. John Toms on the Dunstable road, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Franklin H. Reeves of the Congregational church in North Chelmsford. The bride-maid was Miss Ethel de Cateret, while the bridegroom was Mr. Philip Machon. After the ceremony a reception was held, followed by a supper. Later in the evening the happy couple left on their honeymoon trip to Boston and New York. They will make their home in Dunstable.

HIGH SCHOOL BALL

The officers of the Regiment association of the Lowell high school will hold their annual ball this evening in Associate hall at 8 o'clock and the hearts of the juvenile school-going population are all keyed up in anticipation for the officers' ball is one of the greatest social events of the year. This year the preparations are in very competent hands, and it will be no fault of any of the principals if anything happens to mar the occasion, for all preparations have been made with exactness and thoroughness. Sundry whisperings in the class rooms at high school for the past week or so also revealed the fact that there are several marvellous creations of the art of the costume-maker waiting in dark closets to get their first airing this evening. If any details were needed to complete the picture in advance, it is met in the demands made on the artists which are as heavy as on former years—the demands, not the artists.

Following are the officers of the ball: Donald K. Pattillo, general manager; Francis W. Duffy, assistant general manager; George W. Thomas, floor director; Gleason H. McCutcheon, assistant floor director; Douglas R. Buchanan, chief aid. The aids are all officers of the regiment association.

The matrons are: Miss Mary G. Stevens, Miss Adelaide Baker, Miss Marietta Cassidy and Miss Gertrude Rodolf.

Regt. Qm. Sergt. Raymond Kemner will be the flag bearer in the grand march.

Results obtained by a Recent Investigator at Variance With Commonly Accepted Ideas

Many problems have arisen in connection with the ventilation of stables, and they have assumed such importance that the necessity for the study of the subject from all possible standpoints has been recognized. Important contributions on the matter have been made by M. H. Reynolds. The results obtained by this investigator appear to be at variance with the commonly accepted ideas of ventilation and suggest that new explanations are needed on the observed facts in cases of good and poor ventilation.

One of the main objects of the study was to determine the effect of carbon dioxide upon animals confined in stables. In the case of human beings, Prof. Atwater has found that one requires apparently in perfect comfort in an atmosphere containing 2.5 per cent of carbon dioxide, or almost 80 times the quantity found in ordinary atmospheric air. The air, however, was kept pure in other respects, and the amount of moisture and the amount of carbon dioxide varied, being in some cases as high as 2.67 per cent, as compared with .03 per cent in ordinary air.

In such an atmosphere, obtained by confining steers in a nearly airtight box stall, the animals were kept for periods varying from two to 25 days. None of the bodily functions was materially disturbed, the only effects observed being a slight increase in the pulse rate and respiration, and a small rise in temperature. The animals showed good appetite and appeared to be in perfect health and comfort during the confinement. The amount of moisture in the atmosphere of the stall was so great that water ran down the sides of the stall, and the walls became covered with mold. Nevertheless, animals confined under these circumstances not only appeared to remain healthy and comfortable, but even the healing process following upon docking seemed not to be interfered with by confinement in the moist atmosphere containing more than 30 times the normal amount of carbon dioxide.

Mr. Reynolds concludes from these experiments that the common explanation of the desirability of ventilation in stables must be revised to conform with the results that he has obtained. It is suggested that the air requirements recommended by various investigators for farm animals confined in stables are altogether too high and, in most cases, impossible of accomplishment. These requirements vary from 15.00 to 35.00 cubic feet per hour, whereas the stall in which the steers were confined contained only 7.51 cubic feet of air.

It is suggested that a well lighted but poorly ventilated stable is perhaps superior to a poorly lighted and well ventilated one, from a sanitary standpoint.

State Board of Labor Split Over Child Labor Law—Routine Business in Both Branches

BOSTON, Jan. 23.—The new state board of labor and industries, in its report to the legislature, split over the new child labor law. The dissenter to the report is Channing Smith, of Leicester, the manufacturer, who was the first republican insurgent.

Mr. Smith says that the underlying principle of the child labor law is correct, but that it has been carried out to an extent that it works hardship.

Children Discharged

He says that 17,000 children between 14 and 16 years of age have been discharged since Sept. 1, as a result of the law, and that very few have returned to school. He says that if Massachusetts is to progress industrially, the theorist and faddist must be got rid of.

The report of the board urges modification in the matter of prosecution. It says that hereafter prosecutions will be undertaken only after employers have been notified.

The following recommendations are made:

1.—That every employer shall be held responsible for all acts of any agent or sub-contractor for help advertising during strikes.

2.—That the one-hour meal time be extended to all industrial establishments.

3.—That weekly wage payments be extended to all industries.

4.—That a penalty be provided for injuring or defiling sanitary appliances provided in industrial places.

5.—That the board be given authority to post such notices as it deems fit in any industrial establishment.

6.—That the board be given jurisdiction over lighting, heating, ventilation and cleanliness.

7.—That the statute requiring all premises to be licensed in which articles of wearing apparel are manufactured, repaired, altered or finished, be extended so to include any premises in which any garments or articles of any description are in any way adapted for sale.

The report is signed by James A. Lowell, chairman, and Prof. Crook, William Acton and Mrs. Mary H. Dewey.

To Suit Naphen

The house committee on elections will report, to 3, in favor of seating William J. Naphen, the republican candidate for the house from Natick.

The four members who make up the majority of the committee are Booth of Fall River, Kennard of Somerville and Alvord of Middleboro, all republicans, and Mr. Chandler of East Bridgewater, progressive.

The three dissenting members are Barry of Aquinam, Griffin of Boston and Cotter of Lynn, democrats.

The original count of the votes at the election in Natick showed that Brennan, the democratic candidate for the house, had one more vote than Naphen, the republican candidate. The recount showed that Naphen had one vote more than Brennan, but the democratic members of the registrars of voters of that town refused to sign the election certificate for Naphen.

The matter will come before the house. Several of the ballots have been protested by each side.

Routine Business

Each branch of the state legislature sat for about an hour yesterday afternoon. Nothing but routine business was transacted.

In the senate, reports were received from the following committees:

By Senator Brennan of Cambridge, the petition of Edmund A. Whitman that the city of Cambridge be authorized to pay an annuity to John McBurnie, who was for 33 years its clerk of committees at city hall, and has just retired.

Great Fire, Smoke and Water SALE

One of the greatest boons to the people living on upper Merrimack street was the great Pelletier, Ledoux & Co. sale which brought sorrow to the company but happiness to hundreds of families that took advantage of the sale that followed the fire which occurred in this store a few days previous. On three different occasions they have been obliged to close their store to arrange the goods and to place them in order that their customers may find easy access to select just what they would desire. The prices on the goods are so wonderfully low that it is like finding money on the street. 571,730 MEN IN THE MILITIA

Report of Adj. General Pearson Shows an Increase of 1411

Speaks of the Value of Motor Trucks in War Maneuvers

The annual report of Brigadier General Gardner W. Pearson, adjutant general of the commonwealth, has been issued and is a critical analysis of the activities of the militia during 1913. The tour of duty for the 2d, 6th, 5th, 8th and 9th Infantry and 5th Corps Cadets, during July and August, as well as other tours of duty, are reviewed, and some of the lessons learned are pointed out.

According to the report, the enrolled militia for 1913 was 571,730, while in 1912 it was 570,319, an increase of 1411. Appropriations made by the commonwealth during the year were $503,515.22. The estimates for 1914 were $514,000, an increase of $10,484.78 over last year as are as follows:

Adjutant general's department—Compensation, officers and men, 1913 appropriation $200,000, estimate for 1914, $225,000; rifle practice, 1913 appropriation, $26,540.92, estimate for 1914, $26,500; instruction of the militia, service school, 1913 appropriation $450; estimate for 1914, $500; allowance to headquarters and companies, 1913 appropriation $350, estimate for 1914, $384; company armorer, 1913 appropriation, $12,500, estimate for 1914, $12,525.

For the quartermaster general's department—The salary of quartermaster general in the 1913 appropriations was $1610, estimate for 1914, $2000; salaries of clerks, 1913 appropriation, $5500; estimate for 1914, $10,000; quartermaster's supplies, 1913 appropriation, $23,000; estimate for 1914, $23,500; maintenance of armories, first class 1913 appropriation $25,000, estimate for 1914, $27,500; salaries of armorer and assistants, first class, 1913 appropriation $80,000, estimate for 1914, $85,000; maintenance and rental of armories, second class, 1913 appropriation, $7575, estimate for 1914, $7955; maintenance and rental of armories, third class, 1913 appropriation, $2250, estimate for 1914, $2575.

Surgeon general's department—Medical supplies and incidentals, 1913 appropriation, $2500; estimate for 1914, $2500.

Adj. Gen. Pearson, in discussing the subject of infantry maneuver camps, says that of the lessons learned from the old camp duty at Framingham prior to 1896, which brought about the development of instruction camps and maneuvers. The original maneuvers, he says, were crude in their inception and brutal in their execution. The Connecticut maneuvers of 1912, he thought of great value.

The use of motor trucks in war maneuvers comes in for interesting mention. On this point the adjutant general says:

"One motor truck was assigned to each regiment or corresponding organization, and all subsistence was issued daily from Wareham to the various camps, most of which were from 20 to 30 miles distant. The use of motor trucks in this way gave an exceedingly flexible organization, as approximately 50 miles of the country was covered from a central point with promptness and precision. It is believed that the motor truck constitutes the ideal military supply train operating from a railroad base, as the radius of action daily can probably be extended to 50 miles, going and returning."

QUALITY IN BUTTER MAKING

Dairymen Themselves Hold Key to Situation—Improper Treatment of Milk and Cream

Quality is the keynote of permanent success. Though the individual dairymen may doubt this, its truth is established when the dairy business of the whole of New England, present and future, is considered. Failure to realize what constitutes the ideal dairyman owes to the dairy industry, and competition are at least three conditions which have brought upon dairymen of this section the great problem of how quality can be raised, for where place has been reached where improved conditions must prevail, lest the business suffer materially.

The percentage of butter scoring as "Extras" on the principal butter markets is very low, some say that less than 10 per cent. of the butter sold in these places will so qualify. The cause of this condition is the improper treatment which milk and cream receive before being placed in the hands of the manufacturer.

Every person who handles milk or cream knows that they are perishable products, which require special care. Failure to observe the necessary precautions in handling these products most therefore be considered as a disregard of the principles underlying quality. Were dairymen to apply themselves closely to two particulars, covering 90 per cent. of the quality of milk, cream and butter are the result of dirt, manure, hair and flies getting into milk during the milking process, and this becomes the more serious for the reason that 75 per cent. of these contaminating materials go into solution, and can be removed in no way, but remain to cause the development of unfavorable fermentation which produce bad flavors in the milk production. The results of butter scoring contests show that 80 to 90 per cent. of the dairymen made of creamery butter are due to defective methods of handling cream before it reaches the creamery.

Dairy conditions which need improvement include not only the maintaining of more sanitary dairy barns, more attention in the matter of cleaning cows previous to milking, clean milkers, properly constructed and cleaned utensils and more care in washing separator bowls, but the length of time and the manner in which milk and cream are held. Along with cleanliness must be the other desirable feature, low temperatures. While the market dairymen realizes this to some extent on account of his product being more perishable, the dairymen who sells cream often fails to appreciate the advantage of cooling cream immediately after separating, and thus a condition most favorable to deterioration begins to exist shortly after the milk is drawn. Freshly drawn milk is at the best temperature for bacterial growth, and unfavorable fermentation can be checked in no better way than by immediate cooling. If the milk is to be separated, skimming should take place directly after milking, but the cream should be cooled before being mixed with previous skimmings. A tank cooler is so simply constructed and operated that there can be no reasonable objection to its use.

Careless practices on the dairy farm favor the adoption of burdensome regulations with ideal methods. In use such would be of little value. Improvement in the quality of dairy products must begin with the producer, so the dairymen holds the key to the situation. Every effort of the consumer, the distributor, or the manufacturer will work to his ultimate benefit. Where payment on the quality basis is established, a premium of from three to five cents per pound of butter fat is given for cream of the highest grade. Such cream can be produced best by paying close attention to cleanliness and immediate and thorough cooling. Were the matter of quality carried to the point where milk and cream would be produced under conditions which prevail upon certified dairies, it would represent an impossible expense, for excessive prices could not be obtained. But this extreme is unnecessary, and the dairy business of New England would receive a wonderful impetus if the bulk of our dairymen would observe the conditions which they know should prevail.

DETECTIVE BURNS' SPEECH

The story of nation-wide graft and corruption uncovered by Detective William J. Burns at the board of trade banquet would be discouraging to all who strive for political and social uplift. It was not that through all its revolting details ran a thread of optimism. In this there is a greater significance of a new spirit of idealism in public affairs than in the most earnest discourses of bar or pulpit for the material expert in crime analysis has come in direct contact with the most flagrant and insidious evils of the American system of government, and his belief in national reform is based on honest and well grounded conviction.

The great lesson for the American people to learn, according to Mr. Burns, is that the public must demand from its servants a high ideal of duty and from on anything saving of graft and corruption. Where the public conscience gets lax the consequences are disastrous as in the case of New York and San Francisco. The most colossal evils spring into being in the stagnated life of communities where the public is indifferent but where the light of public scrutiny is turned upon the officials, the greatest evils must crumble as easily as they arise. Possibly in the process of regeneration there will be murders and all manner of horrors, but these mark a transition stage and often lead to great measures of reform as in the case of New York where the Rosenthal murder aroused the public conscience and started a wave of reform which is still penetrating every department of municipal life in the metropolis.

With an assurance and confidence born of experience and justified by many court decisions Mr. Burns described how the trail of graft and crime leads almost invariably to the man higher up. His experiences while in search for the "important man" in this connection were almost incredible, but they were simply unromantic recitations of the depths of villainy and degradation to which men can go when free from the domination of conscience and the restrictions of the law. He voiced a truth that is being exemplified daily when he said that the cure for the evils that spring from the corrupt "man higher up" is pitiless publicity. The people that formerly regarded graft with indifference and looked upon it as an unavoidable adjunct of democracy are now turning the spotlight of investigation on many a trail that leads up to the fountain heads of corruption—even to the very halls of congress.

Talks such as that of the great detective have a very positive value because they help to arouse in the American public an interest in political and social affairs and when the public takes an intelligent interest in all that concerns them vitally we may hope for a better spirit in American public life. The horrible crop of corruption that has blossomed from the Atlantic to the Pacific has been nourished and fertilized by public indifference. If there is to be an end to the stigma of political corruption with which this community is branded before the world the public must decide governmental questions for itself and not wait passively for fulfillment of the election promises of corrupt and incompetent politicians.

USE OF SCHOOL BUILDINGS

The use of school buildings for evening or social centers is being widely practiced at the present time and has already been adopted by many communities. Judging from the work being accomplished in the cities where it has become a fixed institution, and the favorable judgment of press and public, the time of its general adoption is not far distant.

The address of R. E. Hawley, acting director of the work in Boston before the group of interested people in this city last Wednesday evening outlined the work clearly and gave an excellent idea of the purpose of the movement and some of the chief difficulties to be confronted in putting it into operation. According to him the social center movement would open the school buildings of the city in the evening to men and women of all ages both native born and foreign, for the purpose of instruction, recreation and development of community spirit. After the introduction of the movement, the details could be well worked out in the formation of clubs through which groups would be attracted together by unity of purpose and common interest.

There seems to be no insurmountable obstacle to the use of the school buildings as above suggested. It is being done in Lawrence and Boston with very beneficial results, and enthusiasm is growing instead of lagging in these cities. The schools are supported by public taxation and considering the possible advantages in their more general use it seems as though the public does not receive from them all the service to which they are entitled. The labor resulting from the innovation would not be considerable and though its adoption would necessitate the solving of some problems of a constructive nature, the difficulties would be slight once the co-operation of the public is secured. As Mr. Hawley pointed out, these social centers would have a fine effect for the development of civic consciousness in the immigrants who would be fortunate enough to come under their influence; this consideration is important enough in itself to warrant serious study of the subject by the members of the school committee.

The financial problems would offer the greatest difficulties here at the present time when the school department is so hampered in its routine work that it cannot be expected to throw itself into any new project with a great deal of enthusiasm.

A NEW RESERVATION BILL

Without any regret or feeling of insult the people of this city will discover that Lowell is apparently excluded from the privileges of the new reservation bill which takes the place of the bill of 1912 which would give us a beach at Salisbury, 40 miles away, whether we wanted it or not. The new bill is introduced by a Lawrence representative to take the place of that which luckily for our point of view was considered unconstitutional a year ago. It will be remembered that when the sponsors of the bill that was discarded looked round for taxable communities to make a fine financial addition to the suggested reservation, they jumped over Tewksbury and Dracut and included Lowell, the biggest slice of all—and the farthest away. Fortunately such a protest was raised here that the bill was eventually defeated, though only by a legal offense of a technical nature against community rights.

The new bill favors a reservation commission appointed by the governor and council, and at the expense of the state entirely. It is very specific in its limitations of territory to be included in the reservation and provides for an ocean reservation only. Even though this city is not included, the bill is of especial interest to us owing to our narrow escape from taxation for the proposed reservation of a year ago, and possible amendments of the measure which may still be included in its passage through the legislature. Though it does not as yet bear directly on us in a legislative sense, it will not do for this city to grow negligent. The local legislators should keep a close watch on the bill in question or anything else affecting the reservation project to prevent a recurrence of the injustice of 1912. The board of trade has already made plans to keep the new bill under supervision.

TAFT ON SEX DISCUSSION

Speaking at the commencement exercises of a business college in Philadelphia a few days ago, former President Taft made a few home thrusts at some manifestations of the modern spirit of independence and lack of restraint. Among the subjects that drew some sharp criticism from him was the regrettable tendency towards juvenile delinquency of authority as manifested in the school strike, and the exploitation of matters of sex in plays and literature generally. He does not believe that vice may be eliminated or reduced to a minimum by teaching its awful consequences, contrary to the teachings of many flippant apostles of the obscene. How well he senses the trend of the times towards lack of restraint may be seen from the following paragraph:

"By dwelling on its details and explaining its penalties, sexual subjects are introduced into discussion between the sexes, lectures are delivered on them, and text books are written, and former restraints of modesty are abandoned."

Ignorance has its attendant evils but many will agree with the judicial minded ex-president that the evils of unrestricted sex discussion are far greater. One need not blush for the old fashioned morality which would select William Howard Taft for a monitor rather than the well meaning Brieux or the champagne-minded George Bernard Shaw.

GOING INTO MOURNING

Miss Eva Ward, an English lady who is at present lecturing in this country on behalf of woman suffrage, has made the suggestion that if the ballot is not granted universally within a specified time the ladies should go into mourning and wear sombre garb until hard-hearted men relent. Does she not see the dangers of this rash advice? First of all there would be an immediate protest from all handsome widows, resulting in a class war, and secondly there is the possibility that many vain sisters, suddenly discovering that black contrasted but poorly with the white of the outfit would be moved by jealousy or envy to become traitors to the cause by donning lighter shades. You're dealing with daughters of Eve, Eva, and you'll have to change your methods. Introduce nothing that will bring woman's political aspirations into close relationship with her vanity. The result would be disaster.

DEFINITE RAILROAD PLAN

The first annual report of the public service commission of the commonwealth of Massachusetts, just published, gives an official inkling of workable schemes of re-construction by which the depreciated railroad properties of New England may again be put on a proper financial footing. The three points emphasized most strongly are: the immediate separation of the New Haven and Boston and Maine; the abandonment of costly contracts such as those of the American Express company and the Pullman company; and the giving up of the trolley lines. These are in line with recent recommendations of the Boston chamber of commerce, the recommendations of the governor, and public opinion generally. If they are also the ideas of the legislature we may hope for some reconstruction of the much-abused lines in the near future.

The worst enemy of Secretary Bryan will not deny him the laurels for phrase-making. He has just paid the following excellent tribute to President Wilson: "No man ever took up his difficult task with as brave a heart or has pursued it with more tenacity." Mr. Bryan's mental kodak is working well.

So long as the snow lasts one of the chief troubles of Commissioner Morris will be met by putting applicants for city jobs to work, but the longer the snow lasts the smaller grows the appropriation. There are no gains without pains.

Society girls of Boston are making a house to house canvass to raise $15,000 by next Saturday to aid district nursing in Boston. We of Lowell know from experience how worthy the cause is.

Those distinguished speakers that come here can testify to the fact that we make good listeners.

Did your conscience hurt you, the least little bit while Detective Burns was speaking?

Larger, livelier, lovelier Lowell.

Seen and Heard

Two bad horse races had to be postponed yesterday for the weather was all that could be desired.

The man who leaves his horse unattended in the street while he visits a grocer for the purpose of "stanking up" should be made to change places with the horse.

And, by the way, Agent Richardson, don't consider the driver's or owner's feelings if a horse is being abused, even though they should represent a little property.

There is more truth than poetry in the stories told in police court.

Why order the bartender into police court for violating the bar and bottle bill? Why not bring in the proprietor?

THE STORY OF "MARKED DOWNS"

January and February are the months when retail clothing stores usually "mark down" prices of winter garments to get rid of left-over stock. It must be evident to any thinking man that clothes which are "marked down" near the end of a season, must have been "marked up" at the start of the season in order to give the retailers a larger profit on sales made when men needed the clothes.

P. & Q. Clothes are always marked down! P. & Q. prices—$10 and $15—for Suits and Overcoats, are the very lowest prices at which garments of such excellent style and integrity of quality can possibly be made and sold, to give even a small margin of profit to the maker. They are made possible because P. & Q. Clothes are never sold to dealers, but only through the makers' own stores, thus cutting out all extra selling expense and giving you the benefit of low-rock prices.

No matter where you go, what price you pay or at what time of year you buy clothes, you will never find values to equal what you can get in P. & Q. $10 and $15 clothes today and every day.

Mr. Leduc, the manager of the P. & Q. Clothes Shop at 48 Central street, in this city, closed the above interview by remarking: "In my many years of experience in the retail clothing business I have never seen such values as are now offered at the P. & Q. Clothes Shop for $10 and $15."

FALLING HAIR MEANS DANDRUFF IS ACTIVE

Thin, brittle, colorless and scraggy hair is a sure sign of a neglected scalp; of dandruff—that itchy, scurfy, itching scalp. There is nothing so destructive to the hair as dandruff. It robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life; eventually producing a feverishness and itching of the scalp, which if not remedied causes the hair roots to shrink, loosen and die—then the hair falls out fast. A little Danderine tonight—now—anytime—will surely save your hair.

Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and after the first application your hair will take on that life, lustre and luxuriance which is so beautiful. It will become wavy and fluffy and have the appearance of abundance; an incomparable gloss and softness, but what will please you most will be after just a few weeks' use, when you will actually see a lot of fine downy hair—new hair—growing all over the scalp.

There's a cozy little corner in heaven for the girl who, after a hard day's work, sweeps the snow from the fire escape and spreads bread crumbs for the sparrow.

The driver who walks up the hill in order to take a little off his horse's head need not retire feeling that the day was lost.

The public as a whole, is interested in this temporary loan business but they are sick and tired of the great mass of figures with which the modus operandi is being explained.

The Topsfield Historical society has been fortunate enough to secure the colonial dwelling built in 1683, for the Rev. Joseph Capen, during the dark period of witchcraft delusion, for their headquarters. All of the furnishings are either originals or patterns of the 17th century. Recently a supper was served by the society, the food being served on wooden trenchers and eaten with broad steel knives and pewter spoons. Some of these knives were 250 years old.

Farmers and sportsmen in Massachusetts will be interested in the report of the special investigation directed by the last legislature as to the desirability of the pheasant among our bird-folk.

The commissioners of fisheries and game hold the pheasant to be an exterminator of the most pests, a splendid object for recreational shooting and a desirable article of food. These qualities, the board asserts, offset any injury which the bird causes to crops.

The commissioners report that whenever complaint was received by them that pheasants were destroying crops, they sent an agent to kill at least one of the birds. The stomachs of the birds killed were examined and in each case the pheasant was found to have consumed more insects and pests than any other form of their food. The board therefore argues that it would be unwise to kill off a bird that is doing the work of extermination that would cost the state millions of dollars.

The latter part of December, a man came into the city clerk's office and secured a marriage license. Last week the same man came in and asked for another license and also that the $1 paid for the first license be transferred for the payment of the second license, as he did not intend to use the first one. When asked the reason he replied: "Oh the first one was too old. She was 34. This other one is 23 and it don't cost any more to get a young one while you're about it. Can I transfer the $1 paid for the first one to pay for this?" As he gave up his first license, the city clerk made the transfer. If that happened in "swell" society, I see where there would be a breach of promise suit filed against that swain. —Lawrence American.

The newest dance fad from Paris is the "tango." It's only 4300 years old. That's why it's so new. They have been dancing it in China since 2450 B. C., and the Chinese word means "awakened and awakened." In order to dance it one must be able to stand on one foot, then slide and dip with one knee almost touching the floor. It has a one-two effect and is something like the tango, only more so.

ABOUT MRS. ADAM (E. A. Birmingham in Los Angeles Express)

Mrs. Adam never danced. Mrs. Adam never flirted. Mrs. Adam never pranced. "Round the garden hobbleskirted. Mrs. Adam didn't roar. A demand for "votes for women." Mrs. Adam simply wore "Figures" when she went in swimming.

Mrs. Adam didn't dress in a gown that seemed to cling. Mrs. Adam I confess. Never wore a surplus thing. Mrs. Adam didn't care for the latest fashions in hats. Mrs. Adam didn't wear switches, curls or puffs or rats.

Mrs. Adam didn't do anything so very shocking. Never showed a foot or two of exquisite slither stockings. Mrs. Adam went about with minus any elken hose. Mrs. Adam went without much of anything in clothes.

Mrs. Adam didn't wear any fall ullette or feather. But she traveled here and there. Quite exposed to wind and weather. Mrs. Adam didn't go out to every swell fandango. Mrs. Adam didn't know anything about the tango.

Mrs. Adam didn't rave with a wild, unhampered passion. Nor how nicely like a star. To the stern demands of Fashion. Mrs. Adam couldn't rig up a dud to hide her back. And she didn't care. That her wardrobe was so slack!

EDITORIAL COMMENT

BERNHARDT AND THE LEGION. Lynn Telegram: It becomes her well, does this decoration of the legion of honor which has recently been bestowed upon Sarah Bernhardt, actress, whose name is known throughout the world. And she becomes it well, this woman before whom rules and subjects have bowed in admiration for supreme talent. The actress, living woman to whom this honor has been given is deserving of it and the world is glad that France has recognized her for her acting and for that quality which has brought thousands to her feet.

CAMPAIGN COST

Fall River Globe: Compared with the campaign expenditures of his two leading competitors for governorship but fall, those of Gov. Walsh as shown by his statement filed with the secretary of state, are exceedingly modest, being a little more than $1600, while those of Messrs. Gardner and Bird were each more than 20 times as large, and what is more, unnecessarily so.

LAURIE AND BORDEN

Worcester Post: Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in his vigorous attack on the Borden government at the opening of the Canadian parliament this week, also told of hard times. Not fewer than 10,000 men, he declared, "are asking for employment." He charged the government with a do-nothing policy and intimated that the need is for wider markets.

THE WRIGHTS HONORED

Providence Tribune: The United States circuit court of appeals, sitting in New York City, has decided an airplane case in a way which recognizes the Wright brothers as the true pioneers in the navigation of the air. The suit was one of great importance to aerial science as well as to the estates of the Wrights. As sweeping decisions already had been made in favor of the Wright brothers in Germany and France, the position of these Americans as leaders of their craft seems beyond attack.

HOW OFFICER SHOT SHEA

WITNESS DESCRIBES CHASE AND SHOOTING OF YOUNG MAN BY BOSTON POLICEMAN

BOSTON, Jan. 22.—Thomas F. Murphy of 208 Shawmut avenue, a carriage washer, described the pursuit and shooting of Ralph P. Shea by Police Officer W. Miller of the Lagrange street station to Judge Chase and a jury in the Suffolk superior court yesterday, where Miller is on trial for manslaughter.

Murphy said that while at his work at Timmins' stable on Warrenton street at 1.30 a. m. on June 17 last, he heard sounds of a quarrel on Elliot street, around the corner.

He started to the place and had just turned into Elliot street from Warrenton when Shea, followed by Officer Miller, came running past him into Warrenton street.

"Then," said Murphy, "just as Shea turned the corner from Elliot street into Warrenton street, Miller followed him and as they passed me, the officer fired a shot at Shea."

"I was about 15 feet away from the officer when he fired this first shot. I ran after them. Shea dodged onto the sidewalk and Miller fired another shot at him. Shea was then about 200 feet ahead of the officer. Shea continued and ran into the doorway at 105 Warrenton street. No one was running with Shea or in front of him at the time and no one ran into that doorway ahead of him.

"When Miller got to the door, where Shea ran in, he fired another shot from his revolver from just outside. The gun was in his right hand and his left hand was in his left hand."

"I was within 10 feet and back of the officer at the time and I was looking directly into the doorway, but couldn't see anything. It was too dark."

"After the shooting," Murphy said, "Miller went to the police box and a short time later two other police officers came to the spot and Miller said to them, 'I don't care where you take him, get him there as soon as you can.'"

"The boy was dead at the time," Murphy said. "I was standing within five feet of him when they brought him out."

"Was the shot fired before Miller went in to the doorway?" asked Attorney Feeney in cross examination.

"Before," replied the witness. "Didn't you say at the lower court hearing, when that question was asked you, that the shot was fired when Miller went inside the doorway?" asked Mr. Feeney.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Webber stated that Murphy's answer to the question at the lower court hearing was that the shot was fired before Miller entered the doorway, according to his stenographic report of that hearing.

Attorney Feeney's stenographic report of the hearing was that the witness had stated at that hearing that the shot was fired after Miller's entering the doorway.

Mr. Feeney contended that his record had been made by an official court stenographer, while Mr. Webber said the record he was using was made by the police stenographer.

DR. MITCHELL'S FAME
An incident, variously related, serves better to indicate the fame of Dr. Mitchell's eminence as a physician. This is the version as attributed to Dr. Mitchell himself:

"An American, suffering from some nervous disorder, journeyed to Italy to consult a celebrated Italian neurologist."

"But you are from America?" said the Italian.

"Yes."

"Why not, then, take the Vermicelli treatment?"

"What's that?" inquired the patient.

"What! You don't know the treatment of the famous Dr. Vericelli?"

And the Italian sent the American home to be cured.

The story as related by friends of Dr. Mitchell is to the effect that the physician himself, while visiting Paris, suffered a recurrence of a nervous ailment attributed to overwork. Without divulging his identity, he called on a specialist with whose name he was familiar as being that of a man famous in both hemispheres.

"I see that you are an American," remarked the French physician, after some preliminary conversation.

"Yes," replied Dr. Mitchell. "I am."

"And from where city do you come?" inquired the Parisian.

"Philadelphia," said the visitor.

"And do you mean to say that you, a resident of Philadelphia, come to me to be treated when there resides in your home city the most famous nerve specialist in the world?" exclaimed the Frenchman.

"To whom do you refer?" asked the visitor.

"To Dr. S. Weir Mitchell, of course," replied the specialist, "and to think that you have never heard of him!" he exclaimed in conclusion, raising his hands in astonishment.

TO COMPLETE HIGHWAY GET ACQUAINTED

State Will be Asked to Complete the River Road—Commissioner Barlow Interested

There is a bare possibility that the county commissioners may direct Lowell to complete the river road. The uncompleted stretch lies between First street and the farther end of Indian orchard, a distance of a mile or so. If the commission should order the city to build this stretch the city would have to pay for it.

Commissioner Barlow thinks there is another and a better way out of it. He suggests that the municipal council ask the legislature to have the highway commission complete the road and if this should come to pass the city would not have to dig for the expense. The state could pay 75 per cent and the county 25 per cent of the expense and the state would have to maintain the road. Mr. Barlow believes that the road should be extended down through Indian orchard rather than to go over the hill. Mr. Barlow intends to talk the matter over with Chairman Sawyer of the highway commission.

Enjoyable Social Held at the First Baptist Church Last Night

The Baraca class of the First Baptist church held a "get acquainted" social last night, and the affair proved both helpful and entertaining. There was a goodly number of young men present and they wore their names on white tags pinned to their coats.

Rev. H. S. Pinkham was master of ceremonies. The musical program for the evening included vocal and instrumental selections, and an excellent phonograph recital under the direction of Clayton Furr.

Refreshments were served and then a visit was made to the bowling alleys, where the First Baptist and the Calvary Baptist teams were having a match with ball and pin. The officers of the class are: President, A. E. Willis; vice president, T. A. Whelan; secretary, A. H. Dows; treasurer, G. K. Tropic.

The class is made up of representative business men and clerks, about 69 of whom were present last evening. The Philanthropic class of girls at the First Baptist church also held a social last evening and enjoyed a very fine program. Mrs. Alice Schofield, Mrs. Morris Johnson, Mrs. G. W. Hunt and others contributed to the program, which was followed by refreshments served under the direction of Mrs. Morris Johnson and a competent committee.

MESSAGE BEARS FRUIT WOMAN BURNED TO DEATH

SPONSIBLE FOR BILL TO CURTAIN
INTERSTATE TRADE COMMISSION

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—President Wilson's message to congress, suggesting anti-trust legislation, supplemental to the Sherman law, which would eradicate evils of big business and commercial activity, bore its first fruit yesterday when a bill to create an interstate trade commission was introduced in the house.

Following a conference between Attorney General McReynolds, Senator Newlands of the interstate commerce committee, Rep. Clayton chairman, and other members of the legislative sub-committee, Mr. Clayton submitted the measure and it was referred to the interstate and foreign commerce committee. An effort by Senator Newlands to introduce the bill simultaneously in the senate was blocked by Senator Smart, owing to debate on the Alaska railroad bill.

HOW YOU MAY THROW AWAY YOUR GLASSES

The statement is made that thousands wear eyeglasses who do not need them. If you are one of these unfortunate, then these glasses may be ruining your eyes instead of helping them. Thousands who wear "wind-downs" may prove for themselves that they can dispense with glasses if they will get the following prescription filled at once. Get to any optician and state and get a bottle of Opton; fill a two-ounce bottle with water and drop in one Opton tablet. With this harmless liquid solution bathe the eyes two to four times daily and you are likely to be astonished at the results right from the start. Many who have been told that they have astigmatism, eye-strain, cataract, sore eyelids, weak eyes, conjunctivitis and other eye disorders, report wonderful benefits from the use of this free prescription. Get this prescription filled and use it; you may so strengthen your eyes that glasses will not be necessary. Thousands who are blind or nearly so, or who wear glasses, would never have required them if they had cared for their eyes in time. Save your eyes before it is too late! Do not become one of these victims of neglect. Eyeglasses are only like crutches and every few years they must be changed to fit the ever-increasing weakened condition, so help us see if you can, like many others, get clear, healthy, strong, magnetic eyes through the prescription here given.

Millions Now Know MUSTEROLE

They used to put up with the mess and the bother of mustard plasters. For, after all, nothing gave such immediate, such lasting relief as the old-time mustard plaster. It smarted, and blistered like all get-out, but it surely did the work. Science now has combined the amazingly curative properties of mustard with other ingredients into a wonderful ointment. It is called MUSTEROLE. And it does what mustard plasters used to do, without the plaster, and without the blister!

You just rub MUSTEROLE in. That's all. Then watch how soon the

MRS. CATHERINE ROONEY, AGED 62 YEARS, PERISHED IN CELLAR OF HER HOME.

BOSTON, Jan. 23.—Too feeble to escape or extinguish the flames that enveloped her, Mrs. Catherine Rooney, 62 years old, a sister of Representative Michael Sullivan of Quincy, was burned to death in the cellar of her home in that town some time yesterday.

The woman, left alone in the house, had apparently tried to light the furnace, and in her weakness collapsed on the cement floor of the cellar, when her dress caught.

Without exploding a big can of kerosene within a few feet of her, or even scorching the rafters overhead, her body must have smoldered there for hours, the firemen say.

The accident was discovered by a son, Joseph Rooney, when he returned last evening to their home at 30 Bates avenue. For half an hour he searched the house and shouted for his mother. He even went into the cellar, but peering about in the half darkness, did not see the body.

At last he made a more careful investigation and discovered the tragedy. Medical Examiner Dr. Jones of Quincy and firemen were hastily summoned by the almost distracted son.

CHARGED WITH SELLING "DOPE"

BOSTON, Jan. 23.—The proprietors of two South End drug stores and two drug clerks were arraigned in the municipal court yesterday on the charge of unlawfully delivering cocaine and heroin. They were the first of nearly a score of men whose arrests have been brought about during the past two weeks as a result of action by the New England Watch and Ward society.

Owing to the fact that their counsel, John J. Peers, was engaged in another court, Judge Ely continued the cases until Feb. 4.

Make Hairs Disappear Almost Like Magic

Advocates of the electric needle for removing stubborn hairy growths now concede that a simple paste made with powdered delatone and water is fully as efficacious and is devoid of pain. While the cost is trifling, the delatone paste is left on the hairy surface about two minutes and when it is rubbed off all traces of hair vanish. Washing leaves the skin so soft, smooth and spotless. Be careful to see that it is delatone you get or you may be disappointed with the result.

Cured His RUPTURE

I was badly ruptured while lifting a trunk several years ago. Doctors said my only hope of cure was an operation. Trusses did me no good. Finally I got hold of something that quickly and completely cured me. Years have passed and the rupture has never returned, although I am doing hard work as a carpenter. There was no operation, no loss of time or trouble. I have nothing to sell, but will give full information about how you may find a complete cure without operation. If you write to me, Eugene M. Tuller, Carpenter, 568 Marlborough avenue, Marsden, N. J. Better cut out this notice and show it to any others who are ruptured—you may save a life or at least save the misery of rupture and the worry and danger of an operation.

Cong. Adamson Leading Factor in President Wilson's Plan

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—Congressman William C. Adamson of Georgia is chairman of the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce and as such is a leading factor in President dent Wilson's campaign to enact stringent anti-trust laws. Congressman Adamson is supporting President Wilson in promoting legislation calculated to send corporation heads to jail when they operate illegally in restraint of trade.

REMOVING THE SNOW

Commissioner Charlie Morse put 389 men to work this morning and though it isn't snowing in Lowell today the snow is flying just the same, for a big majority of the 389 men are wielding the shovel. Others are swinging the American anchor, sometimes called pick, and a few bosses, not many, are looking on.

"Yes, sirs, we are making the snow fly today," said Charlie as he unbuckled his tall overshoes and lit a cigar. "I have 389 men and 60 double teams at work and they are moving some snow, believe me. Eighteen of the sixty teams are supplied by the Bay State Street railway. Mr. Farrington told me last night that his company would supply eighteen teams for the removal of snow, but I must confess that up to the noon hour I hadn't succeeded in locating more than 12 of the eighteen teams. There are streets that I didn't get to, however, and I was told there were teams in the streets not visited by me. I know Mr. Farrington is a man of his word and I am satisfied that the 18 teams have been placed all right. There won't be much snow left in the busy parts of the city when we get through today."

"The removal of the snow, as I told you yesterday, does not constitute the big cost of a snow storm. The gutters represent a greater cost than does the removal of the snow. You can imagine the condition the gutters would be in if it should rain today or tomorrow. It is practically impossible to keep all the gutters clean and when the rain comes—good night! If you haven't got your gutters in good shape before the rain comes there's going to be something doing and it's going to cost a whole lot of money. But we must make up our minds to take things as they come and let it go at that."

Storage of Gasoline
At the meeting of the municipal council yesterday Commissioner Carmichael spoke about the storage of gasoline, the possibility of danger and the great necessity of the use and storage of it being looked after very carefully. He thought it would be a good plan to have the fire chief examine, at intervals, places where gasoline is kept and also to have the chief or someone appointed by him examine, monthly, places where large amounts of gasoline, kerosene and other inflammable materials are kept. Mr. Carmichael's suggestion received the unanimous approval of the board and he has addressed the following letter to the chief of the fire department:

Jan. 22, 1914.
Mr. Edward F. Saunders, Chief Fire Department, Lowell, Mass.:
My Dear Mr. Saunders—I wish you would examine with regularity, either by yourself or some official of the fire department, places where gasoline is kept, and report to me, and also keep a report on file with whatever recommendation you may think necessary for the safety of the neighborhood where gasoline is kept.

I would also like to have you or an official appointed by you examine the monthly places where large amounts of gasoline, kerosene and other inflammable material are kept in the city of Lowell. Send a report of the condition of places to me, and keep a report on file at your office, with any recommendation you may believe will lessen the cause of fire or about the premises where such goods are kept.

Yours very truly,

(Signed)
James H. Carmichael, Commissioner of Water Works and Fire Protection.Hard Lines These

There's a man in New Hampshire, a man of the cloth, too, who would make an Oriental trip if he could prove his title clear to American citizenship, but up to date it doesn't look very good for him. He wants to set sail Feb. 2 and has failed to obtain the necessary passport, because of lack of evidence of citizenship. He addressed a letter to City Clerk Flynn, asking for his assistance. The good man of the gospel lived in Lowell some 20 odd years ago and his father, he states in the letter, took out his naturalization papers here. The man in New Hampshire says that he and his father lived here about 15 years and that his father worked in Dugdale's mill. It is very evident that the man from the Granite state came to this country as a boy and has never been naturalized. It is argued that he would not require his father's naturalization papers in order to obtain passports. The city clerk has looked up bill and down date for the much-needed naturalization papers, but has failed to find them. His has been a diligent but useless search and, being a very kind-hearted man, he feels rather badly about it. There is food for reflection, however, in his little story. There's many a man in Lowell who would like to make the Oriental trip if he had the money. They could prove their title clear to citizenship all right, but the long green—that's the rub. On the other hand, the New Hampshire man has the long green, but "sans" on the other paper. Ischikabib!

Industrial Accident Board

The industrial accident board will give a hearing in the councilmanic chamber at city hall tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock. It will be an arbitration hearing under the Workmen's Compensation act and Commissioner James H. Carmichael has been selected as one of the arbitrators. Mr. Dickinson will appear for the board. When the board wants to hold a hearing in Lowell it addresses a letter to City Messenger Monahan asking him to please arrange for the use, by the board, of the councilmanic chamber. The letter never contains any details as to the nature of the case to be heard, but all cases under the Workmen's Compensation act are, in a way, quite similar.

MORTON MILLS CLOSED

The Morton Mill Co., manufacturers of narrow silk fabrics, a firm that has been doing business in Lowell for over a year, with a payroll of about $2500 a week and a force of about 150 employees, has suspended all operations and now the superintendent of the plant, Richard Godfrey, is the only man about the premises and his duties are to liquidate and sell out the machinery as fast as purchasers can be found.

The financial condition, according to the superintendent, is good and the liquidation is a voluntary one, the cause of it being, that a suitable plant for the manufacturing of silk fabrics could not be located in Lowell. The company decided to liquidate last November and immediately the force of employees was reduced and as fast as the remaining orders were filled in more help was released. The last clerk and laborer in the employ of the company were discharged Tuesday and now when a lot of machinery is sold, outsiders are hired to pack it in cars for shipment under the supervision of the superintendent.

The company owns a large manufacturing building in Paterson, N. J., where its headquarters were formerly located. The plant while located at Paterson was running full time and the company had no trouble in securing experienced help. Labor troubles arose, however, and finally it was decided to move the machinery to Lowell and accordingly a spare building of the Hamilton Mfg. Co. in Jackson street was secured. Several experienced hands were brought to this city and local help was hired and at one time when the plant was under the direction of Former Superintendent B. J. Clark, about 150 people were employed and the payroll was about $2500 a week.

The company had a hard problem to solve, and that was the drying of the silk, for no plant that could do the work properly could be found in this vicinity and the goods had to be shipped to Paterson and then returned to Lowell, and that meant considerable expense. The Lowell plant, according to the present superintendent, has not the required daylight for silk manufacturing and the result was that the help would work a few weeks and as soon as they became efficient, their eyesight troubled them and most of them would seek employment elsewhere.

Richard Godfrey, the present superintendent, took charge last August, when Supt. Clark went to Worcester, and three months later he was given orders to refuse all new orders and close up the business. Mr. Godfrey stated this morning that the company was doing excellent business but the profits were very small.

Sidney B. Wetheimer of New York, a silk manufacturer, so stated Mr. Godfrey, called at the plant a few days ago and made an offer for the entire machinery, his intention being to start up a new plant on the same basis in this city. The offer was turned over to the treasurer of the Morton Mill Co., H. C. Whitcher, but as yet nothing definite has been done. Mr. Godfrey does not know just how long it will take him to liquidate, but he is hurrying things along and it may be but a few weeks before the plant is vacated.

FORTUNE COMING

To Michael Keefe if He Can Prove His Title
Clear

Michael J. Keefe is engaged in the street department at the present time, but it looks as if the day were soon to dawn when, perhaps, he would say adieu to the position which he now occupies and enjoys. Of course this has all the uncertainty of green fields far away, but it looks pretty good for Michael J. just the same.

Some time ago the came a letter to city hall from Dr. Howard of Mount City, Ill., in which it was stated that a fortune awaited the heirs of one Johanna Keefe, who lived in Lowell years ago and who was supposed to have relatives still living here. The letter was published in full in The Sun and it caught Michael J. Keefe's eye. He had heard a great deal about a relative, Johanna Keefe by name, and he proceeded to investigate.

Mr. Keefe, after looking up the records and satisfying himself that there was some connection between the Johanna Keefe mentioned in Dr. Howard's letter and his, Mr. Keefe's relative, he turned the matter over to Col. Carmichael, now Commissioner Carmichael, and the latter proceeded to communicate with Dr. Howard. Several letters were received from the doctor and evidence of the fact that he believed he had discovered the rightful heir or heirs was received this morning in a request from him for full power of attorney to complete the investigation and go through with the case in all its details. Mr. Carmichael has taken the matter under consideration.

REWARD OF $5000

Offered for the Apprehension of a Murderer, Wanted by the Police of Winnipeg

Do you know John Krafencko, alias Pearl Smith, a wrestler of wide reputation. If so, try and locate him and then turn him over to the Winnipeg Manitoba, police and collect a reward of $5000 for your trouble.

Krafencko is wanted by the Canadian police for the murder of H. M. Arnold of Plum Coulee, Manitoba, who it is alleged he murdered last December after robbing the Bank of Montreal. He was arrested at the time but on Jan. 10 he made good his escape. An additional reward of $2000 is offered for the conviction of persons who aided him in his escape. It is believed that the so much sought murderer has wrestled in this state under the name of Smith.

TO PROSECUTE TEAMSTERS

President of Mass. Society For the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals Issues New Order

The agents of the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals have been ordered by President Rowley of the society to arrest on sight any drivers of overloaded teams. It is stated that many complaints have been sent to the various humane societies efforts to draw heavily loaded wagons, and this is the reason the new order was issued.

Agent Richardson of the Lowell Humane society said: "Although we are always on the watch for drivers who abuse their horses by overloading their wagons, we have very little trouble in Lowell. All of the steep hills in the city are particularly well looked after, especially during the poor traveling weather, but local men show very little carelessness in loading their wagons. What trouble we have met with has been with the coal teamsters who start out with heavy loads and when they reach a bad spot become stuck. We have always tried to educate the people by advice instead of prosecuting them."

Athletes and Athletics

Lebrun of the Crescent bowling team, rolled in form last night which would give him an entire new pin tournament in the country. His total of 350 for three strings is a record which is very seldom eclipsed in these parts.

Alec McLean is making negotiations for Gilbert Gallant with the best boys of his weight along the Pacific coast. Since Gallant defeated "One Round" Hogan in 20 rounds at Salt Lake City, McLean has rushed him right along. It would not be surprising at any time to hear of McLean challenging Willie Little for the championship, which remark reflects in no disparaging way upon Gallant's ability as a ring artist, but simply comments upon the assurance of said Alec McLean and his protégé, who are still in "Prisco."

Manager Jimmy Gray of the local baseball club has finally traded Pete Clemens. Pete will go to Wichita, Kansas, and in exchange the Lowell club will receive two players, Burke, a second baseman, and Waycob, a catcher. Burke will be 267 last season and Waycob hit for .264. Wichita is a class A team and the caliber of the two men should help out the local club to a great degree. Burke was originally an outfielder and has played every position in the infield as well as the pastures.

There will be some great high jumping at the B. A. A. games this year.

Alma Richards, the winner of the event at the last Olympiad, sent in his entry yesterday. Against him will be pitted such men as Johnstone, the Harvard jumper, who has been seen on several occasions here in Lowell, and Barwise of the Unicorn club.

It looks as though Catcher Kilmer has at last started the row between organized ball and the outlaws. Kilmer was signed up by the Federals, but last night attached himself to the Philadelphia Nationals for three years. It will now be a battle royal between the two leagues. Gilmore and his band of Federal league managers are fearing like so many enraged bulls and threatening dire revenge upon the Phillies.

Manager Bill Carrigan of the Boston Red Sox will start on the southern training trip in about a month. The squad will not go in a body at that time, although Bill will take along his pitchers, staff. The Red Sox will make the Hot Springs their first stopping place. The "Pride of Lexington" says that he is certain that the Red Sox will be close to the top this season and that, barring accidents, they should win the pennant. Before the season opens we will hear seven other teams of like nature from American league managers.

BANKERS MUST HURRY

APPLICATIONS TO ENTER NEW SYSTEM MUST BE FILED WITHIN 60 DAYS OF PASSAGE

The secretary of the treasury at Washington has issued a statement to the effect that all national banks must signify their acceptance or non-acceptance of the terms of the new currency act within 60 days from the time of its passage. The state banks and trust companies are not compelled to file their intentions within any time limit.

A part of the act reads as follows: "Under regulations to be prescribed by the organization committee, every national banking association in the United States is hereby required, and every eligible bank in the United States and every trust company within the District of Columbia, is hereby authorized to signify in writing within sixty days after the passage of this act its acceptance of the terms and provisions hereof."

According to reports from Washington over 4000 banks have already made legal application for membership in the new system, and if applications continue to reach the treasury at the present rate there will be close to 6000 by the end of the week. There are 7500 national banks in the United States and a present indication points to 10,000 before the approval of the act on Dec. 22, 1913, 83 trust companies and state banks have expressed their desire to join the new system.

EXCUSE ME

DANIEL O'LEARY AGAIN

THE VETERAN PEDESTRIAN
SANDPAPERS HIS FEET—WELL KNOWN IN LOWELL

The Washington Star has the following concerning Daniel O'Leary, the champion pedestrian, well known in this city:

Dan O'Leary, aged 70 years, steamed into San Francisco a few days ago and, after he had handed a letter to Mayor Rolph entrusted to him by the mayor of Portland, O'Leary added up his mileage and found that he had walked 101,537 miles since 1874, when he began his professional career as a walker. "And I have more gasoline left in my tank," chuckled O'Leary, after telling what a dolly walk he had down from Portland.

"Right now I would like to walk any man of my age in the world, Weston preferred. Tell you what I have been doing the last 40 years on my birth-days; walking as many miles as I am years old. Last birthday, when I hit the 70 mark, I stepped over to Mount Hood, a distance of about 70 miles, without any serious efforts."

O'Leary recalled some of his early triumphs which were effected in San Francisco. In 1876, in the old Horticultural hall on Stockton and Post streets, he walked 500 miles in six days, which was the first time any such thing was attempted. Later in the same year he defeated Henry Schmolz of Chicago, at Mechanics' pavilion, in a six-day match for $2,000 a side.

After that he walked all over the world including France, England, Canada and Australia. Some of his greatest triumphs were over Weston, whom he defeated three times, once being in England. In London, in 1880, in a six-day match, he beat Weston, 27 miles, which created no end of interest throughout the British empire. It created so much excitement that parliament adjourned the last three days to see the contest. Weston was backed by Sir John Ashley, a member of parliament. Although an American, Weston took sides with the English as against O'Leary, who was reared in Ireland.

The home rule question was at white heat, with Parnell leading the Irish forces. Ashley hung up a championship belt in addition to a side bet. The belt was to have been won three times. Dan beat Weston the first time easily, as already recounted. Second time Dan competed for the Ashley belt there were 20 Englishmen against him, and the odds were 20 to one against him. Because of poor health Weston declined the issue. Dan defeated the big field handily, walking 520 miles. Vaughan, the second man, negotiated 500 miles. At Smith, of New York, a plunger, won a fortune, taking Dan at 20 to one. In his third essay O'Leary was beaten by Rowell, who went go-as-you-please.

Dan was not built for the go-as-you-please style, and after this setback retired from this sort of hiking. His last strenuous contest was at Cincinnati in 1897, when he walked 1,000 miles in 1,000 hours. He walked a mile, rested the rest of that hour, then walked another mile, rested the rest of that hour, and so on for 1,000 hours, which was a most marvellous performance for a man of any age.

"I always keep my feet in first-class condition," said Dan, speaking of the art of walking. "I don't let any callouses grow on the bottom. By using a little sandpaper I file off any growth and the result my feet are soft, and smooth as glass. I never use one pair of shoes two days running. In fact, I used up six pairs coming down from Portland."

COMMON SENSE ABOUT COLDS

With a Little Care No One Need Ever Have a Cold

No. 3

If people could just get a plentiful supply of fresh air and enough exercise to keep the blood circulating properly there would not be any such thing as a cold.

But we don't get the fresh air—
And we don't take enough exercise—
We live in over-heated houses—
We ride in badly ventilated street cars—

We dress too warmly—
Our skin and the membranes of our throat and nose become over sensitive—

We are not able to resist the attacks of the cold microbes—

The first little unusual exposure to cold or dampness starts the shivers. We begin to cough and sneeze—

The invading army of microbes is at work.

Then is the time when delay is dangerous—
La Grippe, pneumonia, rheumatism, all follow in the train of a neglected cold.

When you feel those first shivery indications of a cold go to your druggist at once.

Ask him for a box of Hill's Cascara Bromide Quinine Tablets.

A few doses will knock out the cold in twenty-four hours.

La Grippe will be cured in three days.

We guarantee this—you can have your money back if it fails.

Hill's Cascara Bromide Quinine Tablets have been used by cold sufferers all over the world for fifteen years.

They are positively harmless, have no unpleasant after-effects and always do their work.

Be sure to get the genuine—the box with the red top and Mr. Hill's picture on it.

It is a standard remedy made by the W. H. Hill company of Detroit—all druggists have it—the price is 25 cents.

POLICE CAPTURE BANDITS

Quick Work by the Brookline Officers Lands 3 Armed Burglars Who Had $2500 Loot

BOSTON, Jan. 23.—Three armed burglars, two of them from New York and one of Boston, were arrested by five policemen of Brookline about 9 o'clock last night as they were concluding their work of looting the home of Mrs. Ella F. Bailey, 31 Kent square, Brookline.

When surprised at their work by the police the men had collected and placed in a box for removal $2500 worth of personal property.

Miss Nellie Kerrigan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Kerrigan of 26 Kent square, Brookline, observed three suspicious-looking men loitering about the Bailey residence a little after 8:30 o'clock. Assured from their continued inspection of the residence and the surroundings that they were bent on robbing the place, she telephoned the police station.

As these plans were being executed the front door opened. John Lester of New York city stepped forth into the open mindless of the presence of the policemen. Officer O'Connell drew his revolver and told him to raise his hands.

Officer Knowles, who was half way into the cellar through the window, heard the order, backed out of the window and ran to the porch, where he placed the handcuffs on Lester after taking a magazine gun from his pocket.

Officer O'Connell held Lester at the front door. Officers Knowles and Kelly entered the house and met Officer Wharton coming from the basement with a lighted lantern. The three searched the first and second floors.

Hiding Under Beds

Doubled up in a small space, they found Fred Downey of 221 Richmond terrace, New York city, hiding under one of the beds. Officers Kelly and Knowles went through the rest of the 15-room residence for the third man. He was found under a bed on the third floor, hiding behind the overhanging counterpane. He is James J. Stevens, 13 Harrison avenue, Boston. The house had been ransacked from top to bottom. A box 3 ft. long on the second floor was filled with the loot that the burglars were preparing to take away when they were surprised by the police.

prized by the police. The coats, gloves, and jewelry of varied descriptions were among the property.

The box and its contents were removed to the station. The cleanup is said to have been one of the most thorough and the quickest in the history of the Brookline police.

Mrs. Ella F. Bailey, had been visiting at the time. They identified their property at the police station.

Much of the loot that was found did not belong to the Baileys, and the police believe that the men had burglarized another place in the community before their capture.

APPROPRIATION BILLS

NEW YORK ASSEMBLY TO BEGIN INVESTIGATION ON MONDAY NEXT

ALBANY, Jan. 23.—The assembly ways and means committee, in which the annual appropriation bills originate, will begin next Monday afternoon an investigation of the state department in order to determine to what extent the appropriations for this year may be cut.

Assemblyman MacDonald of Franklin county, chairman of the committee, says that the plan was to limit the appropriations to the actual needs of the state.

"The ways and means committee will go ahead with the work itself instead of appointing a special committee and spending more money," declared Mr. MacDonald, "and it is confident of being able to produce satisfactory results. While it proposes to act on first hand information, it will seek such assistance as it may be able to secure not only from the comptroller and the department of economy and efficiency but from the heads of the various departments themselves and from the governor."

It is said that one result of the investigation may be a refusal on the part of the assembly leaders to include in the appropriation bill an appropriation for the efficiency and economy department. The appropriations for the state fire marshal's office and the state conservation committee may also be greatly reduced. Some of the republicans say they consider the fire marshal's office useless.

The committee will have its first hearing on Monday afternoon at 1 o'clock. It will obtain its information from the heads of departments and state officers and if this is not given voluntarily it will be demanded. The committee approved yesterday a resolution authorizing the chairman to issue subpoenas for such witnesses as in his discretion he may desire to have sworn at that time and to make all arrangements necessary in his discretion for the orderly conduct of said investigation. The committee will give special attention to the pay rolls, office contingent and traveling expense funds.

It is said that the first departments to be subjected to inquiry will be that of State Superintendent of Public Works Duncan W. Peck, the state fire marshal's office and the department of efficiency and economy.

Assemblyman Salmon Saffrin of New York, progressive, introduced a bill Wednesday providing that the municipal court judges shall assign one of their number to sit from 5:30 to 10:30 in the evening to hear cases of workmen seeking to collect back wages from employers if the amount involved is over $500. All the East Side improvement societies favor the bill, and other bill by Mr. Saffrin puts private banks under the state bank department for supervision.

Senator Torburg of Brooklyn introduced a bill providing that before any franchise is granted by the board of estimate and apportionment of New York, a public hearing must be held on the application. The hearing must be advertised ten days before the date set and the board is to make an investigation of the money value of the franchise and is to draw up a contract stating the terms upon which it is proposed to issue the franchise.

THE INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL

Splendid Chance Offered to the Young People to Learn Something Useful

With so much agitation over the proposed new building for the industrial school, it is interesting to learn the views of the principal, Mr. Thomas E. Fisher. According to him the new school building, would be one of the greatest educational benefits that could be provided for the young people of the city. At the present time both of the buildings now in use are filled to overflowing, while each day sees a large number turned away for lack of accommodation.

This, however, is not the only reason for advocating new and improved quarters. While the undertaking at first was more or less of an experiment, results have proved that the industrial school has come to stay. In the beginning endeavor was made to adopt a system that would be complete as well as simple. However, such progress has been made in this direction, that at the present time instead of advancing along these lines, much time is lost owing to lack of proper facilities. Not only time, but money is lost, as is evidenced by the greater expense involved for heating. This item alone is well worthy of consideration.

Since as it has been proven, the school has become an essential part of the educational system it should have at least the beginning of modern buildings. Several new departments should be added, so that students need not be limited to the work as at present taught. With the increasing number of students, this argument is readily understood.

Advises from Germany and France show great progress made in this branch of education. Germany especially being at the present time far in the lead of every other country. It can be readily understood what this branch of education means to the future generations of the United States will fall far behind in this work, unless opportunities are grasped in time. In this day of specialization, we, above all countries, should be in the lead with progressive ideas.

Some talk has arisen as to opposition to industrial schools by labor unions. Just why this is so seems hard to comprehend. In the first place they should realize that there are now no apprentice schools such as were provided in the past, and that some provision should be made for teaching those desiring of learning up the trade of work. It should also be very evident that in the industrial schools, pupils are taught with a definite purpose in view, that of completing in a thorough manner, a course which they have elected to learn. Advantage is given them of the latest improvements in all branches, so that at the expiration of their course, they are as well equipped as possible. In this way they will be in a position to command higher wages which are always willingly granted for skillful labor. Taking this viewpoint alone, it does not seem plausible that the labor unions should enter even the mildest complaint.

Recently several graduates of the industrial school have been placed in responsible positions and their work has been highly satisfactory to their employers. Needless to say, the records are being carefully watched by Mr. Fisher, whose interest does not cease when the pupil completes his course. It is a fact that at the present time less than one-half of those completing the grammar school course enter the high school. In the past their disposition has been to seek any position to be found. Without proper accommodations, the majority of those entering high school and desirous of continuing their education, could be and should be allowed some other means to equip themselves for higher years. With no set purpose in mind after the grammar school, very frequently young men find themselves, after several years of labor, entirely unfit for anything but labor. Their ambition in the meantime has faded, so that they are forced to accept whatever is offered them. With the advantages of a practical education under scientific

HIGH ST. CHURCH

The Annual Supper Attracts Large Attendance—Mayor a Guest

The vestry of the High Street Congregational church was the scene last night of the annual parish supper and there was a very large attendance. The guests were Mayor Dennis J. Murphy, Rev. Appleton Grannis, rector of St. Anne's church, and Rev. Raymond C. Clapp, pastor of the First Trinitarian Congregational church. There were brief speeches by the guests, the mayor speaking on municipal affairs, and the other two gentlemen on church affairs. Robert F. Marden was toastmaster. The business meeting was presided over by Rev. A. C. Fortin and Carl D.

DIED SUDDENLY

DETROIT, Mich., Jan. 23.—Neil W. Snow, probably the best all around athlete ever graduated from the University of Michigan, died suddenly in a physician's office here late last night. He became ill after vigorous exercise at racquets and was taken to the doctor's office, where he collapsed. He had the distinction of winning more varsity M's than any man, four in baseball, four in football and three in track.

For the last few years, Mr. Snow had officiated in some of the big eastern football games, acting as umpire last fall at the Harvard-Yale and the Yale-Princeton games.

NEW YORK MARKET			PRICE MOVEMENTS SMALL			BOSTON MARKET
High	Low	Close	At Opening	Good Demand For Bonds	and Stocks—Canadian Pacific Wm	High	Low	Close
NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—Although price movements early today were comparatively small, the market was dominated by the same forces which brought about yesterday's advance.
There was a good demand for both bonds and stocks, with indications of an increased volume of investment buying. Reading opened fractionally lower, but made up its loss. Canadian Pacific was heavy. Otherwise the leading shares were higher. Gains of about a point were made by North Pacific, International Harvester, Pittsburgh
Coal and American Agricultural Chemical. In the bond market a block of 25,000 4 1/2's of 1915-20, convertible bonds changed hands. Southern Pacific convertibles and Interborough Metropolitan 4-1/2's rose 1-1/2.
The market tended toward a higher mark during the morning, and the two markets for the present advance were reached. The success of the state bond issue, reduction in discount rates by the bank of England and the bank of Germany and the steady outside demand for stocks were obviously bulliss factors. Trading far outstripped yesterday's volume for the corresponding period. Among specialties and high grade investments, stocks there were gains of between one and two points. The market was active in most cases to fractions, on account of the pressure of profit-taking sales.
Dealings in bonds were on the largest scale of any day for nearly two years.
Speculative buying of obscure stocks, which had not figured in the week's improvement, became more active in the afternoon. Leading stocks, especially Reading and Union Pacific, also rose vigorously. An indication of the improved investment demand was the announcement that the syndicate which yesterday purchased the $51-000,000 issue of New York state bonds had sold the entire amount. The general upward movement became more pronounced when a block of 10,000 shares of United States Steel was purchased at 65. Later it went to 66.

11 o'clock and the gathering consisted of 20 men, all friends of the visitor, and indeed it was a pleasant affair. A varied musical program was rendered and a dainty luncheon was served by Mrs. Ricard, who was highly complimented for the excellent menu prepared. In the course of the night interesting remarks were made by Mr. Gravel, W. P. Calise, Jr., of the school board, Frank Ricard and others, while musical numbers were given by Messrs. Gravel, Calise and E. J. Laroche.

Mr. Gravel is one of the busiest men in the Canadian metropolis, for he conducts a large hardware, wholesale and retail house and is a member of 61 different social and mutual organizations. He has the distinction of being the first French-Canadian to join the Knights of Columbus in Canada, he being the father of the K. of C. in the Dominion. He organized the Canadian council, which now counts over a thousand members and a few years ago he was transferred to Lafontaine council, which has a membership of 1400. To the writer Mr. Gravel said that when he arrived in Lowell yesterday he purchased a copy of the Sun and the first item he set eyes upon was the account of the funeral of the fourth degree, K. of C., which was held in this city Tuesday night, and he was really pleased to learn there was a Knights of Columbus council in this city.

Among those present at the reception at the home of Mr. Ricard were the following: Ludger Gravel, Montreal; Charles E. Babin, Worcester; Dominic Ouellette, Alfred S. lawyers who will direct the campaign are rapidly preparing for defense or offense as developments require, according to President Gilmore, who returned yesterday from Cincinnati. He refused to discuss the report that the Toronto franchise might be transferred to Cincinnati, though other leaders of the new league seemed to think it likely that such a transfer would be made. "I expect the league will start the season with the present lineup," said Gilmore.

Except that the league in time of peace had prepared for war, Gilmore would not discuss any plan of action which may result from the signing of William Killefer by the Philadelphia Nationals after he signed with the Chicago Federals. Every point that might be made in court was watched for by the league officials today, however.

With this view, Charles Weeghman, the local club owner, refused to receive from a postman a registered package marked in one corner "William Killefer," and thought to contain Killefer's contract with the Federal league and the advance money said to have been given him by Weeghman.

Manager Joe Tinker of the Chicago club received a telegram yesterday from Brennan, which he believes indicated that Brennan will remain with the federals. The telegram quoted a message received by Brennan signed by Killefer and read as follows:

"The Thinker, Chicago. Telegram received this morning. I have stood out. Would advise you to take contract offered by Mr. Baker. Wire me this city. William Killefer." Was misled by him but will stick with you. Wire me immediately when I can see you.

(Signed) "Ad. P. Brennan."

To Keep the Skin Velvety in Winter

The skin is very susceptible to the harsh winds of winter, yet a complexion of velvety softness and divine fairness is easily attained in the coldest weather by using a plain mayatone lotion. This lotion should be used night and morning after cleansing and drying the skin carefully. It is made of little cost—just dissolve an original package of mayatone in one-half pint witch hazel. This is ideal for banishing sallowness, blotches, skin roughness and all discolorations.

BRYAN HAD STAGE FRIGHT

William J. Bryan, secretary of state, probably has made more speeches than any other living man, but he still is subject to stage fright. Just because his legs do not quiver like the G string on a guitar every time he gets up to talk is no sign he is at ease.

Mr. Bryan confided this shortcoming to Fred C. Kelly, a syndicate writer, the other day. In an interview Mr. Kelly quoted Mr. Bryan as saying:

"I get a hollow, sick feeling away down in the lower part of my stomach. Sometimes I have to go and lie down for a little while immediately before making a speech."

Mr. Kelly talked to Mr. Bryan while he was having lunch from a tray in his office in the state department and extracted a lot of facts heretofore unpublished. This is the way Mr. Kelly tells the story:

"When he made his first tariff speech in the house as a member of congress Mr. Bryan was scared—more scared, perhaps, than when he made his first appearance as a college orator a few years previous. And he has had that scared feeling in varying degrees at every important speech he has made since. It is reasonable to assume that he suffered two or three spells of stage fright at Baltimore a year ago last summer."

No matter what his nervousness, however, William Jennings Bryan always feels it in his consciousness that he will get through with it. He has never yet "forgot his piece" or had to retreat from the platform in disorder, and he has been speaking publicly since he first joined a school debating society at the age of 14.

Mr. Bryan got his real start as a speaker reciting his geography lesson when he was a youngster seven or eight years old. The way he rattled off his geographical facts was so cute that his parents often had him recite, not only for the family but for friends as well. He stood up with perfect confidence and stated simply:

"The Mississippi is the longest river on the American continent."
He was well worth hearing, and really showed promise of the wonderful oratorical power he was to acquire later on.

SOLICITOR ANSWERS SCHOOL COMMITTEE

Relative to School Appropriations
—Says Determining Factor is the Honest Application of the Rules of Good Sense

The first opinion by City Solicitor J. Joseph Hennessy for 1914 was issued today. The opinion has to do with schools and contains quotations from the constitution of the commonwealth. It was given in response to a request by the superintendent of schools for the solicitor's legal views concerning the intent of the law regulating appropriations of money by cities and towns for the support of public schools and the solicitor points out very clearly the duty of the school committee in the matter. He says that the one determining factor in estimating the limitation to be placed upon the amount of money to be appropriated for the support of public schools is "the honest application of the rules of good sense in ascertaining the amount to be expended by long established and good usage."

Mr. Hennessy's Opinion

The opinion reads as follows:

Jan. 22, 1914.
Hugh J. Molloy, Esq., Superintendent of Schools, Lowell, Mass.:

Dear Sir:—In response to your request for the opinion of the city solicitor concerning the intent of the law regulating appropriations of money by cities and towns for the support of public schools, and concerning any restrictions or limitations placed upon such appropriations as to the amount that may be requested by the school committee, and which may or may not be appropriated by the municipal council, the city solicitor submits for the consideration of the school committee the following:

The last paragraph in section 32, chapter 64B of the acts of 1911 provides that the school committee of the city of Lowell shall in the month of January in each year submit to the municipal council an estimate in detail of the amount deemed by it necessary to expend for its purposes during its financial year beginning with the first day of January.

I cannot find any limitation provided by law as to the amount of money to be expended for the support of public schools. It would be inconsistent with the provisions of law heretofore enacted to place any limitation upon the amount of money to be expended for the support of public schools because the constitution of the commonwealth has in no instance attempted to determine the amount of money to be expended for the support of public schools. There is a limitation, however, upon the kind of schools to be supported as well as the kind of instruction to be pursued and the number of weeks such schools shall be maintained.

The one determining factor in estimating the limitation as he placed upon the amount of money to be appropriated for the support of public schools is "the honest application of the rules of good sense in ascertaining the amount to be expended by long established and good usage."

And again he says: "It is a mandatory and compulsory obligation without restriction for cities and towns to raise money for the support of public schools, and that obligation must be discharged according to the views of the school committee as to the ability of the city to provide that support which it should determine."

One reading between the lines and the solicitor counseling the school committee not to ask for an extraordinary amount of money; but as much money as the committee can pull through with and meet the needs of the people.

Wisdom and knowledge, as well as virtue, abiding in each man, are the body of the people, being necessary for the preservation of their rights and liberties; and as these depend on spreading the opportunities and advantages of education in the various parts of the country, and among the different orders of the people, it shall be the duty of legislatures and magistrates, in all future periods of this commonwealth, to cherish the interest of literature and the sciences, and especially, public schools, and grammar schools in the towns, etc."

In commenting upon the above mandate of the constitution, Chief Justice Shaw said: "Though that provision does not prescribe a precise practical rule, which is usually not within the purpose of a constitution, yet it does announce, in clear and energetic terms, the object of that constitution to establish a free government sustained by an enlightened and educated people; that this should extend, as far as practicable, to all classes of the people; and for this purpose it is made imperative on the legislature who make the laws, and of the magistrature who may expound them, to cherish the interests of literature by public schools and grammar schools."

I submit the quotation of the learned jurist that you may appreciate the extreme obligation placed upon governments to maintain and support public schools.

Pursuant to section 15, chapter 25 of the revised laws, cities and towns are authorized and empowered to appropriate money for the support of public schools.

Section 22, chapter 42 of the revised laws limits the duty upon cities and towns to raise by taxation money necessary for the support of schools, and being obliged to raise by taxation money necessary for the support of schools, the city is compelled to appropriate such money.

Mandatory and Compulsive It is a mandatory and compulsive obligation, without restriction for cities and towns to raise money for the support of public schools, and that obligation must be discharged according to the views of the school committee as to the ability of the city to provide that support which it should determine. It alone possesses that discretion to determine what support shall be necessary within the needs of the people.

Section 51, chapter 64B of the acts of 1911 provides that the management and control of public schools shall be vested in the school committee, and since it alone has the discretion in the management of the public schools, and since it alone establishes the policy of such schools, the city is compelled to appropriate such money.

I would say, therefore, that it is your duty to make the estimates of the money required by the school committee for the support of the schools, and that it is the duty of the municipal council to appropriate such money as the school committee deems necessary for the maintenance and support of the public schools, keeping in mind always that the power of the school committee must be exercised in good faith and in keeping with the wants and needs of the people.

Respectfully,
J. Joseph Hennessy, City Solicitor.

CHICUAHUA, Jan. 23.—Rebels and federals today were concentrating their forces for a decisive battle of Torreon, the result of which will decide whether General Villa can push on into the Central and Southern states with his victorious army from the north. Villa sent several more troops south today. He thus far has succeeded in advancing the bulk of his army to Jimenez, half way to Torreon, without resistance.

There is every indication that the Huerta government is preparing to make a desperate resistance at Torreon, risking everything in a supreme effort to prevent Villa's army of 15,000 men from advancing further in the direction of Mexico City. General Refugio Valasco, federal commander at Torreon, has advanced his forces northward to Bermejillo and Nampul along the railroad. It is believed Valasco has been reinforced by troops from the east and south.

Villa in disposing his troops preparatory to the battle today planned to send large detachments south of Torreon to cut off the retreat of the federals to Mexico City.

Villa sent several more troops south today. He thus far has succeeded in advancing the bulk of his army to Jimenez, half way to Torreon, without resistance.

There is every indication that the Huerta government is preparing to make a desperate resistance at Torreon, risking everything in a supreme effort to prevent Villa's army of 15,000 men from advancing further in the direction of Mexico City. General Refugio Valasco, federal commander at Torreon, has advanced his forces northward to Bermejillo and Nampul along the railroad. It is believed Valasco has been reinforced by troops from the east and south.

Villa in disposing his troops preparatory to the battle today planned to send large detachments south of Torreon to cut off the retreat of the federals to Mexico City.

ARMED BANDIT ROBS SLEEPING PASSENGERS

Orders Two Porters to Assist Him in Work — Said "Tell 'em I'm a Real Robber With Gun"—Made His Escape

CHICAGO, Jan. 23.—With the assistance of a lone bandit held up four passengers on the rear sleeper of the Michigan Central passenger train due here from Detroit at 7:30 o'clock this morning. It was a serio-comic affair which netted the bandit something under $400.

The robber entered the train at Jackson, Miss., and left it about 15 minutes later when Louis Thomas, one of the porters, signalled for the emergency brakes.

T. Merritts, porter of the car attacked, was the first to view the robber, who pointed the pistol at him and handed him a bag.

"Here," said the intruder, who was dressed in a black and white check suit and wore a cap pulled down over his eyes. "You go ahead and wake the passengers. Tell 'em the robber wants their money. No monkey business."

"I've got three or four pals with me," Merritts took the bag, or hat, he is not sure which, but thinks it was a bag, and shook the occupants of the first berth he came to.

"Excuse me, sir, I'm the porter, but there's a man here says give him your money."

"Go Way and let me sleep," "Aw, shut up, quit your kidding; please go away and let me sleep," came the sleepy voice from the berth.

"Tell him I'm a real robber, with a gun," interposed the bandit, thrusting the pistol between the curtains. There was a trinkle of coins falling into the receptacle in the porter's hands.

From A. M. Todd of Chicago the robber got $135, from Herman Marks of Detroit $100 and from F. C. Palmer of New York an unknown sum.

"I don't know how much," said Palmer, "but it was what spare change I had with me."

There were about 20 passengers in the car and most of them did not know that anything had happened until they arose this morning. The robbery took place at 10:15 o'clock. There were no women in the car.

"When the porter told me a gentleman wanted my money," said J. Rhoades of Chicago. "I told him porters usually did. The next instant I found it was no joke, for the bandit pressed his pistol against my head. He got only a few dollars from me."

P. G. Savage of Detroit thought the robber boarded the train at Ann Arbor, Mich., instead of Jackson.

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—Stella Sharoff, aged 19, daughter of Felix Sharoff, a saloonkeeper of 50 Gold street, Brooklyn, fought with six robbers in her father's saloon early yesterday morning, when the men attacked Sharoff and escaped with $50. Sharoff was knocked unconscious and the girl's clothing was practically torn off by the invaders.

Four of six men were captured a few minutes later after a running fight with three policemen, in which several shots were fired and the entire neighborhood aroused.

Sharoff was just turning out his lights at 1 o'clock when six young men came in and began to attack the saloon keeper. His daughter ran to his assistance and Sharoff handed her a roll of bills, which the robbers tore from her hands, at the same time beating her rather unmercifully.

The robbers then ran from the place, but were followed by the police, four of them being taken into custody after a fight.

CATTLE SLAUGHTERED WITHOUT INSPECTION

State Police Had Dracut Man in Court—Fine of $20 Imposed—Defendant Claimed the Animal Had Been Killed by Rabbi

A Dracut slaughter house case was aired in police court this morning before Judge Knight in which Joseph Woloch was charged with slaughtering meat without the inspection provided by law. The defendant pleaded not guilty to the charge.

James M. Kingston, a state inspector, was the complainant in the case. The inspector testified that the defendant had in his possession the hind-quarters of a calf which had not been stamped by the inspector. Kingston said that the defendant had admitted to him that the calf had been knocked in the head and not killed according to the Jewish custom by the rabbi.

The inspector further stated that defendant told him the calf was slaughtered for George N. Parker for the use of himself and Parker. The inspector had not been notified of the killing and the local inspector was not present when the calf was killed.

The defendant said that the calf was killed by a rabbi and that he had never told the inspector that it had been killed otherwise. He said that his men had killed the animal without his knowledge. The beef, he said, was not for sale but for private use.

Mr. Parker and the men who work for the defendant testified as did Henry G. Coburn, the Dracut inspector. The Dracut inspector said that he was not present when the calf was killed and was not notified that it was to be slaughtered.

Judge Knight found the defendant guilty and ordered him to pay a fine of $20. He appealed and was held in $200 bail for the superior court.

ACCIDENT CASES HEARD

Industrial Accident Board Gave Two Hearings at City Hall—Woman Injured in Theatre

The Industrial accident board gave two hearings in the council chamber at city hall this forenoon and there was quite an array of medical as well as legal talent present.

The hearings in question were arbitration hearings under the workmen's compensation act and the petitioners sought to procure more assistance than was given them by the insurance companies or, in other words, that payments be continued beyond the date that they were dropped by the insurance companies.

Injured in Theatre The first case was that of Mrs. Mary Delaney who served for ten years in the capacity of matron at the Havana theatre. While at work there on Nov. 23, 1912, she fell over a pile of rugs and injured her knee. She did not go back to work for 24 weeks and during that time she was attended by Dr. James P. McDermott.

At the time of the accident, she was paid $10 a week and for the 24 weeks that she was away from her work she received 50 per cent. of her wages, or $5 a week, being paid $120 for 24 weeks. The benefit ceased at the expiration of the 24 weeks and Mrs. Delaney went back to work. She worked four days and had to give up again because, she said, her knee went back on her. She has not done any work since that time and she now seeks further compensation.

At the hearing this morning Edward J. Tierney appeared as counsel for Mrs. Delaney and Louis E. Doyle of Boston, for the Traveler Insurance Co. David T. Dickinson appeared for the state board. J. Joseph O'Connor was arbitrator for the insurance company and James H. Carmichael for the petitioner.

In attendance at the hearing was Miss Mary Lowney, who was recently appointed a local visitor or inspector for the state industrial accident board. Drs. C. E. Simpson and J. V. Melges were present in the capacity of witnesses.

The second case called was that of Frank Urbancuk, who was injured while at work for the Proctor Lumber Co. at North Chelmsford, in June, 1913, and payment by the insurance company ceased in October of the same year. He asked for a hearing on the question as to whether or not he was able to return to work. In the mean time Dr. Thomas F. Carroll examined Urbancuk and pronounced him all right for work. The doctor said in his report that Urbancuk would be better working than loading. At the hearing today William D. Regan appeared for the petitioner and Louis E. Doyle of Boston for the respondent. The arbitrator was as follows: David T. Dickinson for the state board, D. J. Donahue for the petitioner, and J. Joseph O'Connor for the insurance company.

C. S. Hunting Club

The regular meeting of the United States Hunting Cricket club and athletic association was held in the club house last evening. Considerable business was transacted and reports from officers and committees were read. The delegates to the state cricket league reported that 10 clubs had signified their intention of participating, but the hunting was the only club in the Merrimack Valley league to report. This matter was referred to the quarterly meeting, which will be held in the club house next Friday evening. The return visit from the Lawrence Social club will take place on Saturday evening, Jan. 31.

Knight of Columbus

Lowell council No. 12, Knights of Columbus, met in regular session in its headquarters, 25 Anne street, last evening with Grand Knight William F. Thornton presiding. During the evening 13 applications for membership were received and referred to the investigating committee. The committee in charge of the coming dance gave an interesting report and it was announced that Edward Slattery, Jr., had been chosen floor director. After the business meeting John H. McNabb who recently returned from a trip to Europe, gave an interesting account of his journey, which was very much appreciated by his listeners. A special meeting of the council will be held next Tuesday evening and the explanation of the first degree will take place.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

THE OPERA HOUSE

"Damaged Goods," a three-act drama written by Paul Irenaus of the Academy of France and translated from the French of Benjamin Blanchard was presented at the Opera House last evening. While all the seats in the house were not filled, the audience was a large one.

Because of the nature of the drama with which it deals, this play has been bitterly condemned and, as well, has been highly commended by the press and the public. As it was produced at the Opera House last evening, it seemed to the observer to be nothing more nor less than a lecture on the benefit of living cleanly and of the world results which inevitably follow the opposite course. It would be more appropriate for a hospital clinic than for the stage.

As was announced on the program and verbally on the stage, the object of the play was a study of this widespread ill-use in its bearing on matrimony. While it stated that it contained no scene to arouse disgust and might be witnessed by anyone this is a question of personal opinion. There are conflicting views on that question and each one is entitled to his opinion.

It is difficult for a newspaper to condemn a play whose obvious motive is to instruct and to convey a moral lesson and it is only this consideration that prevents an honest newspaper from outright denunciation of some features of "Damaged Goods."

As everything that is important in this world—seven newspapers—do some harm in accomplishing greater good, it is taken for granted that "Damaged Goods" does harm; but on the other hand it may prove to have beneficial results. It is true that in "Damaged Goods" there are many scenes and many passages which are extremely blunt and which undoubtedly might cause the fastidious to wince. Such is the case in the character of the "street walker" who tells her story of her degradation.

The opening scene is laid in a specialist's office, where George Dupont, a young man about to be married, is informed by the physician that he has contracted a horrible disease, that if not promptly checked, goes down from parent to child to the fourth generation and one which quite common, but so far as possible concealed. He is told that he must postpone his marriage four or five years in order that his blood may regain its purity. Dupont, who is married for money as well as for love, objects; he has arranged to be married in six months. To all his pleading to the contrary, the doctor is unrelenting; and hence George seeks the advice of a quack and is supposedly cured of the disease in six months. He marries and a baby comes into the world. But it comes infected with the awful scourge. He calls in his former specialist adviser, who demands that the baby be taken from its wet nurse, lest the woman be infected. Dupont and his mother object; so the doctor meets the objection by telling the name of her danger. She is thus saved from possible infection, but during the night between the two, the doctor and the nurse, young Mrs. Dupont inadvertently discovers that her husband and, from him, her baby are diseased. She seeks refuge and consolation at her father's house. The old gentleman visits the specialist, who advises him to keep his daughter and her husband separated for four or five years, during which period he guarantees to restore the husband to normal health. The old man agrees to this, and so the play ends.

It can be seen that the plot is not a very elaborate one, complicated only in fact it would seem that it was constructed solely with the purpose of driving home to the audience as much information, or more appropriately, instruction and warning, on this subject as could be compressed within the usual two or three hours of the average theatrical performance. If this is so, the purpose of the author has been achieved, for from the rise of the curtain until the fall it literally bristles with warnings against the horrors which come with sin and disease which doctors are to be believed as awfully common, especially in large cities.

Raymond Bond, Howard Hall, Arlene Hackett, Isabelle Winlocke, Mary Brown, George Hanson, Thomas Brown, Anne Ashley, J. D. Walsh and Destee Stamped were the actors. Headed by Howard Hall, who enacted the principal role, that of the doctor, they were adepts in their work.

NEIL O'BRIEN

No attraction announced by the management of the Lowell Opera House during the current season has stirred up a greater local interest than the engagement of Neil O'Brien, the popular and famous minstrel, who with his organization of fifty people will appear here Friday, Jan. 30th, matinee and night, in an entertainment of minstrelsy described by the most elaborate and largest production of its kind the American stage has witnessed since the inception of burnt cork comedy. O'Brien and his company are now

AN HONEST DRUGGIST

OFTEN GIVES GOOD ADVICE

It gives me great pleasure to take this method of thanking you for what Mr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root has done for my wife and at the same time to cheerfully recommend it to all sufferers from kidney trouble.

My wife had suffered terribly from kidney disease and had tried all kinds of patent medicines with no success, until a druggist recommended Swamp-Root. That brought the only relief she had had in years and she is now feeling better than she ever did before. I believe this is due entirely to Swamp-Root and stand firm in my statement when I say that Swamp-Root is the king of all kidney remedies. You have my consent to publish this statement at any time in the interest of humanity.

Yours very truly,

E. B. TINGLE,

Tecumseh, Nebr.

Subscribed and sworn to before me, this 14th day of December, 1911.

C. E. SMITH, Notary Public.

This is to certify that E. B. Tingle, of this city, has purchased Swamp-Root of its several lines.

SMITH DRUG COMPANY, Tecumseh, Nebr.

Letter to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Prove What Swamp-Root Will Do For You

Send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample size bottle. It will convince anyone. You will also receive a booklet of valuable information, telling about the kidneys and bladder. When writing, be sure and mention The Lowell Sun. Regular fifty cent and one-dollar size bottles for sale at all drug stores.

In their second season, as an organization, the success of which was unprecedented, assured from the start. As a star at the head of his own company last season Mr. O'Brien gained much renown and fame, and by his sincere efforts, combined with his brilliant accomplishments as a comedian, he has established a following of admirers who will doubtless give him a cordial welcome on his second annual visit.

MOVING PICTURES

Another of those big western thrillers from the Warner Bros. Film Co. is the feature offering at the Lowell Opera House today, "The Loyalty of a Savage," in three parts, and featuring "Joe" Miller, owner of "Miller Bros. 101 Ranch," tells a story of great heart interest, and proves beyond a doubt that all good Indians are not "dead" ones. Mr. Miller has surrounded himself with an excellent cast, including "Black Hawk," a wonderful Indian actress, and hundreds of Indians and a troop of cavalry. The scenario of the bill includes the latest releases of the Vitagraph, Biograph, Kalem, Klein and Esenay studios, and completes a program the equal of any offered in New England for the price of admission charged.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

Thousands of people have taken the opportunity to visit the B. F. Keith theatre this week, in order to see that most engrossing of protean sketches, "The Third Degree." It is not the same as the play which was produced here a few years ago, although it does deal with the efforts of the police to wrest a confession from the lips of an innocent man. Frank Mayne, an experienced actor, plays not fewer than seven distinct characters during the progress of the sketch. His support is adequate. Of a comedy character is the burlesque on military life called "Surgeon Lord, or, C. S. A.," produced by Imhof, Conn & Corcoran. For full 20 minutes there is a constant stream of fun. Lena Stephens, a gifted southern singer, a number of popular songs in good manner, and incidentally shows films of her dressing for each character, change. The Gladders are marvelous water jugglers, and Britt Wood is a droll fun-maker. Other things on the bill are Burns & Kissen, parodists; Pawley & Hunt, gymnasts, and the Pathe Weekly. Good seats may be obtained in advance for the remaining four performances. The number of the box office telephone is 23.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

The last week of the Merrimack

Square Theatre Players and the greatest of all their offerings will start at one and the same time the coming Monday afternoon when this popular company of entertainers will be seen in Shakespeare's immortal comedy "The Merchant of Venice."

Edward D'Oire well known as an accomplished portrayal of the great bard's works, will be seen in the character of "Shylock," and the management has also been fortunate enough to secure his entire $4000 production in which he starred the first of the season through the south.

Mr. D'Oire's Shylock is proclaimed an extraordinary interpretation by all who have seen it. He will be ably supported by the other members of the entire company and every effort has been made to have this—the last stock production at Lowell's favorite theatre—one to be pleasantly remembered by all. Special Sunday picture commencing Jan. 25th, "The Path of Her Father's," a two part Reliance and eight other reels.

THEATRE VOYONS

The exclusive service that the Voyons is running seems to meet with the approval of all those who are the critics of motion pictures. This service is very expensive but you are sure that you have never seen this show before at any other picture house. Every reel is a feature, and we also show the Pathe Weekly for the last three days of the week, making a full show of five features. On next Monday will be shown the greatest animal picture ever released at "This is a Seal" and is called "The Terror of the Jungle." There are 3000 feet of the most interesting film ever produced.

THE CASINO

There is only one band which furnishes music for roller-skating in Lowell—that's the Casino band. You will never know the thrill of the rollers until you skate to such music. Also you will never know real roller skating until you wear modern skates, ball bearing and copers. Bear this in mind when making your week-end plans for amusement and exercise combined.

THE OWL THEATRE

War and woe in the stirring, picturesque days when the first Napoleon was terrorizing Europe, forms the plot of "A Life for a Life," which will be shown at the Owl today and tomorrow. The scenes are laid in winter and some very beautiful bits of scenery are revealed. A tragic finale is one of the stirring features of this photograph.

summer, farmers are seen plowing their fields, painting houses and doing other kinds of work wholly devoid of the urgency that might justify a little work on Sunday. The state police will be asked to put a stop to all this unnecessary work.

Annual Meeting

The annual town meeting will be held on the first Monday in March and already the coming meeting is the topic of much discussion. It is believed that the "pay as you go policy" in the town's expenses, which was adopted two years ago, will be dropped this year. There is much dissatisfaction over this system, which, according to many resulted in a heavy increase in the tax rate. The first year this policy was put into effect the tax rate jumped from between $15 and $20 a thousand to $25.50. Last year there was a drop of 60 cents on the thousand; but that was not satisfactory to the heavy tax payers, who claimed they were overburdened. "If this policy is kept up a few years," said a taxpayer, "many of us will be driven to bankruptcy." This matter will be brought out at the meeting and in the opinion of many, the loan system will be resumed.

Building Ordinance

Another important matter will be an article that will be inserted in the warrant, calling for the appointment of a committee to draw up an ordinance regulating the construction of buildings on the principal thoroughfares of Dracut, Lakeview avenue and Mammoth road. This will be brought about to put a stop to the erection of shacks in certain parts of the town which are calculated to convey the impression that the town is a gypsy camp.

Ice Crop

H. A. Flanders, the ice man at Belle Grove is now enjoying a well earned rest after cutting about 100 tons of ice, the best seen for years. One of his houses is filled with ice about 14 inches thick, and in a few weeks if this weather keeps up, he expects to cut his second crop and fill up the other house, the capacity of which is 200 tons.

Fire Protection

The recent disastrous fire which destroyed the residence and stable of Jas. J. McManmon, florist, at Brookside, has caused considerable fear among the residents of the part of the town and the result is that they will advocate the purchase of a combination chemical, hose and ladder auto fire apparatus. At first it was thought advisable to make some arrangements with the Lowell fire department, but this is not feasible and accordingly there is a movement on foot to purchase a combination auto for the town and also make the department larger and more efficient. A fire auto located in the center of the town would protect all districts in a proper way and disastrous fires would not be so numerous.

Valentine Party

All arrangements are now complete for the valentine party which will be conducted in Harmony hall, Collinsville on the evening of Feb. 12.

The affair will be given under the auspices of the Sacred Heart league for the benefit of St. Mary's church. The hall will be beautifully decorated for the occasion and a delightful concert will be given by the Norton orchestra, while ice cream and cake will be served. The committee in charge consists of the following: Miss Lena Collins, secretary; Josephine Whelton, Alice Kennedy, Mrs. William Kiernan, Miss Bridget Maguire, Mrs. John McShea, Miss Margaret Fogarty, Miss Susie Fenlon and Miss Bridget Greaney.

Testimonial Party

Rev. Thomas A. Walsh, pastor of St. Mary's church, Collinsville, and several parishioners will go to Roxbury this evening to attend the testimonial party for the benefit of their church, which will be given under the auspices of the summer vacationists of Dracut.

who reside in Boston, Roxbury and Cambridge.
The affair will be held in A. O. U. hall and a large attendance is expected to be on hand. The arrangements are in charge of John F. Burns, William and Fred Crowley and Miss Minnie Dunn, the latter being secretary of the committee.

With Compromise

Some time ago the residents of Collinsville petitioned the public service commission in Boston to force the State Street Railway Co. to issue transfers on the Nashua line as far as Lakeview from any point in the city, but the demand was refused. There is now another petition in circulation and this time the petitioners are willing to compromise. They want the transfer privilege between Canney's corner and any part of Lowell as now in force morning and night.

London Police Think Murderer is a Passenger on Liner Grampian, Bound for Canada

LONDON, Jan. 23.—Wireless telegraph was brought into play yesterday to track down a suspected murderer who is supposed to be on board the Allan line steamer Grampian, now on her way from Liverpool to Canada, the first port she touches being St. John, N. B.

The victim of the mysterious crime was Kent Reeks, who until recently was engineer on board a United Fruit company's steamer, understood to be Sixola.
Reeks arrived in England on Jan. 17 and was found shot dead near Wolverhampton on Jan. 20. He had several hundred dollars of American bank notes in his possession and the money is missing.
Reeks is said to have made the acquaintance of a man from Chicago whose name has not been revealed, but whom the police are now inviting to communicate with them to see whether he knows anything of Reeks' movements.

STATE WIDE BURGLARIES

YOUNG BURGLARS CLAIM THAT PLANS WERE MADE IN CONCORD REFORMATORY

WORCESTER, Jan. 23.—That a systematic campaign of burglaries touching Worcester and a score of other communities in Massachusetts was planned within the walls of the Concord reformatory, and that that institution schooled one of the burglars to practically all the knowledge he has of vice, were statements made and largely substantiated in the superior criminal court yesterday while the sentencing of Kenneth Duncan and Leo Landry was under consideration.

Duncan and Landry pleaded guilty of a series of nine offenses of breaking and entering, on which they were indicted, in Gardner, Athol and Fitchburg, when arraigned before Judge Eugene A. Dubuque.

State Police Inspector McCarthy told the court that the men have been guilty of several breaks in Norwood and Watertown and that up and down the Merrimack valley they have made break after break.

Judge Dubuque asked Duncan if he had anything to say and it was then that the accusation against the reformatory was made.

"I don't ask for mercy," said Duncan, "but I do ask you not to send me back to Concord. I learned all that I know about crime there. I was a bad boy, but not very bad, and I got sent to Concord for about the first thing I ever did. I did not know really anything about crime until I went there, but when I came out I understood it all. I had learned. Concord is responsible for the record I have against me today. I expect to be punished, but I want you to know what Concord has done for me."

Dist. Atty. James A. Stiles said: "As nearly as I can learn, from these and other fellows—and I guess perhaps the information is correct—the gang that has been doing these breaks all over the state planned their while they were together in Concord."

Neither Duncan nor Landry asked clemency, but showed that they bitterly opposed going to the reformatory.

Judge Dubuque imposed sentences of not less than three nor more than five years in state prison at Charlestown, on each of the young men. The two are only about 24 years old, yet both have long records of crime, according to reports that were made to the court.

MATRIMONIAL

Mr. Theophilus Machon and Miss Harriette de Cacerat were married last night at the home of Mrs. John Torus on the Danstable road, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Franklin H. Reeves of the Congregational church in North Chelmsford. The bridegroom was Miss Harriette de Cacerat, while the bride was Mr. Philip Machon. After the ceremony a reception was held, followed by a supper. Later in the evening the happy couple left on their honeymoon trip to Boston and New York. They will make their home in Danstable.

Rep. John J. Gilbride of this city has been elected clerk of the legislative committee on election laws, a most unusual honor for a first year man.

HIGH SCHOOL BALL

The officers of the Regimental association of the Lowell high school will hold their annual ball this evening in Associate hall at 8 o'clock and the hearts of the juvenile school-going population are all keyed up in anticipation for the officers' ball is one of the greatest social events of the year. This year the preparations are in very competent hands, and it will be no fault of any of the principals if anything happens to mar the occasion. For all preparations have been made with exactness and thoroughness. Sundry whippersnaps in the class rooms at high school for the past week or so also revealed the fact that there are several unworldly creations of the art of the costume waiting in dark closets to get their first airing this evening. If any detail were needed to complete the picture in advance, it is not in the demands made on the girls which are as heavy as on former years—the demands, not the details.

Following are the officers of the ball: Donald K. Little, general manager; Francis V. Duff, assistant general manager; George W. Thomas, floor director; Glenn H. McCullough, assistant floor director; Douglas R. Buchanan, chief aid. The aids are all officers of the regimental association.

The matrons are: Miss Mary G. Slev-ens, Miss Adelaide Baker, Miss Marietta Cassidy and Miss Gertrude Rediff.

Regt. Qm. Sergt. Raymond Kenney will be the flag bearer in the grand march.

Results Obtained by a Recent Investigation at Variance With Commonly Accepted Ideas

Many problems have arisen in connection with the ventilation of stables, and they have assumed such importance that the necessity for the study of the subject from all possible standpoints has been recognized. Important contributions on the matter have been made by M. H. Reynolds. The results obtained by this investigator appear to be at variance with the commonly accepted ideas of ventilation and suggest that new explanations are needed on the observed facts in cases of good and poor ventilation.

One of the main objects of the study was to determine the effect of carbon dioxide upon animals confined in stables. In the case of human beings, Prof. Atwater has found that one remains apparently in perfect comfort in an atmosphere containing 2.3 per cent. of carbon dioxide, or almost 50 times the quantity found in ordinary atmospheric air. The air, however, was kept pure in other respects, and the amount of moisture and the amount of carbon dioxide varied, being in some cases as high as 2.67 per cent., as compared with .03 per cent. in ordinary air.

In such an atmosphere, obtained by confining steers in a nearly airtight box stall, the animals were kept for periods varying from two to 25 days. None of the bodily functions was materially disturbed, the only effects observed being a slight increase in the pulse rate and respiration, and a small rise in temperature. The animals showed good appetite and appeared to be in perfect health and comfort during the confinement. The amount

HEARING ON MAHAN CASE

Officer Heard in Own Defense— One Witness Testified That He Pushed Woman to the Floor

The second session of the special board, comprised of Captain Atkinson and Sergeant Maguire and Duncan, on the hearing of charges preferred against Patrolman John W. Mahan on his alleged violation of rule 13 of the police regulations was held last night in the court of second sessions. The defense put in most of its case last night.

The prosecution produced witnesses on Wednesday night, who testified, in substance, that Officer Mahan visited a house at 17 East Merrimack street, where wedding festivities were being held and, that, while in uniform, he took several glasses of beer. Later in the evening when in civilian's clothes, witnesses said that the officer returned to the house and used profane language and also became mixed up in an argument of a physical nature, during which he pushed a woman so violently that she fell to the floor.

Mrs. Sokolowski was the first witness called to the stand last night. She testified that it was at her house that all the trouble took place. She said her husband was an invalid and that they rented their four room apartment to wedding parties. Witness said she had taken several glasses of beer before the argument started but was not drunk. She saw a bottle thrown but knew nothing about who threw it.

Her husband was the next witness. He testified along the same line as did his wife. He further stated that the officer asked him for the young girl's clothes, and that he (Sokolowski) refused to give them to him. Witness said the officer then threatened to arrest him. The patrolman then took the girl's arm and started for the door but the mother of the girl and another woman intercepted him. In the mixup which followed, witness said the officer pushed Mrs. Sokolowski to the floor. Witness said Officer Mahan was drunk at the time.

On cross examination the witness admitted that he had seen the officer take but one glass of beer. He further admitted that the celebration had been going on for more than 21 hours when the trouble occurred.

Officer Mahoney was recalled to the stand by Lawyer Hogan and denied hearing Officer Mahan use any vile language against anyone. The government rested here.

Officer Mahan was the first witness for the defense. He said that he was working in the Oaklands on the Sunday in question and while on his way to the station his attention was called to the house where the celebration was going on. When he entered they were dancing, he said, and he immediately ordered them to stop. The Sokolowski woman asked him to dance with her and he refused. Then Michael Malowicz approached him and asked him to drink to his future good health and the officer refused.

After reporting to the station, witness said that he recalled seeing a man at the party who answered to the description of a man wanted in Lynn for the burglary of $200. With a view of locating him, he returned. His hat and coat were taken when he entered. Witness said he drank two glasses of beer and refused the third. One of the girls came to him and asked him to assist Stella Ross to go to the house of her aunt in South street. When he found that the girl was but 16 years of age he refused.

When the officer had convinced himself that the man he was looking for was not present he started for his hat and coat. The mother of Stella and the Sokolowski woman stepped in front of him. The Sokolowski woman struck him with her fist. He then jumped for the door, but Malowicz closed it before he had a chance to get out. Officer Mahoney appeared on the scene at this time and quiet was restored. Witness said he saw Malowicz throw a bottle at some one. He denied that he brought a bouquet to anyone.

Officer Mahan was subjected to a severe cross-examination by the superintendent. He was asked why he did not arrest Malowicz if he saw him throw a bottle. Witness said that the party was nearly all drunk and laying around on the beds. The superintendent asked him why he did not arrest them and call in the officer on the beat to his assistance.

Antonina Sokolowski, daughter of the two witnesses for the prosecution, testified that she had been abused by her parents ever since she came to this country a little over a year ago. She is 16 years of age. She had been beaten on the day in question and wanted to go to her aunt's house where life would be more pleasant for her. She had never spoken to Officer Mahan before the night of the trouble. She is now living with her aunt. The aunt of the girl substantiated the testimony of the girl. This was the last witness heard on account of the fact that

WOMAN BURNED TO DEATH

MRS. CATHERINE ROONEY, AGED 62 YEARS, PERISHED IN CELLAR OF HER HOME

BOSTON, Jan. 23.—Too feeble to escape or extinguish the flames that enveloped her, Mrs. Catherine Rooney, 62 years old, a sister of Representative Michael Sullivan of Quincy, was burned to death in the cellar of her home in that town some time yesterday.

The woman, left alone in the house, had apparently tried to light the furnace, and in her weakness collapsed on the cement floor of the cellar, when her dress caught.

Without exploding a big can of kerosene within a few feet of her, or even scorching the rafters overhead, her body must have smoldered there for hours, the firemen say.

The accident was discovered by a son, Joseph Rooney, when he returned last evening to his home at 30 West avenue. For half an hour he searched the house and shouted for his mother. He even went into the cellar, but peering about in the half darkness, did not see the body.

At last he made a more careful investigation and discovered the tragedy. Medical Examiner Dr. Jones of Quincy and firemen who hastily summoned by the almost distracted son.

CONSTANTINO, FAMOUS SPANISH TENOR, DEFENDANT IN BREACH OF PROMISE SUIT

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—Florence Constantino, the noted Spanish tenor now under engagement with the Boston Grand Opera company, and owner of the "Teatro Constantino" in Buenos Ayres, appeared in court yesterday to defend a breach of promise suit brought against him for $100,000 damages by Miss Marcelle Hontabert, a petite woman who formerly lived in Boston but who has since moved to New York at several theatres in this city, and at present employed as a cabaret singer at Bustanoby's.

The suit was begun before Justice Pitcock and a jury in the supreme court.

ACTION'S FUND DAY APRIL 17
In accordance with plans formulated by A. L. Erlanger of Klaw & Erlanger at the annual meeting of the Actors Fund last year he has set aside April 17 as Actors Fund day at the New Amsterdam theatre in New York, the Forest theatre in Philadelphia, the Colonial theatre in Boston and the Auditorium theatre in Chicago. At each of these theatres a bill of variety and quality will be offered.

At the Actors Fund meeting last May Mr. Erlanger offered to put this plan, his own conception, into effect this season. At that time it was intended to make Actors Fund day of larger scope, including the leading theatres of all the important cities of the country, but it was decided to start in four of the largest cities. All who participate in any way will give their services without pay. Next year all branches of the amusement world will participate, including the dramatic, musical, vaudeville, moving picture and circus interests. It is expected that in carrying out Mr. Erlanger's ideas of making an Actors Fund day the association will soon be placed where it can greatly increase its activities.

HALLS SHUT TO LABOR

ORGANIZER LUTHRINTER TO DEFY ARREST AND HOLD OPEN AIR MEETING AT CLAREMONT, N. H.

CLAREMONT, N. H., Jan. 23.—The town hall of Claremont, which is used for all sorts of public gatherings, entertainments and dances, has been closed against John Luthrinter, the New Jersey labor leader, by the selectmen.

Arrest Expected

Together with officials of the New Hampshire Federation of Labor, Mr. Luthrinter appeared before the selectmen yesterday and asked to rent the hall. When denied this request he announced to the chief of police that he would hold an open air meeting outside of the Sullivan Machinery company gates at noon today regardless of arrest threats.

The expected arrest is made. President John L. Luthrinter accompanied the labor organizer yesterday and sought to engage a hall. None could be secured.

CHARGED WITH SELLING "DOPE"

BOSTON, Jan. 23.—The proprietors of two South End drug stores and two drug clerks were arraigned in the municipal court yesterday on the charge of unlawfully delivering cocaine and heroin. They were the last of nearly a score of men whose arrests have been brought about during the past two weeks as a result of action by the New England Watch and Ward society.

Owing to the fact that their counsel, John P. Peasey, was engaged in another court, Judge Ely continued the cases until Feb. 4.

N. Y. Detectives Arter Band Suspected of Stealing Machines

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—Fifteen detectives disguised as mechanics started out in three automobiles early today expecting to round up members of a band of automobile thieves suspected of operating here and in other cities and with stealing machines valued at $100,000 in New York alone.

Two prisoners were taken. They described themselves as John W. Sherwood, an adjuster for the Philadelphia Insurance Co. with offices here, and James Williams, an insurance agent. A stolen auto from Baltimore gave the police here clues on which they have been working in the hope of preventing interstate traffic in stolen cars.

INSURES LABOR EMPLOYEES

A new mutual insurance company has been formed in New York to do business under the workmen's compensation law and its companion bills passed at the last session of the legislature. It was incorporated in Albany under the name of the American Mutual Compensation Insurance company. The new company will be closely allied with the American Mutual Liability Insurance company of Boston, which was delisted from entering this state by the bill generally excluding so-called foreign mutuals. In the beginning the new company will issue policies chiefly to employers of labor in the groups represented by its incorporators—the textile, metal, paper and cordage groups.

NEWS OF LEGISLATURE

State Board of Labor Split Over Child Labor Law—Routine Business in Both Branches

BOSTON, Jan. 23.—The new state board of labor and industries, in its report to the legislature, split over the new child labor law. The dissenters to the report is Channing Smith of Leicester, the manufacturer, who was the first republican insurgent.

Mr. Smith says that the underlying principle of the child labor law is correct, but that it has been carried out to an extent that it works hardship. Children discharged.

He says that 17,000 children between 14 and 16 years of age have been discharged since Sept. 1, as a result of the law, and that very few have returned to school. He says that if Massachusetts is to progress industrially, the theorist and faddist must be got rid of.

The report of the board urges moderation in the matter of prosecution. It says that hereafter prosecutions will be undertaken only after employers have been notified.

The following recommendations are made:

- 1.—That every employer shall be held responsible for all acts of any agent or sub-contractor for help advancing during strikes.
- 2.—That the one-hour meal time be extended to all industrial establishments.
- 3.—That weekly wage payments be extended to all industries.
- 4.—That a penalty be provided for injuring or dooming sanitary appliances provided in industrial places.

5.—That the board be given authority to post such notices as it sees fit in any industrial establishment.

6.—That the board be given jurisdiction over lighting, heating, ventilation and cleanliness.

7.—That the statutes requiring all premises to be licensed in which articles of wearing apparel are manufactured, repaired, altered or finished, be extended so to include any premises in which any garments or articles of any description are in any way adapted for sale.

The report is signed by James A. Lowell, chairman, and Prof. Crook, William Acton and Mrs. Mary H. Dewey.

To Sent Naphen

The house committee on elections will report, 4 to 3, in favor of seating William J. Naphen, the republican candidate for the house from Natick.

The four members who make up the majority of the committee are: John F. Sullivan, Republican, of Natick; Edward J. Kennedy, Democrat, of Fall River; Kenneth J. Somerville, Democrat, of Middleboro; and Atwood of Middleboro, all republicans, and Mr. Chandler of East Bridgewater, progressive.

The three dissenting members are Harry of Agawam, Griffin of Boston and Cotter of Lynn, democrats.

The original count of the votes at the election in Natick showed that Brennan, the democratic candidate for the house, had one more vote than Naphen, the republican candidate. The recount showed that Naphen had one vote more than Brennan, but the democratic members of the registrars of voters of that town refused to sign the election certificate for Naphen.

Routine Business

Each branch of the state legislature sat for about an hour yesterday afternoon. Nothing but routine business was transacted.

Great Fire, Smoke and Water SALE

One of the greatest boons to the people living on upper Merrimack street was the great Pelletier, Ledoux & Co. sale which brought sorrow to the company but happiness to hundreds of families that took advantage of the sale that followed the fire which occurred in this store a few days previous. It is a mighty hard thing for any person that appreciates bargains to keep away from a sale like this. On three different occasions they have been obliged to close their store to arrange the goods and to place them in order that their customers may find easy access to select just what they would desire. The prices on the goods are so wonderfully low that it is like finding money on the street. Tomorrow morning at 8.30 the store will be opened with bigger and better bargains and for a short time will serve the public as they must bring the sale to a close to repair the building and store.

The annual report of Brigadier General Gardner W. Pearson, adjutant general of the commonwealth, has been issued and is a critical analysis of the activities of the militia during 1913. The tour of duty for the 2d, 5th, 6th, 8th and 9th infantry and 8d Corps Cadets, during July and August, as well as other tours of duty, are reviewed, and some of the lessons learned are pointed out.

According to the report, the enrolled militia for 1913 was 571,730, while in 1912 it was 570,319, an increase of 1411. Appropriations made by the commonwealth during the year were $603,576.02. The estimates for 1914 were as follows:

Adjutant general's department—Compensation, officers and men, 1913 appropriation $200,000, estimate for 1914, $226,000; rifle practice, 1913 appropriation, $26,349.52, estimate for 1914, $25,500; instruction of the militia, service school, 1913 appropriation $4340, estimate for 1914, $5000; allowance to headquarters and companies, 1913 appropriation $3850, estimate for 1914, $3945; company armories, 1913 appropriation, $12,500, estimate for 1914, $12,625.

For the quartermaster general's department—The salary of quartermaster general for the 1913 appropriations was $1810, estimate for 1914, $2000; salaries of clerks, 1913 appropriation, $4500, estimate for 1914, $10,000; quartermaster's supplies, 1913 appropriation, $23,000; estimate for 1914, $33,000; maintenance of armories, first class 1913 appropriation $98,000, estimate for 1914, $97,500; salaries of armories and assistants, first class, 1913 appropriation $50,000, estimate for 1914, $55,000; maintenance and rental of armories, second class, 1913 appropriation, $7675, estimate for 1914, $7665; maintenance and rental of armories, third class, 1913 appropriation, $3250, estimate for 1914, $3275.

Surgeon general's department—Medical supplies and incidentals, 1913 appropriation, $2500; estimate for 1914, $2800.

Adj. Gen. Pearson, in discussing the subject of infantry maneuver camps, speaks of the lesson learned from the old camp duty at Framingham prior to 1913, which brought about the development of instruction camps and maneuvers. The original maneuvers, he says, were crude in their inception and brutal in their execution. The Connecticut maneuvers of 1912 he thought of great value.

The use of motor trucks in war maneuvers comes in for interesting mention. On this point, the adjutant general says:

"One motor truck was assigned to each regiment or corresponding organization, and all subsistence was issued daily from Wareham to the various camps, most of which were from 20 to 30 miles distant. The use of motor trucks in this way gave an exceedingly flexible organization, as approximately 50 miles of the country was covered from a central point with promptness and precision. It is believed that the motor truck constitutes the ideal military supply train operating from a railroad base, as the radius of action daily can probably be extended to 50 miles, going and returning."

QUALITY IN BUTTER MAKING

Dairymen Themselves Hold Key to Situation—Improper Treatment of Milk and Cream

Quality is the keynote of permanent success. Though the individual dairymen may doubt this its truth is established when the dairy business of the whole of New England, present and future, is considered. Failure to realize what constitutes success, refusal to meet the obligation which every dairymen owes to the dairy industry, and competition are at least three conditions which have brought upon dairymen of this section the great problem of how quality can be raised, for the place has been reached where improved conditions must prevail, lest the business suffer materially.

The percentage of butter scoring as "Extras" on the principal butter markets is very low, some say that less than 10 per cent. of the butter sold in these places will so qualify. The cause of this condition is the improper treatment which milk and cream receives before being placed in the hands of the manufacturer.

Every person who handles milk or cream knows that they are perishable products, which require special care. Failure to observe the necessary precautions in handling these products must therefore be considered as a disregard of the principles underlying quality. Where dairymen to apply themselves closely to two particulars, over 90 per cent. of the quality troubles would disappear, and this raised standard would be accompanied by a corresponding gain in net profits. Cleanliness and low temperature are two features the abuse of which leads to low-grade dairy production. A large percentage of the bad flavors in milk, cream and butter are the result of dirt, manure, hair and flies getting into milk cans probably in net profits. Cleanliness and low temperature are two features the abuse of which leads to low-grade dairy production. A large percentage of the bad flavors in milk, cream and butter are the result of dirt, manure, hair and flies getting into milk cans probably in net profits.

But this becomes the more serious for the reason that 75 per cent. of these contaminating materials go into solution, and can be removed in no way, but remain to cause the development of unfavorable fermentations which produce bad flavors in the market. The results of butter scoring contests show that 80 to 90 per cent. of the criticisms made of creamery butter are due to defective methods of handling cream before it reaches the creamery. Dairymen conditions which need improvement include not only the maintaining of more sanitary dairy barns, more attention in the matter of cleaning cows previous to milking, clean milkers, properly constructed and cleaned utensils and more care in washing separator bowls, but the length of time and the manner in which milk and cream are held. Along with cleanliness must be the other desirable feature, low temperatures. While the market dairymen realize this to some extent on account of his product being more perishable, the dairymen who sell cream often fail to appreciate the advantage of cooling cream immediately after separating, and thus a condition most favorable to deterioration begins to exist shortly after the milk is drawn. Freshly drawn milk is at the best temperature for bacterial growth, and unfavorable fermentation can be checked in no better way than by immediate cooling. If the milk is to be separated, skimming should take place directly after milking, but the cream should be cooled before being mixed with previous skimmings. A tank cooler is so inexpensively constructed and operated that there can be no reasonable objection to its use.

Careless practices on the dairy farm favor the adoption of burdensome regulations; with ideal methods in use such would be eliminated. Improvement in the quality of dairy products must begin with the producer, so the dairymen holds the key to the situation. Every effort of the consumer, the distributor, or the manufacturer will work to his ultimate benefit. Where payment on the quality basis is established, a premium of from three to five cents per pound of butter fat is given for cream of the highest grade. Such cream can be produced best by paying close attention to cleanliness and immediate and thorough cooling. Were the matter of quality carried to the point where milk and cream would be produced under conditions which prevail upon certified dairies, it would represent an impossible expense, for excessive prices could not be obtained. But this extreme is unnecessary, and the dairy business of New England would receive a wonderful impetus if the bulk of our dairymen would observe the conditions which they know should prevail.

DETECTIVE BURNS' SPEECH

The story of nation-wide graft and corruption uncovered by Detective William J. Burns at the board of trade banquet would be discouraging to all who strive for political and social uplift were it not that through all its revolting details ran a thread of optimism. In this there is a greater significance of a new spirit of idealism in public affairs than in the most earnest discourses of bar or pulp for the masterful expert in crime analysis has come in direct contact with the most rampant and heinous evils of the American system of government, and his belief in national reform is based on honest and well-founded conviction.

The great lesson for the American people to learn, according to Mr. Burns, is that the public must demand from its servants a high ideal of duty and frown on anything saving of graft and corruption. Where the public conscience gets lax the consequences are disastrous as in the case of New York and San Francisco. The most colossal evils spring into being in the stagnated life of communities where the public is indifferent but where the light of public scrutiny is turned upon the officials, the greatest evils must crumble as easily as they arise. Possibly in the process of regeneration there will be murders and all manner of horrors, but these mark a transition stage and often lead to great measures of reform as in the case of New York where the Rosenthal murder aroused the public conscience and started a wave of reform which is still penetrating every department of municipal life in the metropolis.

With an assurance and confidence born of experience and justified by many court decisions Mr. Burns described how the trail of graft and crime leads almost invariably to the man higher up. His experiences while in search for the "important man" in this connection were almost incredible, but they were simply unromantic recitations of the depths of villainy and degradation to which men can go when free from the domination of conscience and the restrictions of the law. He voiced a truth that is being exemplified daily when he said that the cure for the evils that spring from the corrupt "man higher up" is pitiless publicity. The people that formerly regarded graft with indifference and looked upon it as an unavoidable adjunct of democracy are now turning the spotlight of investigation on many a trail that leads up to the fountain heads of corruption—even to the very halls of congress.

Talks such as that of the great detective have a very positive value because they help to arouse in the American public an interest in political and social affairs and when the public takes an intelligent interest in all that concerns them vitally we may hope for a better spirit in American public life. The horrible crop of corruption that has bloomed from the Atlantic to the Pacific has been nourished and fertilized by public indifference. If there is to be an end to the stigma of political corruption with which this community is branded before the world the public must decide governmental questions for itself and not wait supinely for fulfillment of the election promises of corrupt and incompetent politicians.

USE OF SCHOOL BUILDINGS

The use of school buildings for evening or social centres is being widely agitated at the present time and has already been adopted by many communities. Judging from the work being accomplished in the cities where it has become a fixed institution, and the favorable judgment of press and public, the time of its general adoption is not far distant.

The address of R. E. Hawley, acting director of the work in Boston before the group of interested people in this city last Wednesday evening outlined the work clearly and gave an excellent idea of the purpose of the movement and some of the chief difficulties to be confronted in putting it into operation. According to him the social centre movement would open the school buildings of the city in the evening to men and women of all ages, both native born and foreign, for the purpose of instruction, recreation and development of community spirit. After the introduction of the movement, the details could be well worked out in the formation of clubs through which groups would be attracted together by unity of purpose and common interest.

There seems to be no insurmountable obstacle to the use of the school buildings as above suggested. It is being done in Lawrence and Boston with very beneficial results, and enthusiasm is growing instead of lagging in these cities. The schools are supported by public taxation and considering the possible advantages in their more general use it seems as though the public does not receive from them all the service to which they are entitled. The labor resulting from the innovation would not be considerable and though its adoption would necessitate the solving of some problems of a constructive nature, the difficulties would be slight once the co-operation of the public is secured. As Mr. Hawley pointed out, these social centres would have a fine effect for the development of civic consciousness in the immigrants who would be fortunate enough to come under their influence; this consideration is important enough in itself to warrant serious study of the subject by the members of the school committee.

The financial problems would offer the greatest difficulties here at the present time when the school department is so hampered in its routine work that it cannot be expected to throw itself into any new project with a great deal of enthusiasm.

A NEW RESERVATION BILL

Without any regret or feeling of insult the people of this city will discover that Lowell is apparently excluded from the privileges of the new reservation bill which takes the place of the bill of 1912 which would give us a beach at Salisbury, 40 miles away, whether we wanted it or not. The new bill is introduced by a Lawrence representative to take the place of that which luckily for our point of view was considered unconstitutional a year ago. It will be remembered that when the sponsors of the bill that was discarded looked round for taxable communities to make a fine financial addition to the suggested reservation, they jumped over Tewksbury and Dracut and included Lowell, the biggest slice of all—and the farthest away. Fortunately such a protest was raised here that the bill was eventually defeated, though only by a legal offense of a technical nature against community rights.

The new bill favors a reservation commission appointed by the governor and council, and at the expense of the state entirely. It is very specific in its limitations of territory to be included in the reservation and provides for an ocean reservation only. Even though this city is not included, the bill is of special interest to us owing to our narrow escape from taxation for the proposed reservation of a year ago, and possible amendments of the measure which may still be included in its passage through the legislature. Though it does not as yet bear directly on us in a legislative sense, it will do for this city to grow negligent. The local legislators should keep a close watch on the bill in question or anything else affecting the reservation project to prevent a recurrence of the injustice of 1912. The board of trade has already made plans to keep the new bill under supervision.

TAFT ON SEX DISCUSSION

Speaking at the commencement exercises of a business college in Philadelphia a few days ago, former President Taft made a few home thrusts at some manifestations of the modern spirit of independence and lack of restraint. Among the subjects that drew some sharp criticism from him in the regrettable tendency towards juvenile delinquency of authority as manifested in the school strike, and the exploitation of matters of sex in plays and literature generally. He does not believe that vice may be eliminated or reduced to a minimum by teaching its awful consequences, contrary to the teachings of many flippant apostles of the obscene. How well he senses the trend of the times towards lack of restraint may be seen from the following paragraph:

"By dwelling on its details and explaining its penalties, we tend to divide the sexes, lectures are delivered on them, and text books are written, and former restraints of modesty are abandoned."

Ignorance has its attendant evils but many will agree with the judicial minded ex-president that the evils of unrestricted sex discussion are far greater. One need not blush for the old fashioned morality which would select William Howard Taft for a mentor rather than the well meaning Brieux or the chameleon-minded George Bernard Shaw.

GOING INTO MOURNING

Miss Eva Ward, an English lady who is at present lecturing in this country on behalf of woman suffrage, has made the suggestion that if the ballot is not granted universally within a specified time the ladies should go into mourning and wear sombre garb until hard-hearted men relent. Does she not see the dangers of this rash advice? First of all there would be an immediate protest from all handsome widows, resulting in a class war, and secondly there is the possibility that many vain sisters, suddenly discovering that black contrasted but poorly with the white of the anti would be moved by jealousy or envy to become traitors to the cause by donning lighter shades. You're dealing with daughters of Eve, Eva, and you'll have to change your methods. Introduce nothing that will bring woman's political aspirations into close relationship with her vanity. The result would be disaster.

DEFINITE RAILROAD PLAN

The first annual report of the public service commission of the commonwealth of Massachusetts, just published, gives an official inkling of workable schemes of re-construction by which the depredated railroad properties of New England may again be put on a proper financial footing. The three points emphasized most strongly are: the immediate separation of the New Haven and Boston and Maine; the abandonment of costly contracts such as those of the American Express company and the Pullman company; and the giving up of the trolley lines. These are in line with recent recommendations of the Boston chamber of commerce, the recommendations of the governor, and public opinion generally. If they are also the ideas of the legislature we may hope for some reconstruction of the much-abused lines in the near future.

The worst enemy of Secretary Bryan will not deny him the laurels for phrase-making. He has just paid the following excellent tribute to President Wilson: "No man ever took up his difficult task with as brave a heart or has pursued it with more tenacity." Mr. Bryan's mental kodak is working well.

So long as the snow lasts one of the chief troubles of Commissioner Morse will be met by putting applicants for city jobs to work, but the longer the snow lasts the smaller grows the appropriation. There are no gains without pains.

Society girls of Boston are making a house to house canvass to raise $15,000 by next Saturday to aid district nursing in Boston. We of Lowell know from experience how worthy the cause is.

These distinguished speakers that come here can testify to the fact that we make good listeners.

Did your conscience hurt you the least little bit while Detective Burns was speaking?

THE STORY OF "MARKED DOWNS"

January and February are the months when retail clothing stores usually "mark down" prices of winter garments to get rid of left-over stock. It must be evident to any thinking man that clothes which are "marked down" near the end of a season, must have been "marked up" at the start of the season in order to give the retailers a larger profit on sales made when men needed the clothes.

P. & Q. Clothes are always marked down! P. & Q. prices—$10 and $15—for suits and overcoats, are the very lowest prices at which garments of such excellent style and integrity of quality can possibly be made and sold, to yield even a small margin of profit to the maker. They are made possible because P. & Q. Clothes are never sold to dealers, but only through the makers' own stores, thus cutting out all extra selling expense and giving you the benefit of bed-rock prices.

No matter where you go, what price you pay, or at what time of year you buy clothes, you will never find values so equal what you can get in P. & Q. $10 and $15 clothes today and every day.

Mr. Lodge, the manager of the P. & Q. Clothes Shop at 43 Central street, in this city, closed the above interview by remarking: "In my many years of experience in the retail clothing business I have never seen such values as are now offered at the P. & Q. Clothes Shop for $10 and $15."

Thin, brittle, colorless and scraggy hair is mute evidence of a neglected scalp; of dandruff—that awful scourge. There is nothing so destructive to the hair as dandruff. It robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life; eventually producing a feverishness and itching of the scalp, which if not remedied causes the hair roots to shrink, loosen and die—then the hair falls out fast. A little Danderine tonight—now—anytime—will surely save your hair.

Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and after the first application your hair will take on that life, lustre and luxuriance which is so beautiful. It will become wavy and fluffy and have the appearance of abundance; an incomparable gloss and softness, but what will please you most will be after just a few weeks' use, when you will actually see a lot of fine downy hair—new hair—growing all over the scalp.

The driver who walks up the hill in order to take a little off his horse's load need not retire feeling that the day was lost.

The public as a whole is interested in this temporary loan business but they are sick and tired of the great mass of figures with which the modus operandi is being explained.

The Topsfield Historical society has been fortunate enough to acquire the colonial dwelling built in 1633, for the Rev. Joseph Capen, during the dark period of witchcraft delusion, for their headquarters. All of the furnishings are either originals or patterns of the 17th century. Recently a supper was served by the society, the food being served on wooden trenchers and eaten with broad steel knives and pewter spoons. Some of these knives were 250 years old.

Farmers and sportsmen in Massachusetts will be interested in the report of the special investigation directed by the state legislature as to the desirability of the pheasant among our bird-folk.

The commissioners of fisheries and game hold the pheasant to be an exterminator of the most pests, a splendid object for recreational shooting and a desirable article of food. These qualities, the board asserts, offset any injury which the bird causes to crops.

The commissioners report that whenever complaints are received by them that pheasants were destroying crops, they sent an agent to kill at least one of the birds. The stomachs of the birds killed were examined and in each case the pheasant was found to have consumed more insects and pests than any other form of their food. The board therefore argues that it would be unwise to kill off a bird that is doing the work of extermination that would cost the state millions of dollars.

The latter part of December, a man came into the city clerk's office and secured a marriage license. Last week the same man came in and asked for another license. He stated that the $1 paid for the first license be transferred for the payment of the second license, as he did not intend to use the first one. When asked the reason he replied: "Oh the first one was too old. She was 34. This other one is 23 and it don't cost any more to get a young one while you're about it. Can I transfer the $1 paid for the first one to pay for this one?"

As he gave up his first license, the city clerk made the transfer. If that happened in Lowell society, I see where there would be a breach of promise. It is a fine first that swain.

The newest dance fad from Paris is the "tango." It's only 4300 years old. That's why it's so new. They have been dancing it in China since 2450 B. C. and the Chinese word means "sweetness and harmony."

In order to dance it one must be able to stand on one foot, then slide and dip with one knee almost touching the floor. It has a one-two effect and is something like the tango, only more so.

ABOUT MRS. ADAM

(E. A. Brimbleton in Los Angeles Express)

Mrs. Adam never danced; Mrs. Adam never flirted; Mrs. Adam never pranced; "Round the garden hobble-skirted." A demand for "votes for women." Mrs. Adam simply wore. Figured when she went in swimming.

Mrs. Adam didn't dress in gauze that flared to cling; Mrs. Adam, I confess, never wore a surplus bust; Mrs. Adam didn't care for the latest fashions in hats; Mrs. Adam didn't wear switches, curls or puffs or rats.

Mrs. Adam didn't do anything so very shocking; never showed a foot or two; of exquisite silken stockings. Mrs. Adam went about minus any silken hose; Mrs. Adam went without much of anything in clothes.

Mrs. Adam didn't wear any tall algebras or feather. But she traveled here and there quite exposed to wind and weather. Mrs. Adam didn't go out to every swell fandango; Mrs. Adam didn't know anything about the tango.

Mrs. Adam didn't rave with a wild, unhampered passion. Nor love meekly like a dove. To the stern demands of Fashion. Mrs. Adam couldn't rig up a dand to hide her back.

And she who was known throughout the world. That her wardrobe was so slack:

BERNHARDT AND THE LEGION

Lynn Telegram: It becomes her well, does this decoration of the legion of honor which has recently been bestowed upon Sarah Bernhardt, actress, whose name is known throughout the world. And she becomes it well, this woman before whom rules and subjects have bowed in admiration for supreme talent. The 19th living woman to whom this honor has been given is deserving of it and the world is glad that France has recognized her for her acting and for that quality which has brought thousands to her feet.

CAMPAIGN COST

Fall River Globe: Compared with the campaign expenditures of his two leading competitors for governorship last fall, those of Gov. Walsh as shown by his statement with the secretary of state, are exceedingly modest, being a little more than $1500, while those of Messrs. Gardner and Bird were each more than 20 times as large, and what is more, unrecouped.

LAURENCE AND BORDEN

Worcester Post: Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in his vigorous attack on the Canadian government at the opening of the Canadian parliament this week, also told of hard times. "Not fewer than 100,000 men," he declared, "are asking for employment. The Canadian government with a do-nothing policy and insisted that the need is for wider markets."

THE WRIGHTS' HONORED

Providence Tribune: The United States circuit court of appeals, sitting in New York city, has decided an airplane test case in a way which recognizes Wilbur and Orville Wright as the true inventors of the airplane. The suit was one of great importance to aerial science as well as to the estates of the Wrights. As sweeping decisions already had been made in favor of the Wright brothers in Germany and France, the position of these American leaders of their craft seems beyond attack.

HOW OFFICER SHOT SHEA

WITNESS DESCRIBES CHASE AND SHOOTING OF YOUNG MAN BY BOSTON POLICEMAN

BOSTON, Jan. 23.—Thomas F. Murphy, of 223 Shawmut avenue, a carriage washer, described the pursuit and shooting of Ralph P. Shea by Police-man Charles W. Miller of the Lagrange street station to Judge Chase and a jury in the Suffolk superior court yesterday, where Miller is on trial for manslaughter.

Murphy said that while at his work at Thomas' stable on Warrenton street at 1.30 a. m. on June 17 last, he heard sounds of a quarrel on Eliot street, around the corner.

He started to the place and had just turned into Eliot street from Warrenton when Shea, followed by Officer Miller, came running past him into Warrenton street.

"Then," said Murphy, "just as Shea turned the corner from Eliot street into Warrenton street, Miller followed him and as they passed me, the officer fired a shot at Shea.

"I was about 15 feet away from the officer when he fired this first shot. I ran after them. Shea dodged onto the sidewalk and Miller fired another shot at him. Shea was then about 200 feet ahead of the officer. Shea continued and ran into the doorway at 105 Warrenton street. No one was running with Shea or in front of him at the time and no one ran into that doorway ahead of him.

"When Miller got to the door, where Shea ran in, he fired another shot from his revolver from just outside. The gun was in his right hand and his left hand was on his hip.

"I was within 10 feet and back of the officer at the time, and I was looking directly into the doorway, but couldn't see anything. It was too dark.

"After the shooting," Murphy said, "Miller went to the police box and a short time later two other police officers came to the spot and Miller said to them, 'I don't care where you take him, get him there as soon as you can.'

"The boy was dead at the time," Murphy said. "I was standing within five feet of him when they brought him out."

"Was the shot fired before Miller went in to the doorway?" asked Attorney Feehey in cross examination.

"Before," replied the witness. "Didn't you say at the lower court hearing, when that question was asked you, that the shot was fired when Miller went inside the doorway?" asked Mr. Feehey.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Webber stated that Murphy's answer to the question at the lower court hearing was that the shot was fired before Miller entered the doorway, according to his stenographic report of that hearing.

Attorney Feehey's stenographic report of the hearing was that the witness had stated at that hearing that the shot was fired after Miller's entering the doorway.

Mr. Feehey contended that his record had been made by an official court stenographer, while Mr. Webber said the record in use was made by the police stenographer.

DR. MITCHELL'S FAME
An incident, variously related, serves better to indicate Dr. S. Weir Mitchell's eminence as a physician. This is the story as related to Dr. Mitchell himself.

An American, suffering from some nervous disorder, journeyed to Italy to consult a celebrated Italian neurologist.

"But you are from America?" said the Italian.

"Yes."

"Why not, then, take the Vermicelli treatment?"

"What's that?" inquired the patient.

"What! You don't know the treatment of the famous Dr. Weir Mitchell of Philadelphia?"

And the Italian sent the American home to be cured.

The story as related by friends of Dr. Mitchell is to the effect that the physician himself, while visiting Paris, suffered a recurrence of a nervous ailment attributed to overwork. Without consulting his family, he called on a specialist with whose name he was familiar as being that of a man famous in both hemispheres.

"I see that you are an American," remarked the French physician, after some preliminary conversation.

"Yes," replied Dr. Mitchell.

"And from what city do you come?" inquired the Parisian.

"Philadelphia," said the visitor.

"And do you mean to say that you, a resident of Philadelphia, come to me to be treated when there resides in your own city the most famous nerve specialist in the world?" exclaimed the Frenchman.

"To whom do you refer?" asked the author.

"To Dr. S. Weir Mitchell, of course," replied the specialist, "and to think that you have never heard of him!" he exclaimed in conclusion, raising his hands in astonishment.

TO COMPLETE HIGHWAY GET ACQUAINTED

State Will be Asked to Complete the River Road—Commissioner Barlow Interested

There is a bare possibility that the county commissioners may direct Lowell to complete the river road. The uncompleted stretch lies between First street and the farther end of Indian orchard, a distance of a mile or so. If the commission should order the city to build this stretch the city would have to pay for it. Commissioner Barlow thinks there is another and a better way out of it. He suggests that the municipal commission ask the legislature to have the highway commission complete the road and if this should come to pass the city would not have to dig for the expense. The state could pay 75 per cent and the county 25 per cent of the expense and the state would have to maintain the road. Mr. Barlow believes that the road should be extended down through Indian orchard rather than to go over the hill. Mr. Barlow intends to talk the matter over with Chairman Sawyer of the highway commission.

Enjoyable Social Held at the First Baptist Church Last Night

The Baraca class of the First Baptist church held a "get acquainted" social last night, and the affair proved both helpful and entertaining. There was a goodly number of young men present and they were their names on white tags pinned to their coats. Rev. H. S. Pincham was master of ceremonies. The musical program for the evening included vocal and instrumental selections, and an excellent photograph record under the direction of Chas. Farr. Refreshments were served and then a visit was made to the bowling alleys, where the First Baptist and the Calvary Baptist teams were having a bit with ball and pin. The officers of the class are: President, A. E. Willis; vice president, T. A. Whelan; secretary, A. H. Dows; treasurer, G. K. Troppan.

The class is made up of representative business men and clerks, about 60 of whom were present last evening. The Philathea class of girls at the First Baptist church also held a social last evening and enjoyed a very fine program. Mrs. Alice Schofield, Mrs. Morris Johnson, Mrs. G. W. Hunt and others contributed to the program which was followed by refreshments served under the direction of Mrs. Morris Johnson and a competent committee.

JOHNNY CURRY'S CASE
A Physician Thinks That Curry is Not Suffering from Pellagra as Dr. Tighe Has Announced
A physician, not a Lowell doctor, has addressed a communication to The Sun, in which he takes issue with City Physician Tighe relative to Johnny Curry's ailment. Johnny Curry is at the Chemsford street hospital and Dr. Tighe says he is suffering from pellagra and our correspondent says it may be cretinism. His letter to The Sun reads as follows:
It appears to me that Dr. M. A. Tighe is getting too alarmed over the condition of Johnny Curry. I would advise the physician to look up his medical works on cretinism. Johnny Curry is a born cretin and why shouldn't he be suffering with advanced cretinism rather than pellagra. I saw Curry in July at St. John's hospital out-patient department and I advised him to go to the city farm. At that time there was no doubt of his having symptoms of myxedema, which are quite similar to those of pellagra. I won't go into details of either disease, but it seems to me that the city physician is making too much noise about a disease which no doubt isn't around Lowell.

Baldness Growing Rapidly
The Use of "Hair Tonics" Containing Alcohol Is Dangerous.
Most hair tonics contain a large percentage of alcohol. The public is deceived because alcohol is soothing. Alcohol dries out the scalp, destroying the natural oil of the hair, thus causing dandruff and falling hair, and in time will turn the hair gray.
CRUDOL contains no alcohol, and is a crude petroleum product with every disagreeable feature removed. CRUDOL is fragrant, odorless, stainless, refreshing and cleanly. Puts the scalp in a healthy condition. It is nature's way of treating the hair.

CRUDOL goes to the roots and helps the hair where it needs help, destroys dandruff, prevents itching of the scalp, checks falling hair, promoting a luxuriant growth of hair. You don't have to wash CRUDOL out. It doesn't leave the hair greasy.
CRUDOL comes in TUBES only. Sold by drug and department stores everywhere; small size 25c, large size 50c. If your dealer cannot supply you, send 25c or 50c and we will mail you a tube, postage prepaid.
Use CRUDOL ANTI-SEPTIC SHAMPOO, a delightful soap and hair cleanser. Not like other shampoos that leave the hair brittle after washing but leaves it in a soft, fluffy, lustrous condition, due to the crude petroleum contained in it. Large tube 25c. INTENSE COLD NEW UPRISING MUTINY ON SHIP SWIFT SCOOTERS LINED UP FOR A CHAMPIONSHIP RACE

Temperature Last Night Went Ten Below in Lowell

Although today was not the coldest day of the year it was the coldest Jan. 23 for several years and during the early hours this morning the mercury hovered within a few degrees of the low mark reached during the extreme cold spell last week. There were no cold winds this morning to add to the discomfort and those who found it necessary to be on the street did not seem to mind the cold very much.

Yesterday the thermometers registered from 10 to 20 above, but after the sun went down the needle rapidly descended and at midnight it was almost down to the zero mark. There was a steady decline in the temperature after midnight, however, and at 1 o'clock this morning the day was recorded as one of the coldest of the present season.

A report from Chelmsford states that at 5 o'clock this morning the temperature in an exposed spot was 15 below zero and a thermometer near the Middlesex Village school registered 16 below about the same hour.

At the Talbot mills, North Billerica, the mercury went to 14 below and residents of North Tisbury report a variation of from 12 to 15 degrees below. In the city the minimum this morning was 10 degrees below and at the pumping station on the boardwalk the register read 8 below when the men reported for work this morning.

According to the official weather bureau in Boston, yesterday was the coldest Jan. 23 for 21 years. The forecast for today is fairer and warmer and long before the noon hour, the needle rose above the zero mark.

The hard freeze this morning made teaming in the down town streets very difficult as the snow had been trampled smooth and became almost as slippery as ice. Ice cutting in some places was suspended for the day at last and a large number of frozen pipes were reported at the various plumbing establishments in the city. All the schools in the city were well heated at the opening hour this morning despite last night's cold.

Against Huerta Regime in Yucatan, Campeche and Tabasco Planned

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 23.—After an investigation covering several weeks, government agents here are convinced Mexican revolutionists are obtaining arms and ammunition through Guatemala. The investigation reported the fact that the recent shipments passing through this port designed for the Guatemalan government were purchased in this country by an agent of Emmanuel Brito, formerly governor of the Mexican state of Campeche. Three hundred thousand rounds of ammunition passed through here two weeks ago for Guatemala but as it was consigned to that government, the special agents could not seize it.

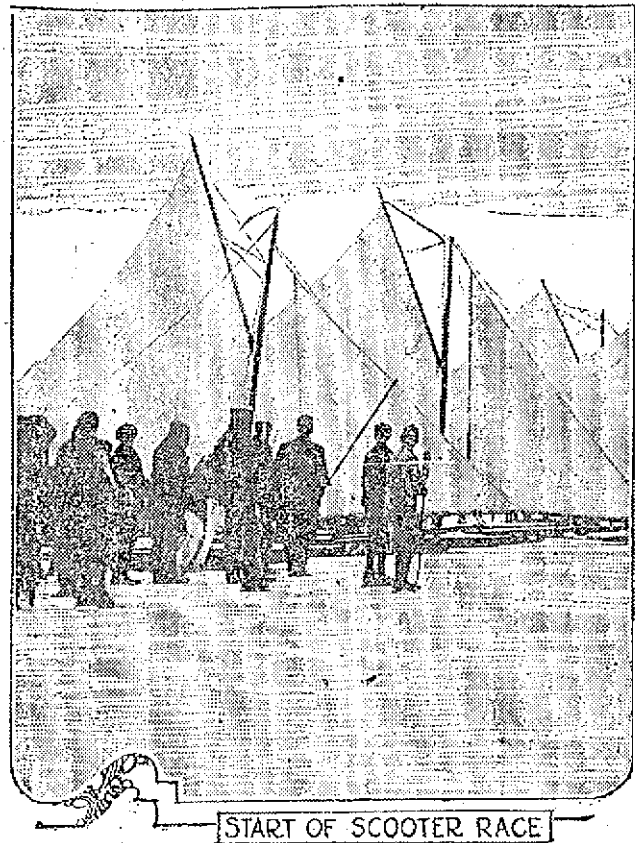

Several Mexicans known to be friends of Brito sailed from this port today on the steamer Marowijn for Porto Barrios and it is said by those familiar with Mexican affairs that a new uprising against the Huerta government in the states of Yucatan, Campeche and Tabasco is being planned.

Steamer Put Back to Port—19 Union Seamen, Arrested

LIVERPOOL, England, Jan. 23.—Mutiny broke out on board the steamer Devonian shortly after she left Liverpool yesterday for Boston and she was compelled today to put back to Holyhead, where 19 of her crew were arrested.

The outbreak was caused by trouble between the union and non-union seamen. The crew was a mixed one and a few hours after the vessel left port the union sailors refused to obey the orders of the ship's officers until the non-union men had been put ashore.

The captain thereupon decided to run back to Holyhead, where the steamer came into port with caution signals flying and asking that police be sent on board. This was done and 19 union seamen were arrested.

START OF SCOOTER RACE

Scoters are rivaling the big ice yachts in many sections and in some quarters outnumber the larger craft owing to the low price at which they can be built. This photo taken on Great South bay, New York, near Patchogue, shows a fleet of the little ice and water speed demons lined up for the start of a race for the championship of New York state.

RIGHTS OF MRS. WILSON

HEARING REGARDING HER RIGHTS TO TITLE OF SIXTY ACRES OF LAND

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 23.—When the hearing regarding the rights of Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, wife of the president of the United States, to title of 60 acres of land in the Cogebella valley was resumed today before officials of the local government land office, indication was given that it would be completed and the case taken under advisement before night.

The hearing was begun yesterday before Registrar Robinson and Receiver Burden at the instigation of John T. King of Therman, Cal., acting for Mrs. Wilson. The most important piece of evidence to be introduced today, according to Mr. King, was a certified copy of the deed held by President Wilson to the land in question, which it is claimed, was given the chief executive by Mrs. Wilson. Mrs. Wilson obtained title to the land from her sister, Mrs. Margaret Elliot, wife of a member of the faculty of Stanford university, who purchased it. It is said, to use local phraseology, that the deed, which is valued at about $3000, is being contested by Mrs. Hensle and Homer Goodard, both of Los Angeles. Mrs. Hensle claims to have homesteaded the property after a foreclosure by King.

4,327,000 IN METHODIST SCHOOLS

CHICAGO, Jan. 23.—A gain of 100,000 pupils was made by the Sunday schools of the Methodist Episcopal church during the past year, according to a report made today by Rev. Edgar A. Schenck, corresponding secretary of the Board of Sunday Schools. The total Sunday school enrollment of the church is 4,327,000.

DR. SALMON LEAVES YALE

NEW HAVEN, Jan. 23.—The resignation of the Rev. Dr. William H. Salmon, secretary of the bureau of appointments in Yale university and its acceptance, is announced today. The work of the bureau has been taken over by the office of the university secretary, Anson Phelps Stokes, Jr., for the present. Dr. Salmon has been identified with Yale's work on the Chinese mission field.

NEW EXPRESS RATES

WILL GO INTO EFFECT ON FEBRUARY 1ST—LOWELL AND BOSTON RATE MAY NOT BE CHANGED

It was stated this forenoon at the local office of the American Express Co. that the new tariff which changes the rate in some places will not in all probability effect the rate between Lowell and Boston; the latter rate to be fixed by a tariff that will go into effect at all offices of the company about February 1.

It is understood that the new tariff will make a reduction in some other lines of expressage which will be of interest to Lowell merchants and others, and Mr. Maurice Valliant, local agent for the American Express company, said that within a few days he will know the final rates with regard to expressage to be carried on with-in the state.

It has been stated that the zone system now successfully used in the parcel post business, will be partly adopted by the express companies of the state, and express packages will probably be divided into first, second and third class matters. Many will benefit by the changes, while others will probably suffer to a certain extent.

ELECTRIC BARBER SIGN BROKEN

The costly electric barber sign owned by Henry Smith, the Bridge street barber, situated opposite the shop in bridge street near the corner of Paige street, was wrecked this morning by one of the wood delivery sleighs of the Daniel Gage Co.

The sign, which was erected but a short time ago was placed on the sidewalk near the curbstone. This morning at about 9 o'clock one of the large sleighs of the Gage Co., driven by a young man, skidded to the curbstone and the rear end of the sleigh struck the post, breaking it in two pieces.

BILL TO PROTECT TURKEYS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—The protecting wing of the federal government is extended to turkeys shipped in interstate commerce under a bill introduced by Rep. Diefenderfer of Pennsylvania. The measure authorizes the interstate commerce commission to see that food and drink is supplied to all poultry in shipment from the time they are crated. At 24 hour intervals inspection must be made to remove the demand and separate the sick from the healthy poultry.

MORE PLAYERS SIGNED

MANAGER GRAY RECEIVES CON-TRACTS FROM NEW MEN—CATCHING DEPT. SAFE

Jimmy Gray's ball club begins to look like the real thing again. In spite of the fact that the Lowell manager had the hardest time of any of the New England league clubs to get together a team which would be in the running for the flag in 1914 he has received the signed contracts of four new players and with those already signed up the Lowell club looks to be in practically as strong a position as it held last year at this time. The contracts arrived at the baseball office yesterday.

In John Fryer the team will have a shortstop of no mean ability. Fryer played this position for the New York team of the United States league last season and his batting and fielding were of a high order. As the Federal league have taken away all chances of a resurrection of the United States league Manager Gray procured Fryer.

Two promising youngsters, who both play the outfield, will report here for practice on April 13th, the day set for the arrival of the entire roster of Lowell players. Henry Danner comes from East Delham and has been heartily recommended by several good judges of players. John Billingsly hailed from Ashton, N. J., and is said to have a great baseball future before him. Both are noted as sticklers and have a good fielding record as well. A stranger to the fans of these parts will don a Lowell uniform next spring in the person of A. Jaroski. That is just the way he signed his name to the contract and we won't delve any deeper into the immaterial matter of a name. This piece is a local side note and by no means a percentage from Scout Ketchner of the St. Louis Americans. Ketchner is of the opinion that he will make a wonderful catcher. Jaroski comes from Curle Bay, Maryland.

Burke, the Whitefish, Kan. second basemen signed up several days ago, and Wayner, the catcher who also came from Whitefish, were among the first fielders in the Western league. But two catchers in the circuit allowed less base runners to steal than did Wayner and he also stood third in the fielding averages. Burke held for 827 and Wayner's average was 28.

Thomas, the stocky little backstop of last season, was a dandy infielder before he stepped behind the bat. It is possible that with two such catchers as Wayner and Jaroski, Thomas may be shifted into the infield. Certainly it is that, no matter who shows up in a Lowell suit, Thomas will stand the gaff. "Shubber" proved himself a great little ball player last season and we look for a big lift for him this year.

DIAMOND NOTES

Ernie Greenwell, the former New England leaguer and once on the Lawrence payroll, has signed a contract to pitch for New London in the eastern association this coming season.

Frank Chance of the New York Highlanders has issued orders to his new coach, Tom Daly, to arrive at Hot Springs, Feb. 15, and take charge of the following players: Pitchers Russell Ford, Ray Caldwell, Jack Warhop, Ray Keating, and Marty McAllister; Catcher Ed Sweeney and Outfielder Birdie Cree.

Keating is glad to go to Hot Springs. He claims that the trip to Bermuda last year was the reason for his arm going lame. He is now much over weight.

The Boston Sunday Post selects Jake Dambert of the Brooklyn team as the first best snacker. He received five of the 11 votes of the experts, Melmus receiving three, while the other three were scattered.

Paul H. Shannon of the Post voted in favor of Dambert. The three who stayed with Melmus, the former New England leaguer were Jack Ryder of the Cincinnati Enquirer, Mark Roth of the New York Globe and William T. West of the Philadelphia Evening Telegraph.

The proposed new league, which is being fathered by John H. O'Brien and others will be known as the Interstate league. It will apply for membership in the national association of professional baseball clubs, and while the

BASEBALL WAR

Plans for a Legal Battle Outlined by the Federal League

Chicago watching the Federal league racing, it was rumored that the deal would fall through on account of the activity of the Federal league. Shortly before midnight Saturday, however, McGill called his partner on the long-distance telephone and told him to close the trade. The papers were not signed and the money paid over until after midnight.

After the sale had been completed Manager Hendricks, who already has lined up a number of players for the club, said he would begin a campaign for more players at once. The price originally agreed upon was $150,000. Included in the Springfield club, but McGill and Smith decided they did not want the Central league team, and Meyer finally agreed to keep it and cut down the price to $115,000.

The St. Louis American league baseball club is not for sale, according to a telegram received here today from Robert D. Hedges, president of the club. The telegram, dated Chicago, said: "I came here to meet and meet John T. Taylor (principal owner of the Boston Americans). My club is not for sale nor has it ever been offered for sale."

To one not familiar with the vernacular of baseball, the classified want columns of a baseball paper contain some astonishing statements. Recently a player advertising for a position, announced that he had spent the last three years with California outlaws. Another, yearning to break into the big league, proclaimed that salary is no object, which ought to help his case considerably. A left handed Indian and white promoters for a negro league are requested to open correspondence. A batter who bats both ways and an educated press agent also can find positions.

Whenver the subject of war in baseball crops up, which happens frequently these days one can't help thinking about the case of James Sheekard, former Chicago Cub.

It was during the dark and gloomy days when the American league was waging its bitter fight with the Nationals. Players were jumping right and left—nearly every day bringing up a new sensation. First one league would smile and then would grit its teeth on the following day, because of some slip which seemed fatal at that particular time.

Jim Sheekard jumped on eight separate and distinct occasions. He holds all world's records in this respect. Sheekard was a wonderful fielder then and much sought for. His experiences were most unique. The two clubs he alternated between were Brooklyn of the Nationals and Baltimore of the Americans.

Fans would pick up the newspaper one morning and read the following: "Sheekard of Brooklyn made two hits against the Giants yesterday. He has decided to remain with the Nationals."

On the following day the newspapers would say:

"Sheekard of Baltimore, who has signed with the American league, made a sensational catch of his shoe strings. He has decided to remain in the younger league."

Then he would be with Brooklyn in a few days. It got so that enthusiasts would wonder on where Jimmy would be three days from that date.

If you want help at home or in your business, try The Sun "Want" column.

CHICAGO, Jan. 23.—Plans for a legal war on organized baseball have been outlined by the Federal league and lawyers who will direct the campaign are rapidly preparing for defense or offense as developments require, according to President Gilmore, who returned yesterday from Cincinnati. He refused to discuss the report that the Toronto franchise might be transferred to Cincinnati, though other leaders of the new league seemed to think it likely that such a transfer would be made.

"I expect the league will start the season with the present lineup," said Gilmore.

Except that the league in time of peace had prepared for war, Gilmore would not discuss any plan of action which may result from the signing of William Killifer by the Philadelphia Nationals after he signed with the Chicago Federals. Every point that might be made in court was watched for by the league officials today, however.

With this view, Charles Weeghman, the local club owner, refused to receive from a postman a registered package marked in one corner "William Killifer" and thought to contain Killifer's contract with the Federal league and the advance money said to have been given him by Weeghman.

Manager Joe Tinker of the Chicago club received a telegram yesterday from Brennan, which he believes indicates that Brennan will remain with the federals. The telegram quoted a message received by Brennan signed by Killifer and read as follows:

"Joe Tinker, Chicago: Telegram received this morning. I have stood out. Would advise you to take contract offered by Mr. Baker. Wire me this city. William Killifer." Was misled by him but will stick with you. Wire me immediately when I can see you. (Signed)

"Ad. P. Brennan."

DO "BUNNY HUG" IN ALASKA

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—The "Bear dance" and the "Bunny Hug" have penetrated even to the depths of wildest Alaska, according to Capt. Klein-schmidt, the Arctic explorer, who is here to lecture before the National Geographic society. These dances, he says, are fully as popular with the Eskimo lovers of the dance as they are with townsmen devotees in the United States. But the "Turkey Trot" and the "Hesitation Waltz" are barred from the Eskimo dances.

ADMIT FORTY ROBBERIES

THREE YOUTHS DO DAMAGE OF $10,000 IN GLOUCESTER HOUSE—LOOT WORTH BUT $10

GLOUCESTER, Jan. 23.—City Marshal Marchant is more pleased at the apprehension of three youthful house-breakers than anything that has been accomplished in the police department in a long time.

Charles E. McNeil, aged 18, of 5 Poplar st.; Thomas A. Warren, 17, of 14 Mystic avenue; and Thomas L. Welch, 15, of 7 Springfield street, confessed that they had broken into and looted 40 residences at West Gloucester, Winthrop, Andover and Peabody and on the Gloucester shore from Wolf Hill to Riverview.

While articles taken did not exceed $10 in value, more than $10,000 worth was destroyed, said the marshal. The arrest was brought about by confronting McNeil in the marshal's office with a French horn taken from the Marshant cottage on Peabody island and a pair of boxing gloves secured at McNeil's house.

Welch, who is in the 8th grade, has been kept from attending school by a scarlet fever quarantine, and in that time fell in with the other boys. His share in the breaking was small, as he was in only three recent breaks.

McNeil said that he and Warren began at the end of the season, and have kept continuously at breaking and entering these houses. The last depredations were committed three days ago at a West Gloucester cottage.

McNeil has served a term at the Lyman school for similar depredations. Warren prior to this had a clean record.

The boys were detained on a charge of breaking and entering, and their cases will come before the district court today.

GREEK SOLDIER

Will Purchase Discharge From Army to Get Back to Lowell

James Karvelas, who conducts the bootblack stand at the corner of Bridge and Paige streets, is in receipt of a letter from his brother, Athas Karvelas, a former resident of this city, who is now doing service in the Greek army. The young soldier was recently promoted to the rank of captain, and he asks his brother's advice as to whether he should remain in the service of his country or return to Lowell, and the reply was "Come back to the Spindle City at once."

Athas Karvelas had been living in Lowell four years when the Balkan-Turkish conflict broke out. At the time he was working for his brother and the call to arms appealed to him and he was one of the first to leave for the front. He was wounded in the right shoulder. He was removed to a hospital in Athens, where he remained two months. He then returned to the front, this time taking part in the Bulgarian-Greek war and his service was such that at the close of hostilities he was promoted to the rank of captain. A TONIC FOR DYSPEPTICS

When food lies undigested in the stomach it ferments and gas forms. This gas distends the stomach and presses on the heart, causing a pain that sometimes arouses fear of heart trouble. The condition in which gas forms is caused by a low tone of the digestive organs and a lack of rich red blood resulting in deficient nerve force. It is a condition that calls for a tonic.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, a tonic for the blood and nerves, have been used with great success in the treatment of this form of stomach trouble. Cold baths in the morning followed by brisk friction with a rough towel will help as they stimulate the circulation but a tonic treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills by building up the blood, restoring the nerve force and making the stomach able to do its work gives the most lasting benefit. With their use the appetite increases, digestion becomes normal and improvement in the general health follows with certainty.

You are trying no experiment when you take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They cannot harm the most delicate system.

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills at the nearest drug store. A copy of the diet book "What to Eat and How to Eat" will be sent free by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

family alive and that is why the young captain sought his brother's advice. The result was that his brother advised him to return to Lowell and accompanying his letter was a check of $200 to defray all expenses. Of this amount Athas will give the Greek government about $160 in order to receive an honorable discharge, for recently he enlisted for two years. The young soldier is expected to return to this city in a month or so.

POLICE COURT SESSION

A woman named Niland, arrested by Lieutenant Maher yesterday afternoon, appeared in court this morning and pleaded not guilty to the charge of larceny. She was accused of stealing a suit valued at $25 from Nellie Hamilton and a clock valued at $125 from Mattie G. Clark. Both complainants testified to the fact that the defendant lived in the same house with them and that their goods were stolen.

Two dealers in second hand articles testified that the defendant had sold the suit for 15 cents and the clock for 10 cents. Inspector Maher informed the court that the defendant has been drinking heavily for the past week. The object of the theft was to get money for drink. The Niland woman was found guilty and sentence was reserved until Tuesday.

John McCarthy pleaded guilty to the charge of drunkenness. He has been before the local court on many occasions. When booked at the station last night he gave his name as John O'Brien. Judge Bright ordered him sent to the state farm. James J. Clinton was also sent to the state farm.

Officer Lennay arrested Simon Chaput in a hallway of a house on Clever street early yesterday. The man was a raving maniac, said the officer. Officer John Guthrie corroborated the arresting officer's testimony.

Chaput acknowledged that he had partaken of intoxicants but did not think he was drunk. He was found guilty and ordered to the state farm.

FIRE HOLDS UP TRAFFIC

THOUSANDS OF SUBURBAN RESIDENTS DELAYED IN REACHING BOSTON BY FIRE ON BRIDGE

BOSTON, Jan. 23.—Thousands of suburban residents were delayed from 20 minutes to an hour in reaching the city today because of a fire on the West Boston bridge, which for a time tied up traffic to and from Cambridge. The blaze was caused by the short circuiting of the wires.

The signal system was disabled and the movement of all Cambridge subway trains was regulated by signmen with flags and lanterns.

JAPANESE MINISTER'S ADDRESS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—Although Secretary Bryan knew in advance the substance of the address of Baron Makino, Japanese minister of foreign affairs, reviewing the California anti-alien and legislation negotiations, it was said today that the senate did not know of that portion of the minister's address which dealt with Japan's relations with other powers and the Mexican situation. Officials said it had not been expected that this government would be consulted as to these features and the fact that it had not been advised was without significance. Officials also declined to attach any significance to the portion of the baron's address touching on the Mexican situation. It was said the United States had been fully informed of the steps Japan was taking to protect her position there.

POLICE CAPTURE BANDITS

Quick Work by the Brookline Officers Lands 3 Armed Burglars Who Had $2500 Loot

BOSTON, Jan. 23.—Three armed burglars, two of them from New York and one of Boston, were arrested by five policemen of Brookline about 9 o'clock last night as they were concluding their work of looting the home of Mrs. Ella P. Bailey, 31 Kent square, Brookline.

When surprised at their work by the police the men had collected and placed in a box for removal $2500 worth of personal property.

Miss Nellie Kerrigan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Kerrigan of 26 Kent square, Brookline, observed three suspicious-looking men loitering about the Bailey residence a little after 8:30 o'clock. Assured from their conduct and the surroundings that they were bent on robbing the place, she telephoned the police station.

Lieutenant Bartlett at once detailed Patrolmen Tolman, Knowles, Joseph O'Connell, Jr., and Wharton to the scene. On their way they were joined by Reserve Officer Kelly. Tolman was assigned to the rear of the house, Wharton went through a basement window into the cellar, O'Connell and Kelly guarded the front and Officer Knowles prepared to follow Wharton through the cellar window.

As these plans were being executed the front door opened. John Lester of New York city stepped forth into the open mindless of the presence of the policemen. Officer O'Connell drew his revolver and told him to raise his hands.

Officer Knowles, who was half way into the cellar through the window, heard the order, backed out of the window and ran to the porch, where he placed the handcuffs on Lester after taking a magazine gun from his pocket.

Officer O'Connell held Lester at the front door. Officers Knowles and Kelly entered the house and met Officer Wharton coming from the basement with a lighted lantern. The three searched the first and second floors.

Hiding Under Beds

Doubled up in small space, they found Fred Downey of 221 Highland terrace, New York city, hiding under one of the beds. Officers Kelly and Knowles went through the rest of the 18-room residence for the third man. He was found under a bed on the third floor, hiding behind the overhanging counterpane. He is James J. Stevens, 13 Harrison avenue, Boston.

The house had been ransacked from top to bottom. A box 2x1 feet on the second floor was found filled with the loot that the burglars were preparing to take away when they were surprised by the police. The coats, suitcases and jewelry of varied descriptions were among the property.

The box and its contents were removed to the station. The cleanup is said to have been one of the most thorough and the quickest in the history of the Brookline police. Mrs. Ella P. Bailey, with her daughter, had been visiting at the time. They identified their property at the police station.

Much of the loot that was found did not belong to the Bailey, and the police believe that the men had burglarized another place in the community before their capture.

APPROPRIATION BILLS

NEW YORK ASSEMBLY TO BEGIN INVESTIGATION ON MONDAY NEXT

ALBANY, Jan. 23.—The assembly ways and means committee, in which the annual appropriation bills originate, will begin next Monday afternoon an investigation of the state department in order to determine to what extent the appropriations for this year may be cut.

Assemblyman MacDonald of Franklin county, chairman of the committee, says that the plan was to limit the appropriations to the actual needs of the state.

"The ways and means committee will go ahead with the work itself instead of appointing a special committee and spending more money," declared Mr. MacDonald, "and it is confident of being able to produce satisfactory results. While it proposes to act on first hand information, it will seek such assistance as it may be able to secure not only from the comptroller and the department of economy and efficiency but from the heads of the various departments themselves and from the governor."

It is said that one result of the investigation may be a refusal on the part of the assembly leaders to include in the appropriation bill an appropriation for the efficiency and economy department. The appropriations for the state fire marshal's office and the state conservation committee may also be greatly reduced. Some of the republicans say they consider the fire marshal's office useless.

The committee will have its first hearing on Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock. It will obtain its information from the heads of the departments and state officers and if this is not given willingly it will be demanded. The committee approved yesterday a resolution authorizing the chairman to issue subpoenas for "such witnesses as in his discretion he may desire to have sworn at that time, and to make all arrangements necessary in his discretion for the orderly conduct of said investigation." The committee will give special attention to the pay rolls, office, contingent and traveling expense funds.

It is said that the first departments to be subjected to inquiry will be that of the State Superintendent of Public Works, Benjamin W. Bach, the state fire marshal's office and the department of efficiency and economy.

Assemblyman Salmon Sutfin of New York progressive, introduced a bill Wednesday providing that the municipal court judges shall assign one of their number to sit from 8:30 to 10:30 in the morning to hear cases of workmen seeking to collect back wages from employers if the amount involved is under $500. All the East Side improvement societies favor the bill. Another bill by Mr. Sutfin puts private banks under the state bank department for supervision.

Senator Tamm of Brooklyn introduced a bill providing that before any franchise is granted by the board of estimate and apportionment of New York, a public hearing must be held on the application. The hearing must be advertised ten days before the date set and the board is to make an investigation of the money value of the franchise and is to enter up a contract stating the terms upon which it is proposed to issue the franchise.

THE INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL

Splendid Chance Offered to the Young People to Learn Something Useful

With so much agitation over the proposed new building for the industrial school, it is interesting to learn the views of the principal, Mr. Thomas E. Fisher. According to him the new school building would be one of the greatest educational benefits that could be provided for the young people of the city. At the present time both of the buildings now in use are filled to overflowing, while each day sees a large number turned away for lack of accommodation.

This, however, is not the only reason for advocating new and improved quarters. While the undertaking at first was more or less of an experiment, results have proved that the industrial school has come to stay. In the beginning endeavors were made to adopt a system that would be complete as well as simple. However, such progress has been made in this direction, that at the present time instead of advancing department there is an excellent opportunity for girls to learn to be their own dressmakers. Last year the pupils went to the school to get dresses made after being cut and fitted by the teachers. Now the rule is that the pupils cut, fit and finish their own dresses under the teacher's direction. They are taught to do the work themselves. There is room for about half a dozen more pupils. This, of course, is also an added asset in these days of high prices. Each week the number of students increasing and it is quite evident that some steps should be taken to relieve the congestion. Whether or not this important work will be taken care of in the near future, it is safe to say that conditions under the present handicaps cannot be improved. The machine shop, the auto repairing, the electrical work as well as the textile classes are all doing good work. They offer valuable opportunities to young people to learn the rudiments of certain trades.

For the last few years, Mr. Snow had officiated in some of the big eastern football games, acting as umpire last fall at the Harvard-Yale and the Yale-Princeton games.

MESSAGE BEARS FRUIT

PRES. WILSON'S SUGGESTIONS RE-SPONSIBLE FOR BILL TO CREATE
INTERSTATE TRADE COMMISSION

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—President Wilson's message to congress, suggesting anti-trust legislation, supplemental to the Sherman law, which would eradicate evils of big business and at the same time restore confidence and commercial activity, bore its first fruit yesterday when a bill to create an interstate trade commission was introduced in the house.

Following a conference between Attorney General McKeen, Senator Newlands of the interstate commerce committee, Rep. Clayton chairman, and other members of the judiciary committee, Mr. Clayton submitted the measure and it was referred to the interstate and foreign commerce committee. An effort by Senator Newlands to introduce the bill simultaneously in the senate was blocked by Senator Railroad, owing to debate on the Alaska railroad bill.

DANCING PARTY

Members of Phi Omega
Sigma Hold Enjoyable
Invitation Party

One of the most enjoyable dances of the social season was the invitation party of the Phi Omega Sigma held last evening at the Pawtucket boat-house, and if anyone failed to enjoy himself it was not the fault of the members of the fraternity. Many of the new dances were danced throughout the evening and not once was there an infraction of the rules of propriety, and the spectators enjoyed the exhibitions immensely.

The decorations were simple and pretty, streamers of greenery radiating from the balcony rails to the centre of the ceiling where they were gathered.

THE

Relative to School Appropriations
—Says Determining Factor is the Honest Application of the Rules of Good Sense

The first opinion by City Solicitor J. Joseph Hennessy for 1914 was issued today. The opinion has to do with schools and contains quotations from the constitution of the commonwealth. It was given in response to a request by the superintendent of schools for the solicitor's legal views concerning the intent of the law regulating appropriations of money by cities and towns for the support of public schools and the solicitor points out very clearly the duty of the school committee in the matter. He says that the one determining factor in estimating the limitation to be placed upon the amount of money to be appropriated for the support of public schools is "the honest application of the rules of good sense in ascertaining the amount to be expended by long established and good usage." And again he says: "It is a mandatory and compulsory obligation, without restriction for cities and towns to raise money for the support of public schools, and that obligation must be discharged according to the views of the school committee as to the ability of the city to provide that support which it should determine."

One reading between the lines finds the solicitor counseling the school committee not to ask for an extraordinary amount of money; but as much money as the committee can pull through with and meet the needs of the people.

Dr. Hennessy's Opinion

The opinion reads as follows:
Jan. 22, 1914.
Hugh J. Molloy, Esq., Superintendent of Schools, Lowell, Mass.:
Dear Sir: In response to your request for the opinion of the city solicitor concerning the intent of the law regulating appropriations of money by cities and towns for the support of public schools, and concerning any restrictions or limitations placed upon such appropriations as to the amount that may be requested by the school committee, and which may or may not be appropriated by the municipal council, the city solicitor submits for the consideration of the school committee the following:

Headache

"How are your bowels?" This is generally the first question the doctor asks. He knows that headaches, bilious attacks, indigestion, impure blood, are often due to a sluggish liver. Ask him if he approves of Ayer's Pills.

PROMPT DELIVERY
LOWELL GAS LIGHT CO.
Tels. 3106, 1204, 349

I cannot find any limitation provided by law as to the amount of money to be expended for the support of public schools. It would be inconsistent with the provisions of law heretofore enacted to place any limitation upon the amount of money to be expended for the support of public schools because the constitution and the law of the commonwealth have in no instance attempted to determine the amount of money to be expended for the support of public schools. There is a limitation, however, upon the kind of schools to be supported, as well as the kind of instruction to be pursued and the number of weeks such schools shall be maintained.

The one determining factor in estimating the limitation to be placed upon the amount of money to be appropriated for the support of public schools is "the honest application of the rules of good sense in ascertaining the amount to be expended by long established and good usage, and the known policy of the school committee would be sufficient to determine the amount of money to be appropriated."

Chief Justice Shaw, in a leading case, gave expression to the idea that "the establishment of schools for the education of all the children of the whole people is not the result of any recent enactment of law, but is the growth of our present constitutional government, or the provincial government which preceded it, but extends back two hundred years, in the early settlement of the colony."

In commenting upon the above mandate of the constitution, Chief Justice Shaw said: "Though this provision does not prescribe a precise practical rule, which is usually not within the proper scope of a constitution, yet it does announce, in clear and energetic terms, the object of that constitution to establish a free government, sustained by an enlightened and educated people; that this should extend, as far as practicable, to all classes of the people; and that it is the duty of the legislature to make the laws, and of the magistrate who may execute them, to cherish the literature and the sciences, especially in public schools, and grammar schools in the towns, etc."

Pursuant to section 15, chapter 25 of the revised laws and towns are authorized and empowered to appropriate money for the support of public schools. Section 22, chapter 42 of the revised laws imposes the duty upon cities and towns to raise by taxation money necessary for the support of schools, and being obliged to raise by taxation money necessary for the support of schools, the city is compelled to appropriate such money.

It is a mandatory and compulsory obligation without restriction for cities and towns to raise money for the support of public schools. And that obligation must be discharged according to the views of the school committee as to the ability of the city to provide that support which it should determine. It alone possesses that discretion to determine what expenditures should be necessary within the needs of the people.

Respectfully,
J. Joseph Hennessy, City Solicitor.

TO ELECTROCUTE DORR IN MARCH

Man Who Murdered Geo. E. Marsh, of Lynn on April 11, 1912, Sentenced to Die During Week of March 22

SALEM, Jan. 23.—William A. Dor, who murdered George E. Marsh, a retired Lynn soap manufacturer on April 11, 1912, was sentenced by Judge Quinn in the superior court today to be electrocuted during the week of March 22.

Dorr listened unconcernedly to the sentence and walked back to the jail in silence. He will be taken to the death house at state's prison ten days before the time of his execution. The bullet-riddled body of Marsh was found on the West Lynn marshes on April 12, 1912. A week later Dor was arrested at Stockton, Cal., where he lived with his aunt, Miss Orpha Marsh. He was brought here in a state of collapse. The prosecution proved that the motive for the murder was Dor's desire for Miss Marsh, who was said to have named him as the beneficiary under her will, to obtain possession of a trust fund, of which Marsh was custodian and which was to come to her at his death.

Dorr pleaded guilty to the charge of murder, but claimed self-defense.

ACCIDENT CASES HEARD

Industrial Accident Board Gave
Two Hearings at City Hall—
Woman Injured in Theatre

The industrial accident board gave two hearings in the councilmanic chamber at city hall this forenoon and there was quite an array of medical as well as legal talent present. The hearings in question were arbitration hearings under the workmen's compensation act and the petitioners sought to procure more assistance than was given them by the insurance companies or, in other words, that payments be continued beyond the date that they were dropped by the insurance companies.

Injured in Theatre

The first case was that of Mrs. Mary Delaney who served for ten years in the capacity of matron at the Hathaway theatre. While at work there on Nov. 23, 1912, she fell over a pile of rugs and injured her knee. She did not go back to work for 24 weeks and during that time she was attended by Dr. James P. McAdams. Mrs. Delaney's wages at the time of the accident amounted to $10 a week and for the 24 weeks that she was away from her work she received 50 per cent. of her wages, or $5 a week, being paid $120 for 24 weeks. The benefit ceased at the expiration of the 24 weeks and Mrs. Delaney went back to work. She worked four days and had to give up again because, she said, her knee went back on her. She has not done any work since that time and she now seeks further compensation.

At the hearing this morning Edward J. Tierney appeared as counsel for Mrs. Delaney and Louis E. Doyle of Boston, for the Traveler Insurance Co. David T. Dickinson appeared for the State Insurance Co. and Joseph O'Connor was arbitrator for the insurance company and James H. Carmichael for the petitioner.

In attendance at the hearing was Miss Mary Lowney, who was recently appointed a local visitor or inspector for the state industrial accident board. Drs. C. E. Simpson and J. V. Meigs were present in the capacity of witnesses. The case was taken under advisement.

The Second Case

The second case called was that of Frank Urbacek, who was injured while at work for the Proctor Lumber Co., at North Chelmsford, in June, 1913, and payment by the insurance company was ceased in October of the same year. He asked for a hearing on the question as to whether or not he was able to return to work. In the meantime Dr. Thomas P. Carroll examined Urbacek and pronounced him all right for work. The doctor said in his report that Urbacek would be better working than loafing. At the hearing William D. Regan appeared for the petitioner and Louis C. Doyle of Boston for the respondent. The arbitrators were as follows: David T. Dickinson for the state board, D. J. Donahue for the petitioner, and J. Joseph O'Connor for the insurance company. It was agreed to allow Mr. Urbacek $4.50 a week from Oct. 22, 1913 to Feb. 1, 1914.

Third Edition CATTLE SLAUGHTERED WITHOUT INSPECTION

State Police Had Dracut Man in Court—Fine of $20 Imposed—
Defendant Claimed the Animal
Had Been Killed by Rabbi

A Dracut slaughter house case was aired in police court this morning before Judge Enright in which Joseph Woloch was charged with slaughtering meat cattle without the inspection provided by law. The defendant pleaded not guilty to the charge.

James M. Kingston, a state inspector, was the complainant in the case. The inspector testified that the defendant had in his possession the hind-quarters of a calf which had not been stamped by the inspector. Kingston said that the defendant had admitted to him that the calf had been knocked in the head and not killed according to the Jewish custom by the rabbi.

The inspector further stated that defendant told him the calf was slaughtered for George N. Parker for the use of himself and Parker. The inspector had not been notified of the killing and the local inspector was not present when the calf was killed.

The defendant said that the calf was killed by a rabbi and that he had never told the inspector that it had been killed otherwise. He said that his men had killed the animal without his knowledge. The beef, he said, was not for sale but for private use.

Mr. Parker and the men who work for the defendant testified as did Henry G. Coburn, the Dracut inspector. The Dracut inspector said that he was not present when the calf was killed and was not notified that it was to be slaughtered.

Judge Enright found the defendant guilty and ordered him to pay a fine of $20. He appealed and was held in $300 bail for the superior court.

DECISIVE BATTLE

The Mexican Rebels and Federals Expected to Clash at Torreon

CHIHUAHUA, Jan. 23.—Rebels and federals today were concentrating their forces for a decisive battle of Torreon, the result of which will decide whether General Villa can push on into the Central and Southern states with his victorious army from the north. Villa sent several more troops south today. He thus far has succeeded in advancing the bulk of his army to Jimenez, half way to Torreon, without resistance.

There is every indication that the Huerta government is preparing to make a desperate resistance at Torreon, risking everything in a supreme effort to prevent Villa's army of 15,000 men from advancing further in the direction of Mexico City. General Ignacio Vasquez, federal commander at Torreon, has advanced his forces northward to Bermejillo and Napiim, along the railroad. It is believed Vasquez has been reinforced by troops from the east and south.

Villa in disposing his troops preparatory to the battle today planned to send large detachments south of Torreon to cut off the retreat of the federals to Mexico City.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

The following recently elected officers of Lowell Lodge, 24, K. of P., were installed by Deputy Grand Chancellor Alfred C. Jensen and suite of Lawrence at a meeting last evening:

C. Joseph Fleming, V. C. William D. Jolly, P. Major, W. Wright, M. W. William H. Walker, M. P. Robert G. Rathbone, M. E. George J. Bueh, M. A. Walter Matheson, J. G. Edward McDaniel, G. G. George W. Lee, A. Pleasant feature of the evening was the presentation of a past chancellor's chart to the present chancellor commander Joseph Fleming, who is now serving his third term as presiding officer of the lodge.

Lodge of Rebekahs

Centralville Lodge of Rebekahs installed the following officers last night: B. Beale Worrall, V. G. May Bege, recording secretary, Caroline Crosby, chaplain, Grace E. Nell, warden, Glena A. Crosby, conductor, Amanda M. Buchanan, H. S. G. Edith L. Fager, L. S. G. Eva Eastman, H. S. V. G. Florence M. Puffer, J. E. V. G. Monte M. Brown, I. G. Winifred C. Vignat, O. G. George L. Eastman.

Before the installation, a fine supper was served by the ladies of the lodge, and the entire evening proved one of pleasure. The installation ceremony was held in the regular hall of the U. S. Bowling Club.

The regular meeting of the United States Bowling Cricket club and athletic association was held in the club house last evening. Considerable routine business was transacted and reports from officers and committees were read. The delegates to the state cricket league reported that 10 clubs had signified their intention of participating, but the bowling was the only club in the Merrimack Valley league to report. This matter was referred to the quarterly meeting which will be held in the club house next Friday evening. The return visit from the Lawrence Social club will take place on Saturday evening, Jan. 31.

Knight of Columbus

Lowell council, No. 72, Knights of Columbus, met in regular session in its headquarters, 25 Anna street, last evening with Grand Knight William F. Thornton presiding. During the evening 15 applications for membership were received and referred to the investigating committee. The committee in charge of the coming dance gave an interesting report and it was announced that Edward Slattery, Jr. had been chosen floor director. After the business meeting John H. McNabb who recently returned from a trip to Europe, gave an interesting account of his journey, which was very much appreciated by his listeners. A special meeting of the council will be held next Tuesday evening and the explanation of the first degree will take place.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

THE OPERA HOUSE

"Damaged Goods," a three-act drama written by Paul Briceux of the Academy of France and translated from the French by Benjamin Blanchard was presented at the Opera House last evening. While all the seats in the house were not filled, the audience was a large one.

Because of the nature of the disease with which it deals, this drama has been bitterly condemned and, as well, has been highly commended by the press and the public. As it was presented at the Opera House last evening, it seemed to the observer to be nothing more nor less than a lecture on the benefit of living cleanly and of the world's welfare which inevitably follow the opposite course. It would be more appropriate for a hospital clinic than for the stage.

As was announced on the program and verbally on the stage, the object of the play was a study of this widespread disease in its bearing on marriage. While it stated that it contained no scene to arouse disgust and might be witnessed by anyone this is a question of personal opinion. There are conflicting views on that question and each one is entitled to his opinion.

It is difficult for a newspaper to condemn a play whose obvious motive is to instruct and to convey a moral lesson and it is only this consideration that prevents an honest newspaper from outright denunciation of some features of "Damaged Goods."

As everything that is important in this world—even newspapers—do some harm in accomplishing greater good, it is taken for granted that "Damaged Goods" does harm; but on the other hand it may prove to have beneficial results. It is true that in "Damaged Goods" there are many scenes and many passages which are extremely blunt and which undoubtedly might cause the fastidious to wince. Such is the case in the character of the "street walker" who tells her story of her degradation.

The opening scene is laid in a specialist's office, where George Dupont, a young man about to be married, is informed by the physician that he has contracted a horrible disease, that if not promptly checked, goes down from parent to child to the fourth generation and one withal quite common, but so far as possible concealed. He is told that he must postpone his marriage four or five years in order that his blood may regain its purity. Dupont, who is marrying for money as well as for love, objects; he has arranged to be married in six months. To all his pleading to the contrary, the doctor is unrelenting; and hence George seeks the advice of a quack and is supposedly cured of the disease in six months. He marries and a baby comes into the world. But it comes infected with the awful scourge. He calls in his former specialist, who demands that the baby be taken from his wet nurse, lest the woman be infected. Dupont and his mother object; so the doctor meets the objection by telling the nurse of her danger. She is thus saved from possible infection, but during the mixup between the duponts, the doctor and the nurse, Mrs. Dupont inadvertently discovers that her husband and her baby's nurse have been deceived. She seeks refuge and consolation at her father's house. The old gentleman visits the specialist, who advises him to keep his daughter and her husband separated for four or five years, during which period he guarantees to restore the husband to normal health. The old man agrees to this, and so the play ends.

It can be seen that the plot is not a very elaborate nor complicated one; in fact it would seem that it was constructed solely with the purpose of driving home to the audience as much information or more appropriately, instruction and warning on this subject as could be compressed within the usual two or three hours of the average theatrical performance. If this is so, the purpose of the author has been achieved, for from the rice or vice certain until its fall it literally bristles with warnings against the horrors which come with sin and a disease which, if doctors are to be believed, is usually common, especially in large cities.

Raymond Bond, Howard Hall, Arlean Hackett, Isabelle Windlocke, Mary Brown, George Hanson, Thomas Erwin, Anne Ashley, J. D. Walsh and Desirée Steele were the actors. Headed by Howard Hall, who played the principal role, that of the doctor, they were adequate in their work.

NEIL O'BRIEN
No attraction announced by the management of the Lowell Opera House during the current season has stirred up a greater local interest than the engagement of Neil O'Brien, the popular and famous minstrel, who with his organization of fifty people will appear here Friday, Jan. 30th, matinee and night, in an entertainment of minstrelsy described in quite the most elaborate and biggest production of its kind the American stage has witnessed since the inception of burnt cork comedy. O'Brien and his company are now in their second season, as an organization, the success of which was emphatic and assured from the start. As a star at the head of his own company last season Mr. O'Brien gained much renown and fame, and by his sincere efforts, combined with his brilliant accomplishments as a comedian, he has established a following of admirers who will doubtless give him a cordial welcome on his second annual visit.

Another of those big western thrillers from the Warner Feature Film Co. is the feature offering at the Lowell Opera House today, "The Loyalty of a Savage," in three parts, and featuring "Joe" Miller, owner of "Miller Bros. 41 Ranch," tells a story of great heart interest, and proves beyond a doubt that all good Indians are not "dead" ones. Mr. Miller has surrounded himself with an excellent cast, including "Black Hawk," a wonderful Indian actor and hundreds of Indians and a troop of cavalry. The remainder of the bill includes the latest releases of the Vitaphone, Biograph, Kalem, Klein and Samany studios, and completes a grand program the equal of any other in New England for the price of admission charged.

Thousands of people have taken the opportunity to visit the B. F. Keith theatre this week, in order to see that most engrossing of protean sketches, "The Third Degree." It is not the same as the play which was produced here a few years ago, although it does deal with the efforts of the police to wrest a confession from the lips of an innocent man. Frank Meyer, an experienced actor, plays not fewer than seven distinct characters during the progress of the sketch. His support is adequate. Of a comedy character is the burlesque on military life called "Surgeon London, U. S. A." produced by Junior, Corn and Corene. For full 20 minutes there is a constant stream of fun. Leon Stephens, a gifted soubrette sings a number of popular songs in good manner, and incidentally shows films of her dressing for each character change. The Gloekers are marvelous water jugglers, and Britt Wood is a drill instructor. Other things on the bill are: Burns & Kismet, parodists; Fraxley & Hunt, gymnasts, and the Pathe Week-end show. Good seats may be obtained in advance for the remaining four performances. The number of the box office telephone is 28.

THEATRE VOYONS
The exclusive service that the Voyons is running seems to meet with the approval of all those who are the critics of motion pictures. This service is very expensive but you are sure that you have never seen this show before at any other picture house. Every reel is a feature, and we also show the Pathe Weekly for the last three days of the week, making a full show of five features. On next Monday night we show the greatest animal picture ever released. This is a Selig and is called "The Terrors of the Jungle." There are 3000 feet of the most interesting film ever produced.

THE KASINO
There is only one band which furnishes music for roller-skating in Lowell—that's the Kasino band. You will know the thrill of the rollers until you skate to such music. Also you will never know real roller skating until you wear modern skates, ball bearing and cork-soled. Bear this in mind when making your week-end plans for amusement and exercise combined.

THE OWL THEATRE
War and woe in the stirring, picturesque days when the first Napoleon was terrorizing Europe, forms the plot of "A Life for a Life," which will be shown at the Owl today and tomorrow. The scenes are laid in winter and some very beautiful bits of scenery are revealed. A tragic finale is one of the stirring features of this play.

HARD AT WORK HARVESTING ICE "REAL ROBBER"

Street Department on the Move—More About Proposed Paving

Commissioner Charlie Morse was a very busy man today. He arrived at his office at about 11 o'clock after spending three hours "about town." About the same number of men and teams are employed today as yesterday and the snow is disappearing from the side streets, most of the down town streets having been attended to yesterday. Mr. Morse says he has employed very few men outside of the regular department men.

Referring, today, to the proposed paving of Gorham street, Mr. Morse said there seemed to be some slight misunderstanding relative to the kind of pavement he would lay there. "I am going to put in block paving from Davis square to the railroad tracks near the Fair grounds," said Mr. Morse, "but I do not think it would be advisable to install block paving on the level stretch by the cemeteries and the fair grounds. You see the fair grounds have been sold and are being cut up into house lots. It is but natural to assume that these house lots will be sold and this will mean that sewer and water connections will have to be made. In that event the street will have to be torn up and I wouldn't want to have to happen to a newly block-paved street."

"I have not decided yet as to just what kind of paving I will put there. A new kind of paving has been laid on the Moody st. canal bridge and some people seem to think very well of it. I am going to wait and see how it looks in the spring and if it looks good I may use it in Gorham street."

Big Gang at Work on River—Best Crops in Years.

Lowell people will be sure to have enough ice to use next summer for during the past week or two large gangs of men have been busy harvesting on the ponds and lakes in the suburbs and this morning a crew of 200 men was put to work on the Merrimack river, above the Pawtucket Falls. The river has been pretty well frozen since the cold spell that struck here last week and a good crop of ice is expected. The work is being done by the Daniel Gage Ice Co. and according to those connected with the business the ice will be the best that has been cut for many years.

The snow that fell Tuesday night caused a temporary delay and all day yesterday was spent in clearing the snow from the surface and making preparations for the cutting. All the machinery necessary for the work was secured and the men started this morning well equipped to harvest as good a crop as has ever been housed by the Gage Ice Co.

The ice over the Merrimack river is said to be over 10 inches thick and of very good quality. The greater part of the forenoon was spent marking off the ice and this afternoon the work of running it into the houses was begun. There are 11 large ice houses on the banks of the Merrimack river owned by the Gage Ice Co. and their capacity runs up into the thousands of tons. The weather man says we are going to have a stretch of good weather and if this be true the work will be continued until all the houses are filled.

Armed Bandit Held Up Train and Robbed the Passengers

CHICAGO, Jan. 23.—With the assistance of two reluctant but badly scared porters, a lone bandit held up four passengers on the rear sleeper of the Michigan Central passenger train due here from Detroit at 7.30 o'clock this morning. It was a serio-comic affair which netted the bandit something under $300.

The robber entered the train at Jackson, Miss., and left it about 15 minutes later when Louis Thoms, one of the porters, signalled for the emergency brakes.

T. Merritt, porter of the car attacked, was the first to view the robber, who pointed the pistol at him and handed him a bag.

"Here," said the intruder, who was dressed in a black and white check suit and wore a cap pulled down over his eyes, "you go ahead and wake the passengers. Tell 'em the robber wants their money. No monkey business. I've got three or four palkeys with me."

Merritt took the bag, or hat, he is not sure which, but thinks it was a bag, and shook the occupants of the first berth he came to.

"Excuse me, sir, I'm the porter, but there's a man here says give him your money."

"Go Way and Let Me Sleep"

"Aw, shut up, quit your kidding; please go way and let me sleep," came the sleepy voice from the berth.

"Tell him I'm a real robber, with a gun," interposed the bandit, thrusting the pistol between the curtains. There was a trinkle of coins falling into the receptacle in the porter's hands.

From A. M. Todd of Chicago the robber got $135, from Herman Marks of Detroit $100 and from F. C. Palmer of New York an unknown sum.

"I don't know how much," said Palmer, "but it was what spare change I had with me."

There were about 20 passengers in the car and most of them did not know that anything had happened until they arose this morning. The robbery took place at 10.45 o'clock. There were no women in the car.

"When the porter told me a 'gentleman' wanted my money," said J. Theodas of Chicago, "I told him porters usually did that sort of thing."

Found it was no joke, for the bandit pressed his pistol against my head, he got only a few dollars from me."

P. G. Savage of Detroit thought the robber boarded the train at Ann Arbor, Mich., instead of Jackson.

SOLICIT BY WIRELESS

London Police Thinks Murderer Is a Passenger on Liner Grampian, Bound for Canada

LONDON, Jan. 23.—Wireless telegraphy was brought into play yesterday to track down a suspected murderer who is supposed to be on board the Allan line steamer Grampian, now on her way from Liverpool to Canada, the first port she touches being St. John, N. B.

The victim of the mysterious crime was Kent Reeks, who until recently was engineer on board a United Fruit company's steamer, understood to be the Sixella.

GOOD LANDLORDS

The tenants of P. B. Hill & Co., both these occupying stores and dwellings, were surprised recently when they were presented recaptured rent bills for the month of December, together with seasonable greetings. Needless to say the unlooked for New Year's gift was appreciated.

TRUST HEARINGS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—Plans for extensive hearings were discussed today in the house judiciary committee on the trust question.

The interstate trade commission bill was referred to the interstate commerce committee to be perfected after hearings. The three bills relating to the Sherman anti-trust law will not be introduced until perfected after hearings.

Applications for opportunities to be heard received by both committees included one from a delegation of Boston business men.

Samuel Untermyer conferred with several members on the stock exchange regulation.

summer, farmers are seen plowing their fields, painting houses and doing other kinds of work wholly devoid of the urgency that might justify a little work on Sunday. The state police will be asked to put a stop to all this unnecessary work.

Annual Meeting

The annual town meeting will be held on the first Monday in March and already the coming meeting is the topic of much discussion. It is believed that the "pay as you go policy" in the town's expenses, which was adopted two years ago, will be dropped this year. There is much dissatisfaction over this system, which, according to many resulted in a heavy increase in the tax rate. The first year this policy was put into effect the tax rate jumped from between $19 and $20 a thousand to $25.50. Last year there was a drop of 50 cents on the thousand, but that was not satisfactory to the heavy tax payers, who claimed they were overburdened. "If this policy is kept up a few years," said a taxpayer, "many of us will be driven to bankruptcy." This matter will be brought out at the meeting and in the opinion of many, the loan system will be resumed.

Building Ordinance

Another important matter will be an article that will be inserted in the warrant, calling for the appointment of a committee to draw up an ordinance regulating the construction of buildings on the principal thoroughfares of Draught, Lakeview avenue and Mammoth road. This will be brought about to put a stop to the erection of shacks in certain parts of the town which are calculated to convey the impression that the town is a gypsy camp.

Ice Crop

H. A. Flanders, the ice man at Belle Grove is now enjoying a well earned rest after cutting about 100 tons of ice, the best season yet. One of his houses is filled with ice about 14 inches thick, and in a few weeks it will weather keeps up, he expects to cut his second crop and fill up the other house, the capacity of which is 300 tons.

Fire Protection

The recent disastrous fire which destroyed the residence and stable of Jas. J. McManmon, florist, at Brookside, has caused considerable fear among the residents of that part of the town and the result is that they will advocate the purchase of a combination chemical, hose and ladder auto fire apparatus. At first it was thought advisable to make some arrangements with the Lowell fire department, but this is not feasible and accordingly there is a movement on foot to purchase a combination auto for the town and also make the department larger and more efficient. A fire auto located in the centre of the town would protect all districts in a proper way and disastrous fires would not be so numerous.

Valentine Party

All arrangements are now complete for the valentine party which will be conducted in Harmony hall, Collinsville on the evening of Feb. 12.

The affair will be given under the auspices of the Sacred Heart league for the benefit of St. Mary's church. The hall will be beautifully decorated for the occasion and a delightful concert will be given by the Newton orchestra, while ice cream and cake will be served. The committee in charge consists of the following: Miss Lena Collins, secretary; Josephine Whelton, Alice Kennedy, Mrs. William Klennan, Miss Bridget Marguit, Mrs. John McShen, Miss Margaret Fogarty, Miss Susie Fenlon and Miss Bridget Greaney.

Testimonial Party

Rev. Thomas A. Walsh, pastor of St. Mary's church, Collinsville, and several parishioners, will go to Roxbury this evening to attend the testimonial party for the benefit of their church, which will be given under the auspices of the summer vacationists of Draught, who reside in Boston, Roxbury and Cambridge.

The affair will be held in A. O. U. hall and a large attendance is expected to be on hand. The arrangements are in charge of John P. Burns, William and Fred Crowley and Miss Minnie Dunn, the latter being secretary of the committee.

WHI Compromise

Some time ago the residents of Collinsville petitioned the public services commission in Boston to force the State Street Railway Co. to leave transfers on the Nishua line as far as Lakeview from any point in the city, but the demand was refused. There is now another petition in circulation and this time the petitioners are willing to compromise. They want the transfer privilege between Canney's corner and any part of Lowell as now in force morning and night.

MESSAGE BEARS FRUIT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—President Wilson's message to congress, suggesting anti-trust legislation, supplemental to the Sherman law, which would eradicate evils of big business and at the same time restore confidence and commercial activity, bore its first fruit yesterday when the interstate trade commission was introduced in the house.

Following a conference between Attorney General McReynolds, Senator Newlands of the interstate commerce committee, Rep. Clayton, chairman, and other members of the judiciary subcommittee, Mr. Clayton submitted the measure and it was referred to the interstate and foreign commerce committee. An effort by Senator Newlands to introduce the bill simultaneously in the senate was blocked by Senator Smoot, owing to debate on the Alaska railroad bill.

ORGANIZE FRATERNITY

About 75 students of the International correspondence schools met in the local office, room 204 Bradley building, last evening and organized a chapter of the I. C. S. fraternity of the world, the object of which is mutual improvement, cultivation of the study habit and to provide facilities for social intercourse and pleasure of the members.

The following officers were elected: President, Edward Moffatt; first vice president, Charles Snively; second vice president, Percy Moody; secretary, Howard Covey; treasurer, A. E. Thurston; executive committee, W. L. Cobb, Arthur Simard and William Herlihy. The next meeting of the organization will be held at the same place next Thursday evening. During the evening addresses were given by Sup't. W. G. Vein of Portland, Me., W. S. Gould of Scranton, Pa., supreme registrar of the fraternity.

COASTING ACCIDENTS

WEST POINT, N. Y., Jan. 23.—Three coasting accidents on Mill Rock hill in Highland Falls near here during the past 24 hours caused one death and sent nine persons to the Mill hospital. Harry J. Chew Food Thoroughly

In these days of soft, mushy foods and quick meals, insufficient mastication of food is often responsible for stomach trouble, headache, biliousness, constipation, dull brains, and various other ills.

Generally these troublesome results can be avoided or corrected by having a regular daily ration of

STATE WIDE BURGLARIES

WORCESTER, Jan. 23.—That a systematic campaign of burglaries touching Worcester and a score of other communities in Massachusetts was planned within the walls of the Concord reformatory, and that that institution schooled one of the burglars to practically all the knowledge he has of vice, were statements made and largely substantiated in the superior criminal court yesterday while the sentencing of Kenneth Duncan and Leo Landry was under consideration.

MATRIMONIAL

Mr. Theophilus Machon and Miss Harriette de Catelet were married last night at the home of Mrs. John Toms on the Dunstable road, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Franklin H. Reeves of the Congregational church in North Chelmsford. The bridemaid was Miss Ethel de Catelet, while the bridesmaid was Mr. Thibault Machon. After the ceremony a reception was held, followed by a supper. Later in the evening the happy couple left on their honeymoon trip to Boston and New York. They will make their home in Dunstable.

HIGH SCHOOL BALL

The officers of the Regimental association of the Lowell high school will hold their annual ball this evening in Associate hall at 3 o'clock and the hearts of the juvenile school-going population are all keyed up in anticipation for the officers' ball is one of the greatest social events of the year. This year the preparations are in very competent hands, and it will be no fault of any of the principals if anything happens to mar the occasion, for all preparations have been made with exactness and thoroughness. Sundry whisperings in the class rooms at high school for the past week or so also revealed the fact that there are several marvellous creations of the art of the costume waiting in dark closets to get their first airing this evening. If any detail were needed to complete the picture in advance, it is met in the demands made on the florists which are as heavy as on former years—the demands, not the florists.

Following are the officers of the ball: Donald K. Pattillo, general manager; Francis V. Daulty, assistant general manager; George W. Thomas, floor director; Gleason H. McCullough, assistant floor director; Douglass R. Buchanan, chief aid. The aids are all officers of the regimental association.

The matrons are: Miss Mary G. Stevens, Miss Adelaide Baker, Miss Marietta Cassidy and Miss Gertrude Rodill.

HEARING ON MAHAN CASE

Officer Heard in Own Defense—
One Witness Testified That He Pushed Woman to the Floor

The second session of the special bench, comprised of Captain Atkinson and Sergeants McGuire and Duncan, on the hearing of charges preferred against Patrolman John W. Mahan on his alleged violation of rule 17 of the police regulations was held last night in the court of second sessions. The defense put in most of its case last night.

The prosecution produced witnesses on Wednesday night, who testified, in substance, that Officer Mahan visited a house at 17 East Merrimack street, where wedding festivities were being held and, that, while in uniform, he took several glasses of beer. Later in the evening when in civilian's clothes, witnesses said that the officer returned to the house and used profane language and also became mixed up in an argument of a physical nature, during which he pushed a woman so violently that she fell to the floor.

Mrs. Sokolowski was the first witness called to the stand last night. She testified that it was at her house that all the trouble took place. She said her husband was an invalid and that they rented their four room apartment on wedding parties. Witnesses said she had taken several glasses of beer before the argument started but was not drunk. She saw a bottle thrown but knew nothing about who threw it.

Her husband was the next witness. He testified along the same line as did his wife. He further stated that his brother-in-law, Michael Sokolowski, returned to give them to him. Witnesses said the officer then threatened to arrest him. The patrolman then took the girl's arm and started for the door but the mother of the girl and another woman intervened him. In the mixup which followed, witnesses said the officer pushed Mrs. Sokolowski to the floor.

Witnesses said Officer Mahan was drunk at the time.

On cross examination the witness admitted that he had seen the officer take but one glass of beer. He further admitted that the celebration had been going on for more than 24 hours when the trouble occurred.

Officer Mahan was recalled to the stand by lawyer Hogan and denied hearing Officer Mahan use any vile language against anyone. The government rested here.

Officer Mahan was the first witness for the defense. He said that he was walking in the Oldlands on the Sunday in question and while on his way to the station his attention was called to the house where the celebration was going on. When he entered they were dancing, he said, and he immediately ordered them to stop. The Sokolowski woman asked him to dance with her and he refused. Then Michael Sokolowski approached him and asked him to drink with his future good health and the officer refused.

After reporting to the station, witnesses said that he recalled seeing a man at the party who answered to the description of a man wanted in Lynn for a robbery of $250. With a view of locating him, he returned. His hat and coat were taken when he entered. Witnesses said he drank two glasses of beer and refused the third. One of the girls came to him and asked him to assist Stella Ross to go to the house of her aunt in South street. When he found that the girl was but 16 years of age he refused.

When the officer had continued himself that the man he was looking for was not present he started for his hat and coat. The mother of Stella and the Sokolowski woman stepped in front of him. The Sokolowski woman struck him with her fist. He then jumped for the door, but Malowicz closed it before he had a chance to get out. Officer Mahan appeared on the scene at this time and quiet was restored. Witnesses said he saw Malowicz throw a bottle at some one. He denied that he brought a bouquet to anyone.

Officer Mahan was subjected to a severe cross examination by the government. He was asked why he did not arrest Malowicz if he saw him throw a bottle. Witnesses said that the party was nearly all drunk and laying around on the beds. The superintendent asked him why he did not arrest them and call in the officer on the beat to his assistance.

Antonina Sokolowski, daughter of the two witnesses for the prosecution, testified that she had been abused by her parents ever since she came to this country a little over a year ago. She is 16 years of age. She had been beaten on the day in question and wanted to go to her aunt's house where she would be more pleasant for her. She had never spoken to Officer Mahan before the night of the trouble. She is now living with her aunt. The aunt of the girl substantiated the testimony of the girl. This was the last witness heard on account of the fact that that the Ross girl is in the hospital. It was agreed that the testimony of the Ross girl could be procured before Monday night and that at that time the summing up of both sides of the case would be made. At 10 o'clock the session was adjourned until next Monday evening at 5 o'clock.

WOMAN BURNED TO DEATH

MRS. CATHERINE ROONEY, AGED 62 YEARS, PERISHED IN CELLAR OF HER HOME

BOSTON, Jan. 22.—Too feeble to escape or extinguish the flames that enveloped her, Mrs. Catherine Rooney, 62 years old, a sister of Representative Michael Sullivan of Quincy, was burned to death in the cellar of her home in that town some time yesterday.

The woman, left alone in the house, had apparently tried to light the furnace, and in her weakness collapsed on the cement floor of the cellar, when her dress caught.

Without exploding a big can of kerosene within a few feet of her, or even scorching the rafters overhead, her body must have smoldered there for hours, the firemen say.

The accident was discovered by a son, Joseph Rooney, when he returned last evening to their home at 36 West avenue. For half an hour he searched the house and shouted for his mother. He even went into the cellar, but peering about in the half darkness, did not see the body.

At last he made a more careful investigation and discovered the tragedy. Medical Examiner Dr. Jones of Quincy and firemen were hastily summoned by the almost distracted son.

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—Florence Constantino, the noted Spanish tenor now under engagement with the Boston Grand Opera company, and owner of the "Teatro Constantino" in Buenos Ayres, appeared in court yesterday to defend a breach of promise suit brought against him for $100,000 damages by Miss Marcelle Hontela, a petite woman who formerly lived in Boston but who has appeared in the chorus at several theatres in this city, and at present employed as a cabaret singer at Hustonby's.

The suit was begun before Justice Flatteck and a jury in the supreme court.

ACTORS' FUND DAY APRIL 17

In accordance with plans formulated by A. L. Erlanger of Klaw & Erlanger at the annual meeting of the Actors' Fund last year he has set aside April 17 as Actors' Fund day at the New Amsterdam theatre in New York, the Forrest theatre in Philadelphia, the Colonial theatre in Boston and the Auditorium theatre in Chicago. At each of these theatres a bill of variety and quality will be offered.

At the Actors' Fund meeting last May Mr. Erlanger offered to put this plan, his own conception, into effect this season. At that time it was intended to make Actors' Fund day of larger scope, including the leading theatres of all the important cities of the country, but it was decided to start in four of the largest cities. All who participate in any way will give their services without pay. Next year all branches of the amusement world will participate, including the dramatic, musical, vaudeville, moving picture and circus interests. It is expected that in carrying out Mr. Erlanger's ideas of making on Actors' Fund day the association will soon be placed where it can greatly increase its activities.

HALLS SHUT TO LABOR

ORGANIZER LUTHRINTER TO DEFY ARREST AND HOLD OPEN AIR MEETING AT CLAREMONT, N. H.

CLAREMONT, N. H., Jan. 23.—The town hall of Claremont, which is used for all sorts of public gatherings, entertainments and dances, has been closed against John Luthrinter, the New Jersey labor leader, by the selectmen.

Arrest Expected

Together with officials of the New Hampshire Federation of Labor, Mr. Luthrinter appeared before the selectmen yesterday and asked to rent the hall. When denied this request he announced to the chief of police that he would hold an open air meeting outside of the Sullivan Machinery company gates at noon today regardless of arrest threats.

The labor federation has engaged prominent attorneys to attend the open air meeting and defend Luthrinter when the expected arrest is made. President John L. Nutting accompanied the labor organizer yesterday and sought to engage a hall. None could be secured.

CHARGED WITH SELLING "DOPE"

BOSTON, Jan. 23.—The proprietors of two South End drug stores and two drug clerks were arraigned in the municipal court yesterday on the charge of unlawfully delivering cocaine and heroin. They were the last of nearly a score of men whose arrests have been brought about during the past two weeks as a result of action by the New England Watch and Ward society.

Owing to the fact that their counsel, John P. Feehey, was engaged in another court, Judge Ely continued the cases until Feb. 4.

AUTO ROBBERS

N. Y. Detectives After Band Suspected of Stealing Machines

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—Fifteen detectives disguised as mechanics started out in three automobiles early today expecting to round up members of a band of automobile thieves suspected of operating here and in other cities and with stealing machines valued at $100,000 in New York alone.

Two prisoners were taken. They described themselves as John W. Sherwood, an adjuster for the Philadelphia Insurance Co., with offices here, and James Williams, an insurance agent.

A stolen auto from Baltimore gave the police here clues on which they have been working in the hope of preventing interstate traffic in stolen cars.

INSURES LABOR EMPLOYEES

A new mutual insurance company has been formed in New York to do business under the workmen's compensation law and its companion bills passed at the last session of the legislature. It was incorporated in Albany under the name of the American Mutual Compensation Insurance company.

The new company will be closely allied with the American Mutual Liability Insurance company of Boston, which was debarred from entering this state by the bill generally excluding so-called foreign mutuals. In the beginning the new company will issue policies chiefly to employers of labor in the groups represented by its incorporators—the textile, metal, paper and cordage groups.

NEWS OF LEGISLATURE

State Board of Labor Split Over Child Labor Law—Routine Business in Both Branches

BOSTON, Jan. 23.—The new state board of labor and industries, in its report to the legislature, split over the new child labor law. The dissenter to the report is Channing Smith of Leicester, the manufacturer, who was the first republican insurgent.

Mr. Smith says that the underlying principle of the child labor law is correct, but that it has been carried out to an extent that it works harshly. Children Discharged

He says that 17,000 children between 14 and 16 years of age have been discharged since Sept. 1, as a result of the law, and that very few have returned to school. He says that if Massachusetts is to progress industrially, the theorist and faddist must be got rid of.

The report of the board urges moderation in the matter of prosecution. It says that hereafter prosecutions will be undertaken only after employers have been notified.

The following recommendations are made:

- 1.—That every employer shall be held responsible for all acts of any agent or sub-contractor for help and for the payment of wages.
- 2.—That the one-hour meal time be extended to all industrial establishments.
- 3.—That weekly wage payments be extended to all industries.
- 4.—That a penalty be provided for inducing or deterring sanitary appliances provided in industrial places.

6. That the board be given authority to post such notices as it sees fit in any industrial establishment.

7. That the board be given jurisdiction over lighting, heating, ventilation and cleanliness.

8. That the statute requiring all premises to be licensed in which articles of wearing apparel are manufactured, repaired, altered or finished, be extended so to include any premises in which any garments or articles of any description are in any way adapted for sale.

The report is signed by James A. Lowell, chairman, and Prof. Crook, William Acton and Mrs. Mary H. Dewey.

To Sent Naphen

The house committee on elections will report, 4 to 3, in favor of seating William Naphen, the republican candidate for the house from Natick.

The four members who make up the majority of the committee are Booth of Fall River, Kennard of Somerville and Atwood of Middleboro, all republicans, and Mr. Chandler of East Bridgewater, progressive.

The three dissenting members are Harry of Agawam, Griffin of Boston and Collier of Lynn, democrats.

The original count of the votes at the election in Natick showed that Brennan, the democratic candidate for the house, had one more vote than Naphen, the republican candidate. The recount showed that Naphen had one vote more than Brennan, but the democratic members of the registrars of voters of that town refused to sign the election certificate for Naphen.

The matter will come before the house. Several of the ballots have been protested by each side.

Routine Business

Each branch of the state legislature sat for about an hour yesterday afternoon. Nothing but routine business was transacted.

In the senate, reports were received from the following committees:

Mercantile Affairs—A bill to change the number of trustees of the Cooley-Dickinson hospital, in Northampton, from 7 to 21. Also a bill to change the name of the Taunton hospital to the Taunton hospital and to authorize the corporation to conduct a training school for nurses.

The following new legislation presented before last Saturday but not previously made public was read by the clerk:

By Senator Brennan of Cambridge, the petition of Edmund A. Whitman that the city of Cambridge be authorized to pay an annuity to John McDuffie, who was for 35 years its clerk of committees at city hall, and has just retired.

By Senator Davis of New Bedford, a bill that the mayor, or the officer having the power of mayor, in that city be authorized to appoint or remove assessors and assistant assessors, and that the latter officers be placed under the civil service rules.

By Senator O'Rourke of Worcester, a bill providing that persons seeking a night's lodging in Worcester shall not be treated as vagrants.

By Senator Williams of Dedham, that upon the petition of five citizens under the act of 1910, the law in regard to the prevention of the smoke nuisance be enforced.

By Senator Hickey of Boston, that no junk shopkeeper shall keep his shop open except between the hours of 7 a. m. and 5 p. m.

Censorship of Films

By Senator Cox of Malden, a bill that the chief of district police shall exercise censorship over moving pictures.

By Senator Wells of Haverhill, that that city be authorized to expend $75,000 for an emergency hospital.

The house in accord with the report of the committee on the judiciary, voted to reject the bill of Representative Murray of Boston, that cities and towns be liable for damage caused to property by the use of oil on highways.

Mr. Murray spoke in behalf of his bill and Mr. Harlow of Easton spoke for the committee.

Late Bills

The house committee on rules has voted to report against the suspension of the rules to permit the following matters, although filed too late, to be considered at the present session of the legislature:

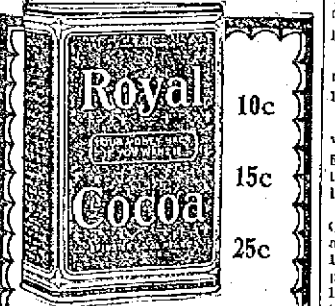

The resolution by Mr. Noland of Boston, requesting congress not to permit the railroads of the country to advance their freight rates; Messrs. Taggart of Charlestown and Webster of Bedford dissent on this report.

The petition of John J. Mullen that Everett be annexed to Boston.

The petition of Herbert F. Keith that the state purchase the Boston & Maine stock now owned by the Boston-Holding company.

The committee will report in favor of a suspension of the rules on the petition of Representative Gilman of Haverhill that the Boston Elevated Railway company be authorized to lease the tracks of the Bay State Railway company in Hyde Park.

Representative Haines of Medford withdrew his petition that the Boston Elevated be authorized to use the tracks of the Boston & Maine railroad between Boston and Everett.

Great Fire, Smoke and Water SALE

One of the greatest boons to the people living on upper Merrimack street was the great Pelletier, Ledoux & Co. sale which brought sorrow to the company but happiness to hundreds of families that took advantage of the sale that followed the fire, which occurred in this store a few days previous. It is a mighty hard thing for any person that appreciates bargains to keep away from a sale like this. On three different occasions they have been obliged to close their store to arrange the goods and to place them in order that their customers may find easy access to select just what they would desire. The prices on the goods are so wonderfully low that it is like finding money on the street. Tomorrow morning at 8.30 the store will be opened with bigger and better bargains and for a short time will serve the public as they must bring the sale to a close to repair the building and store.

571,730 MEN IN THE MILITIA

Report of Adj. General Pearson Shows an Increase of 1411

Speaks of the Value of Motor Trucks in War Maneuvers

The annual report of Brigadier General Gardner W. Pearson, adjutant general of the commonwealth, has been issued and is a critical analysis of the activities of the militia during 1913. The tour of duty for the 2d, 6th, 5th, 8th and 9th Infantry and 8d Corps Cavalry, during July and August, as well as other tours of duty, are reviewed, and some of the lessons learned are pointed out.

According to the report, the enrolled militia for 1913 was 571,730, while in 1912 it was 570,319, an increase of 1411. Appropriations made by the commonwealth during the year were $603,675.92. The estimates for 1914 where they vary from last year are as follows:

Adjutant general's department—Compensation, officers and men, 1913 appropriation, $200,000; estimate for 1914, $225,000; rifle practice, 1913 appropriation, $26,340.52; estimate for 1914, $25,500; instruction of the militia, service school, 1913 appropriation, $4640; estimate for 1914, $5000; allowance to headquarters and companies, 1913 appropriation, $3830; estimate for 1914, $3845; company armories, 1913 appropriation, $12,500; estimate for 1914, $12,625.

For the quartermaster general's department—The salary of quartermaster general in the 1913 appropriation was $1610; estimate for 1914, $2000; salaries of clerks, 1913 appropriation, $8400; estimate for 1914, $10,000; quartermaster's supplies, 1913 appropriation, $23,000; estimate for 1914, $25,000; maintenance of armories, first class 1913 appropriation, $85,000; estimate for 1914, $87,500; salaries of armorers and assistants, first class, 1913 appropriation, $50,000; estimate for 1914, $55,000; maintenance and rental of armories, second class, 1913 appropriation, $7575; estimate for 1914, $7665; maintenance and rental of armories, third class, 1913 appropriation, $2250; estimate for 1914, $2575.

Adj. Gen. Pearson, in discussing the subject of infantry maneuvers, says that the troops learned from the old camp duty at Framingham prior to 1878, which brought about the development of instruction camps and maneuvers. The original maneuvers, he says, were crude in their inception and brutal in their execution. The Connecticut maneuvers of 1912, he thought of great value.

The use of motor trucks in war maneuvers comes in for interesting mention. On this point the adjutant general says:

"One motor truck was assigned to each regiment or corresponding organization, and all subsistence was landed daily from Wareham to the various camps, most of which were from 20 to 50 miles distant. The use of motor trucks in this way gave an exceedingly flexible organization, as approximately 50 miles of the country was covered from a central point with promptness and precision. It is believed that the motor truck constitutes the ideal military supply train, operating from a railroad base, as the radius of action daily can probably be extended to 50 miles, going and returning."

QUALITY IN BUTTER MAKING

Dairymen Themselves Hold Key to Situation—Improper Treatment of Milk and Cream

Quality is the keynote of permanent success. Though the individual dairymen may doubt this, its truth is established when the dairy business of the whole of New England, present and future, is considered. Failure to realize what constitutes success, refusal to meet the obligation which every dairymen owes to the dairy industry, and competition are at least three conditions which have brought upon dairymen of this section the great problem of how quality can be raised, for the place has been reached where improved conditions must prevail, lest the business suffer materially.

The percentage of butter scoring as "Extras" on the principal butter markets is very low, some say that less than 10 per cent. of the butter sold in these places will so qualify. The cause of this condition is the improper treatment which milk and cream receives before being placed in the hands of the manufacturer.

Every person who handles milk or cream knows that they are perishable products, which require special care. Failure to observe the necessary precautions in handling these products must therefore be considered as a disregard of the principles underlying quality. Were dairymen to apply themselves closely to two particulars, over 90 per cent. of the quality troubles would disappear, and this raised standard would be accompanied by a corresponding gain in net profits. Cleanliness and low temperature are two features the abuse of which leads to low-grade dairy production. A large percentage of the bad flavors in milk, cream and butter are the result of dirt, manure, hair and flies getting into milk during the milking process, and this becomes the more serious for the reason that 25 per cent. of these contaminating materials go into solution, and can be removed in no way, but remain to cause the development of unfavorable fermentations which produce bad flavors in the market production. The results of butter scoring contests show that 80 to 90 per cent. of the criticisms made of creamery butter are due to defective methods of handling cream before it reaches the creamery.

Dairy conditions which need improvement include not only the milking of more sanitary dairy farms, more attention in the matter of cleaning cows previous to milking, clean milkers, properly constructed and cleaned utensils and more care in washing separator bowls, but the length of time and the manner in which milk and cream are held. Along with cleanliness must be the other desirable feature, low temperatures. While the market dairymen realizes this to some extent on account of his product being more perishable, the dairymen who sells cream often fails to appreciate the advantage of cooling cream immediately after separating, and thus a condition most favorable to deterioration begins to exist shortly after the milk is drawn. Freshly drawn milk is at the best temperature for bacterial growth, and unfavorable fermentation can be checked in no better way than by immediate cooling. If the milk is to be separated, skimming should take place directly after milking, but the cream should be cooled before being mixed with previous skim-milkings. A tank cooler is so inexpensively constructed and operated that there can be no reasonable objection to its use.

Careless practices on the dairy farm favor the adoption of burdensome regulations; with ideal methods in use such would be eliminated. Improvement in the quality of dairy products must begin with the producer, as the dairymen holds the key to the situation. Every effort of the consumer, the distributor, or the manufacturer will work to his ultimate benefit. Where payment on the quality basis is established, a premium of from three to five cents per pound of butter fat is given for cream of the highest grade. Such cream can be produced best by paying close attention to cleanliness and immediate and thorough cooling. Were the matter of quality carried to the point where milk and cream would be produced under conditions which prevail upon certified dairies, it would represent an impossible expense, for excessive prices could not be obtained. But this extreme is unnecessary, and the dairy business of New England would receive a wonderful impetus if the bulk of our dairymen would observe the conditions which they know should prevail.

DETECTIVE BURNS' SPEECH

The story of nation-wide graft and corruption uncovered by Detective William J. Burns at the board of trade banquet would be discouraging to all who strive for political and social uplift were it not that through all its revealing details ran a thread of optimism. In this there is a greater significance of a new spirit of idealism in public affairs than in the most earnest discourses of bar or pulpit for the masterful expert in crime analysis has come in direct contact with the most flagrant and insidious evils of the American system of government, and his belief in national reform is based on honest and well grounded conviction.

The great lesson for the American people to learn, according to Mr. Burns, is that the public must demand from its servants a high ideal of duty and frown on anything favoring of graft and corruption. Where the public conscience gets lax the consequences are disastrous as in the case of New York and San Francisco. The most colossal evils spring into being in the stagnated life of communities where the public is indifferent but where the light of public scrutiny is turned upon the officials, the greatest evils must crumble as easily as they arise. Possibly in the process of regeneration there will be murders and all manner of horrors, but these mark a transition stage and often lead to great measures of reform as in the case of New York where the Rosenthal murder aroused the public conscience and started a wave of reform which is still penetrating every department of municipal life in the metropolis.

With an assurance and confidence born of experience and justified by many court decisions Mr. Burns described how the trail of graft and crime leads almost invariably to the man higher up. His experiences while in search for the "important man" in this connection were almost incredible, but they were simply unromantic recollections of the depths of villainy and degradation to which men can go when free from the domination of conscience and the restrictions of the law. He voiced a truth that is being exemplified daily when he said that the cure for the evils that spring from the corrupt "man higher up" is pitiless publicity. The people that formerly regarded graft with indifference and looked upon it as an unavoidable adjunct of democracy are now turning the spotlight of investigation on many a trail that leads up to the fountain heads of corruption—even to the very halls of congress.

Talks such as that of the great detective have a very positive value because they help to arouse in the American public an interest in political and social affairs and when the public takes an intelligent interest in all that concerns them vitally we may hope for a better spirit in American public life. The horrible crop of corruption that has blossomed from the Atlantic to the Pacific has been nourished and fertilized by public indifference. If there is to be an end to the stigma of political corruption with which the community is branded before the world the public must decide governmental questions for itself and not wait supinely for fulfillment of the election promises of corrupt and incompetent politicians.

USE OF SCHOOL BUILDINGS

The use of school buildings for evening or social centres is being widely agitated at the present time and has already been adopted by many communities. Judging from the work being accomplished in the cities where it has become a fixed institution, and the favorable judgment of press and public, the time of its general adoption is not far distant.

The address of R. E. Hawley, acting director of the work in Boston before the group of interested people in this city last Wednesday evening outlined the work clearly and gave an excellent idea of the purpose of the movement and some of the chief difficulties to be confronted in putting it into operation. According to him the social centre movement would open the school buildings of the city in the evening to men and women of all ages both native born and foreign, for the purpose of instruction, recreation and development of community spirit. After the introduction of the movement, the details could be well worked out in the formation of clubs through which groups would be attracted together by unity of purpose and common interest. There seems to be no insurmountable obstacle to the use of the school buildings as above suggested. It is being done in Lawrence and Boston with very beneficial results, and enthusiasm is growing instead of lagging in these cities. The schools are supported by public taxation and considering the possible advantages in their more general use it seems as though the public does not receive from them all the service to which they are entitled. The labor resulting from the innovation would not be considerable and though its adoption would necessitate the solving of some problems of a constructive nature, the difficulties would be slight once the co-operation of the public is secured. As Mr. Hawley pointed out, these social centres would have a fine effect for the development of civic consciousness in the immigrants who would be fortunate enough to come under their influence; this consideration is important enough in itself to warrant serious study of the subject by the members of the school committees.

The financial problems would offer the greatest difficulties here at the present time when the school department is so hampered in its routine work that it cannot be expected to throw itself into any new project with a great deal of enthusiasm.

A NEW RESERVATION BILL

Without any regret or feeling of insult the people of this city will discover that Lowell is apparently excluded from the privileges of the new reservation bill which takes the place of the bill of 1912 which would give us a beach at Salisbury, 40 miles away, whether we wanted it or not. The new bill is introduced by a Lawrence representative to take the place of that which luckily for our point of view was considered unconstitutional a year ago. It will be remembered that when the sponsors of the bill that was discarded looked round for taxable communities to make a fine financial addition to the suggested reservation, they jumped over Tewksbury and Dracut and included Lowell, the biggest slice of all—and the farthest away. Fortunately such a protest was raised here that the bill was eventually defeated, though only by a legal offense of a technical nature against community rights.

The new bill, favors a reservation commission appointed by the governor and council, and at the expense of the state entirely. It is very specific in its limitations of territory to be included in the reservation and provides for an ocean reservation only. Even though this city is not included, the bill is of especial interest to us owing to our narrow escape from taxation for the proposed reservation of a year ago, and possible amendments of the measure which may still be included in its passage through the legislature. Though it does not as yet bear directly on us in a legislative sense, it will not do for this city to grow negligent. The local legislators should keep a close watch on the bill in question or anything else affecting the reservation project to prevent a recurrence of the injustice of 1912. The board of trade has already made plans to keep the new bill under supervision.

TAFT ON SEX DISCUSSION

Speaking at the commencement exercises of a business college in Philadelphia a few days ago, former President Taft made a few bold thrusts at some manifestations of the modern spirit of independence and lack of restraint. Among the subjects that drew some sharp criticism from him is the regrettable tendency towards juvenile delinquency of authority as manifested in the school strike, and the exploitation of matters of sex in plays and literature generally. He does not believe that vice may be eliminated or reduced to a minimum by teaching its awful consequences, contrary to the teachings of many pious apostles of the obscene. How well he senses the trend of the times towards lack of restraint may be seen from the following paragraph:

"By dwelling on its details and explaining its penalties, sexual subjects are obtained into discussion between the sexes, lectures are delivered on them, and text books are written, and former restraints of modesty are abandoned."

Ignorance has its attendant evils but many will agree with the judicial minded ex-president that the evils of unrestricted sex discussion are far greater. One need not blush for the old fashioned morality which would select William Howard Taft for a monitor rather than the well meaning Brieux or the chameleon-minded George Bernard Shaw.

GOING INTO MOURNING

Miss Eva Ward, an English lady who is at present lecturing in this country on behalf of woman suffrage, has made the suggestion that if the ballot is not granted universally within a specified time the ladies should go into mourning and wear sombre garb until land-hearted men relent. Does she not see the dangers of this rash advice? First of all there would be an immediate protest from all landowning widows, resulting in a class war, and secondly there is the possibility that many vain sisters, suddenly discovering that black contrasted but poorly with the white of the anti would be moved by jealousy or envy to become traitors to the cause by donning lighter shades. You're dealing with daughters of Eve, Eva, and you'll have to change your methods. Introducing nothing that will bring woman's political aspirations into close relationship with her vanity. The result would be disaster.

DEFINITE RAILROAD PLAN

The first annual report of the public service commission of the commonwealth of Massachusetts, just published, gives an official inkling of workable schemes of re-construction by which the depreciated railroad properties of New England may again be put on a proper financial footing. The three points emphasized most strongly are: the immediate separation of the New Haven and Boston and Maine; the abandonment of costly contracts such as those of the American Express company and the Pullman company; and the giving up of the trolley lines. These are in line with recent recommendations of the Boston chamber of commerce, the recommendations of the governor, and public opinion generally; if they are also the ideas of the legislature we may hope for some reconstruction of the much-abused lines in the near future.

The worst enemy of Secretary Bryan will not deny him the laurels for phrase-making. He has just paid the following excellent tribute to President Wilson: "No man ever took up his difficult task with as brave a heart or has pursued it with more tenacity." Mr. Bryan's mental kodak is working well.

So long as the snow lasts one of the chief troubles of Commissioner Morse will be met by putting applicants for city jobs to work, but the longer the snow lasts the smaller grows the appropriation. There are no gains without pains.

Society girls of Boston are making a house to house canvass to raise $16,000 by next Saturday to aid district nursing in Boston. We of Lowell know from experience how worthy the cause is.

Those distinguished speakers that come here can testify to the fact that we make good listeners.

Did your conscience hurt you the least little bit while Detective Burns was speaking?

Too bad these ice races had to be postponed yesterday for the weather was all that could be desired.

The man who leaves his horse unblanketed in the street while he visits a barroom for the purpose of "tanking up" should be made to change places with the horse.

And, by the way, Agent Richardson, don't consider the driver's or owner's feelings if a horse is being abused, even though they should represent a little property.

There is more truth than poetry in the stories told in police court.

Why order the bartender into police court for violating the bar and bottle bill? Why not bring in the proprietor?

THE STORY OF "MARKED DOWNS"

January and February are the months when retail clothing stores usually "mark down" prices of winter garments to get rid of left-over stock. It must be evident to any thinking man that clothes which are "marked down" near the end of a season, must have been "marked up" at the start of the season in order to give the retailers a larger profit on sales made when men needed the clothes.

P. & Q. Clothes are always marked down! P. & Q. prices—$10 and $15—for Suits and Overcoats, are the very lowest prices at which garments of such excellent style and integrity of quality can possibly be made and sold, to yield the maker even a small margin of profit to the dealer. They are made possible because P. & Q. Clothes are never sold to dealers, but only through the mail, all extra selling expense and giving you the benefit of best-kept prices.

No matter where you go, what price you pay, or at what time of year you buy clothes, you will never find values to equal what you can get in P. & Q. $10 and $15 clothes today and every day.

Mr. Leine, the manager of the P. & Q. Clothes Shop at 43 Central street, in this city, closed the above interview by remarking: "In my many years of experience in the retail clothing business I have never seen such values as are now offered at the P. & Q. Clothes Shop for $10 and $15."

Thin, brittle, colorless and scraggy hair is mute evidence of a neglected scalp; of dandruff—that awful scourge. There is nothing so destructive to the hair as dandruff. It robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life; eventually producing a feverishness and itching of the scalp, which if not remedied causes the hair roots to shrink, loosen and die—then the hair falls out fast. A little Danderine tonight—now—anytime—will surely save your hair.

Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and after the first application your hair will take on that life, lustre and luxuriance which is so beautiful. It will become wavy and fluffy and have the appearance of abundance; an incomparable gloss and softness, but what will please you most will be after just a few weeks' use, when you will actually see a lot of fine downy hair—new hair—growing all over the scalp.

These are companion questions and perhaps the mayor or some other official may answer them.

There's a cosy little corner in heaven for the girl who, after a hard day's work, sweeps the snow from the fire escape and spreads bread crumbs for the sparrows.

The driver who walks up the hill in order to take a little off his horse's load need not retire feeling that the day was lost.

The public as a whole, is interested in this temporary loan business but they are sick and tired of the great mass of figures with which the modus operandi is being explained.

The man who almost breaks his neck to get into public office ought not to be too thin-skinned as to criticism of his official acts.

Drink lots of water, but not as a diuretic.

The Topsfield Historical society has been fortunate enough to secure the colonial dwelling built in 1683, for the Rev. Joseph Copley during the dark period of witchcraft delusion, for their headquarters. All of the furnishings are either originals or patterns of the 17th century. Recently a supper was served by the society, the food being served on wooden trenchers and eaten with broad steel knives and pewter spoons. Some of these knives were 250 years old.

Farmers and sportsmen in Massachusetts will be interested in the report of the special investigation directed by the last legislature as to the desirability of the pheasant among our bird-folk.

The commissioners of fisheries and game hold the pheasant to be an exterminator of the most pests, a splendid object for recreational shooting and a desirable article of food. These qualities, the board asserts, offset any injury which the bird causes to crops. The commissioners report that when ever complaint was received by them that pheasants were destroying crops, they sent an agent to kill at least one of the birds. The stomachs of the birds killed were examined and in each case the pheasant was found to have consumed more insects and pests than any other form of their food. The board therefore argues that it would be unwise to kill off a bird that is doing the work of extermination that would cost the state millions of dollars.

The latter part of December, a man came into the city clerk's office and secured a marriage license. Last week the same man came in and asked for another license and also that the $1 paid for the first license be transferred for the payment of the second license, as he did not intend to use the first one. When asked the reason he replied: "Oh the first one was too old. She was 34. This other one is 23 and it don't cost any more to get a young one while you're about it. Can I transfer the $1 paid for the first one to pay for this one?"

As he gave up his first license, the city clerk made the transfer. If that happened in swine society, I see where there would be a breed of promise suit filed against that swine.

The newest dance fad from Paris is the "tango." It's only 4300 years old. That's why it's so new. They have been dancing it in China since 2450 B. C., and the Chinese word means "sweetness and harmony."

In order to dance it one must be able to stand on one foot, then slide and dip with one knee almost touching the floor. It has a one-two effect and is something like the tango, only more so.

ABOUT MRS. ADAM

(E. A. Brinsford in Los Angeles Express)
Mrs. Adam never danced.
Mrs. Adam never dined.
Mrs. Adam never pranced.
Round the garden hobble-skirted.
Mrs. Adam didn't rear.
A demand for "votes for women."

Mrs. Adam simply wore "Gloves when she went in swimming."
Mrs. Adam didn't dress
In a gown that seemed to cling;
She, Adam, I confess.

Never showed any sort of surplus thing.
Mrs. Adam didn't care
For the latest thing in hats;
Mrs. Adam didn't wear
Batches, curls or puffs or rats.

Mrs. Adam didn't do Anything so very shocking;
Never showed a hint of the legion
Of exquisite silken stocking.
Mrs. Adam went about
Minus any silken hose;
Mrs. Adam went without Much of anything in clothes.

Mrs. Adam didn't wear
Any full skirted or feather.
But she traveled here and there
Quite exposed to wind and weather.
Mrs. Adam didn't go
Out to every swell fandango;
Mrs. Adam didn't know Anything about the tango.

Mrs. Adam didn't rave
With a wild, unhampered passion,
Nor bow meekly like a slave
To the stern demands of Fashion.
Up a dune to hide her back.
And she didn't care a fig
That her wardrobe was so slack!

BERNHARDT AND THE LEGION
Lynn Telegram: It becomes her well does the decoration of the Legion of honor which has recently been bestowed upon Sarah Bernhardt, actress, whose name is known throughout the world. And she becomes it well, this woman, before whom rules and subjects have bowed in admiration for supreme talent. The 100th living woman to whom this honor has been given is deserving of it and the world is glad that France has recognized her for her acting and for that quality which has brought thousands to her feet.

CAMPAIGN COST
Fall River Globe: Compared with the campaign expenditures of his two leading competitors for governorship last fall, those of Gov. Walsh as shown by his statement filed with the secretary of state, are exceedingly modest. Being a little more than $1500, while those of Messrs. Gardner and Bird were each more than 20 times as large, and what is more, unnecessarily so.

LAURIER AND BORDEN

Worcester Post: Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in a vigorous speech on the Borden government at the opening of the Canadian parliament this week, also told of hard times. "Not fewer than 100,000 men," he declared, "are asking for employment." He charged the government with a do-nothing policy and insisted that the need is for wider markets.

THE WRIGHTS HONORED
Providence Tribune: The United States circuit court of appeals, sitting in New York city, has decided an aeroplane case in a way which recognizes the Wrights as the first and true pioneers in the navigation of the air.

The suit was one of great importance to aerial science as well as to the estates of the Wrights. As sweeping decisions were made in made in favor of the Wright brothers in Germany and France, the position of these Americans as leaders of their craft seems beyond attack.

HOW OFFICER SHOT SHEA

WITNESS DESCRIBES CHASE AND SHOOTING OF YOUNG MAN BY BOSTON POLICEMAN

BOSTON, Jan. 23.—Thomas F. Murphy of 298 Shawmut avenue, a carriage washer, described the pursuit and shooting of Ralph F. Shea by Police Officer Charles W. Miller of the Lagrange street station to Judge Chase and a jury in the Suffolk superior court yesterday, where Miller is on trial for manslaughter.

Murphy said that while at his work at Timmins' stable on Warren street at 1.30 a. m. on June 17 last, he heard sounds of a quarrel on Eliot street, around the corner.

He started to the place and had just turned into Eliot street from Warren street when Shea, followed by Officer Miller, came running past him into Warren street.

"Then," said Murphy, "just as Shea turned the corner from Eliot street into Warren street, Miller followed him and as they passed me, the officer fired a shot at Shea."

"I was about 15 feet away from the officer when he fired this first shot. I ran after them. Shea dodged onto the sidewalk and Miller fired another shot at him. Shea was then about 250 feet ahead of the officer. Shea continued and ran into the doorway at 295 Warren street. No one was running with Shea or in front of him at the time and no one ran into that doorway ahead of him."

"When Miller got to the door, where Shea ran in, he fired another shot from his revolver from just outside. The gun was in his right hand and his left in his left hand."

"I was within 10 feet and back of the officer at the time, and I was looking directly into the doorway, but couldn't see anything, it was too dark."

"After the shooting," Murphy said, "Miller went to the police box and a short time later two other police officers came to the spot and Miller said to them, 'I don't care where you take him, get him there as soon as you can.'"

"The boy was dead at the time," Murphy said. "I was standing about five feet from him when they brought him out."

"Was the shot fired before Miller went in to the doorway?" asked Attorney Feeney in cross examination.

"Before," replied the witness.

"Didn't you say at the lower court hearing, when that question was asked you that the shot was fired when Miller went inside the doorway?" asked Mr. Feeney.

At St. Dist. Atty. Webber stated that Murphy's answer to the question at the lower court hearing was that the shot was fired before Miller entered the doorway, according to his stenographic report of that hearing.

Attorney Feeney's stenographic report of the hearing was that the witness had stated at that hearing that the shot was fired after Miller's entering the doorway.

Mr. Feeney contended that his record had been made by an official court stenographer, while Mr. Webber said the record he was using was made by the police stenographer.

DR. MITCHELL'S FAME

An incident, variously related, serves to indicate the fame of Dr. Mitchell's eminence as a physician. Dr. Mitchell is the version as attributed to Dr. Mitchell himself:

An American, suffering from some nervous disorder, journeyed to Italy to consult a celebrated Italian neurologist.

"But you are from America?" said the Italian.

"Yes."

"Why not, then, take the Vermicelli treatment?"

"What's that?" inquired the patient.

"What? You don't know the treatment of the famous Dr. Weir Mitchell of Philadelphia?"

And the Italian sent the American home to be cured.

The story as related by friends of Dr. Mitchell is to the effect that the physician himself, while visiting Paris, suffered from a nervous ailment attributed to overwork.

Without divulging his identity, he called on a specialist with whose name he was familiar as being that of a man famous in both hemispheres.

"I see that you are an American," remarked the French physician, after some preliminary conversation.

"Yes," replied Dr. Mitchell, "I am."

"And from what city do you come?" inquired the Parisian.

"Philadelphia," said the visitor.

"And do you mean to say that you, a resident of Philadelphia, come to me to be treated when there is a specialist in your home city the most famous nerve specialist in the world?" exclaimed the Frenchman.

"To whom do you refer?" asked the author.

"To Dr. S. Weir Mitchell, of course," replied the specialist, "I think that you have never heard of him!"

he exclaimed in conclusion, raising his hands in astonishment.

There is no secret behind this tremendous store attendance—it is just the phenomenal values given on no other occasion, nor anywhere else at any time, that draws these immense crowds.

To explain—these rare sales are called one-cent sales because of the enormous purchasing power given to one extra penny. If the list price of an article is 15c, you can, at this sale tomorrow, but two of the same article for just one extra penny or 16c.

For example:—The regular price of Ivory Soap is 5c a cake; at Liggett's one-cent sale tomorrow you can buy two cakes for 5c plus 1c or 6c, and so on with every item listed in this announcement.

67-69 MERRIMACK STREET

TO COMPLETE HIGHWAY GET ACQUAINTED

State Will be Asked to Complete the River Road—Commissioner Barlow Interested

There is a bare possibility that the county commissioners may direct Lowell to complete the river road. The uncompleted stretch lies between First street and the farther end of Indian orchard, a distance of a mile or so. If the commission should order the city to build this stretch the city would have to pay for it. Commissioner Barlow thinks there is another and a better way out of it. He suggests that the municipal commission ask the legislature to have the highway commission complete the road and if this should come to pass the city would not have to dig for the expense. The state could pay 75 per cent and the county 25 per cent of the expense and the state would have to maintain the road. Mr. Barlow believes that the road should be extended down through Indian orchard rather than to go over the hill. Mr. Barlow intends to talk the matter over with Chairman Sawyer of the highway commission.

Enjoyable Social Held at the First Baptist Church Last Night

The Baraca class of the First Baptist church held a "get acquainted" social last night, and the affair proved both helpful and entertaining. There was a goodly number of young men present and they wore their names on white tags pinned to their coats. Rev. H. S. Pinkham was master of ceremonies. The musical program for the evening included vocal and instrumental selections, and an excellent photograph recital under the direction of Clayton Farr. Refreshments were served and then a visit was made to the bowling alley, where the First Baptist and the Calvary Baptist teams were having a tilt with ball and pin. The officers of the class are: President, A. E. White; vice president, T. A. Whelan; secretary, A. H. Dows; treasurer, G. K. Trojlan.

The class is made up of representative business men and clerks, about 69 of whom were present last evening. The Philadelphia class of girls at the First Baptist church also held a social last evening and enjoyed a very fine program. Mrs. Alice Schofield, Mrs. Morris Johnson, Mrs. G. W. Hunt and others contributed to the program, which was followed by refreshments served under the direction of Mrs. Morris Johnson and a competent committee.

JOHNNY CURRY'S CASE

A Physician Thinks That Curry is Not Suffering from Pellagra as Dr. Tighe Has Announced. A physician, not a Lowell doctor, has addressed a communication to The Sun, in which he takes issue with City Physician Tighe relative to Johnny Curry's ailment. Johnny Curry is at the Chelmsford street hospital and Dr. Tighe says he is suffering from pellagra and one correspondent says it may be cretinism. His letter to The Sun reads as follows: It appears to me that Dr. M. A. Tighe is getting too alarmed over the condition of Johnny Curry. I would advise the physician to look up his medical works on cretinism. Johnny Curry is a born cretin and why shouldn't he be suffering with advanced cretinism rather than pellagra. I saw Curry in July at St. John's hospital out-patient department and I advised him to go to the city farm. At that time there was no doubt of his having symptoms of myxedema, which are quite similar to those of pellagra. I won't go into details of either disease, but it seems to me that the city physician is making to much noise about a disease which no doubt isn't around Lowell.

The Use of "Hair Tonics" Containing Alcohol Is Dangerous. Most hair tonics contain a large percentage of alcohol. The public is deceived because alcohol is soothing. Alcohol dries out the scalp, destroying the natural oil of the hair, thus causing dandruff and falling hair, and in time will turn the hair gray.

CRUDOL contains no alcohol, and is a crude petroleum product with every disagreeable feature removed. CRUDOL is fragrant, odorless, stainless, refreshing and cleanly. Puts the scalp in a healthy condition. It is nature's way of treating the hair.

CRUDOL goes to the roots and helps the hair where it needs help, destroys dandruff, prevents itching of the scalp, checks falling hair, promoting a luxuriant growth of hair. You don't have to wash CRUDOL out. It doesn't leave the hair greasy. CRUDOL comes in TUBES only. Sold by drug and department stores everywhere; small size 25c, large size 50c. If your dealer cannot supply you, send 25c or 50c and we will mail you a tube, postage prepaid. Use CRUDOL ANTISEPTIC SHAMPOO. A delightful scalp and hair cleanser. Not like other shampoos that leave the hair brittle after washing, but leaves it in a soft, fluffy, lustrous condition, due to the crude petroleum contained in it. Large tube 25c. Crudol Products Corporation, 177 Broadway, New York, (3).

INTENSE COLD NEW UPRISING MUTINY ON SHIP SWIFT SCOOTERS LINED UP FOR A CHAMPIONSHIP RACE

Temperature Last Night Went Ten Below in Lowell

Although today was not the coldest day of the year it was the coldest Jan. 23 for several years and during the early hours this morning the mercury hovered within a few degrees of the low mark reached during the extreme cold spell last week. There were no cold winds this morning to add to the discomfort and those who found it necessary to be on the street did not seem to mind the cold very much.

Yesterday the thermometers registered from 14 to 20 above, but after the sun went down the mercury rapidly descended and at midnight it was almost zero and at the zero mark. There was a steady decline in the temperature after midnight, however, and at 7 o'clock this morning the day was recorded as one of the coldest of the present season.

A report from Chelmsford states that at 6 o'clock this morning the temperature in an exposed spot was 18 below zero and a thermometer near the Middlesex Village school registered 16 below about the same hour.

At the Tabbet mills, North Billerica, the mercury went to 14 below and residents of North Tennybury report a variation of from 12 to 15 degrees below. In the city the minimum this morning was about 16 degrees below and at the pumping station on the boulevard the register read 8 below when the men reported for work this morning.

According to the official weather bureau in Boston, yesterday was the coldest Jan. 23 for 21 years. The forecast for today is fairer and warmer and long before the noon hour, the needle rose above the zero mark.

The hard freeze this morning made teaming in the down town streets very difficult as the snow had been tramped smooth and became almost as slippery as ice. Ice cutting in some places was suspended for the day at least and a large number of frozen pipes were reported at the various plumbing establishments in the city. All the schools in the city were well heated at the opening hour this morning despite last night's cold.

RIGHTS OF MRS. WILSON

HEARING REGARDING HER RIGHTS TO TITLE OF SIXTY ACRES OF LAND

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 23.—When the hearing regarding the rights of Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, wife of the president of the United States, to title of 60 acres of land in the Cochella valley was resumed today before officials of the local government land office, indication was that it would be completed and the case taken under advisement before night.

The hearing was begun yesterday before Register Robinson and Recorder Burran at the instigation of John T. King of Thermal, Cal., acting for Mrs. Wilson. The most important piece of evidence to be introduced today, according to Mr. King, was a certified copy of the deed held by President Wilson to the land in question, which, it is claimed, was given the chief executive by Mrs. Wilson. Mrs. Wilson obtained title to the land from her sister, Mrs. Margaret Elliot, wife of a member of the faculty of Stanford university, who purchased it, it is said, to use in date culture.

President Wilson's title to the property, which is valued at about $5000, is being contested by Mrs. Hensle and Homer Goddard, both of Los Angeles. Mrs. Hensle claims to have homesteaded the property after a forefeiture by King.

CONSTIPATION IS DANGEROUS

Pinklets, the New Laxative Really Do Correct It.

The sufferer from constipation is distressed after eating, gas forms on the stomach, the abdomen has a feeling of pressure and weight and is hard and distended.

The blood soon absorbs poisons that should have been expelled and loss of flesh shows that the body is being poorly nourished. Headaches become frequent, the patient is drowsy, irritable and sometimes faint.

Pinklets, the new laxative pills, do not wear out their effect before accomplishing their work of correcting constipation, because they do not stimulate the bowels to over-exertion. They assist nature so gently that the action is regular and thorough, yet without griping. Pinklets put the liver, stomach and bowels in harmonious, perfect working order.

A short trial of Pinklets will convince you that they are the ideal laxative. Every drugist can now supply you with Pinklets at 25 cents per bottle. Write to the Dr. Williams Co., Schenectady, N. Y., for a Pinklet book telling all about the treatment of constipation.

Against Huerta Regime In Yucatan, Campeche and Tabasco Planned

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 23.—After an investigation covering several weeks, government agents here are convinced Mexican revolutionists are obtaining arms and ammunition through Guatemala. The investigation reported the fact that the recent shipments passing through this port designed for the Guatemalan government were purchased in this country by an agent of Emmanuel Brito, formerly governor of the Mexican state of Campeche. Three hundred thousand rounds of ammunition passed through here two weeks ago for Guatemala but as it was consigned to that government, the special agents could not seize it.

Several Mexicans known to be friends of Brito sailed from this port today on the steamer Maravilla for Porto Barrios and it is said by these familiar with Mexican affairs that a new uprising against the Huerta government in the states of Yucatan, Campeche and Tabasco is being planned.

CHICAGO, Jan. 23.—A gain of 100,000 pupils was made by the Sunday schools of the Methodist Episcopal church during the past year, according to a report made today by Rev. Edgar Blake, corresponding secretary of the Board of Sunday Schools. The total Sunday school enrollment of the church is 4,327,000.

DR. SALMON LEAVES YALE

NEW HAVEN, Jan. 23.—The resignation of the Rev. Dr. William H. Salmon, secretary of the bureau of appointments in Yale university and the work of the bureau has been taken over by the office of the university secretary, Anson Phelps Stokes, Jr., for the present. Dr. Salmon has been identified with Yale's work on the Chinese mission field.

Steamer Put Back to Port—19 Union Seamen, Arrested

LIVERPOOL, England, Jan. 23.—Mutiny broke out on board the steamer Devonian shortly after she left Liverpool yesterday for Boston and she was compelled today to put back to Holyhead, where 19 of her crew were arrested.

The outbreak was caused by trouble between the union and non-union seamen. The crew was a mixed one, and a few hours after the vessel left port the union sailors refused to obey the orders of the ship's officers until the non-union men had been put ashore.

The captain thereupon decided to run back to Holyhead, where the steamer came into port with mutiny signals flying and asking that police be sent on board. This was done and 19 union seamen were arrested.

NEW EXPRESS RATES

WILL GO INTO EFFECT ON FEBRUARY 1ST—LOWELL AND BOSTON RATE MAY NOT BE CHANGED

It was stated this forenoon at the local office of the American Express Co. that the new tariff which changes the rate in some places will not in all probability effect the rate between Lowell and Boston; the latter rate to be fixed by a tariff that will go into effect at all offices of the company about February 1.

It is understood that the new tariff will make a reduction in some other lines of expressage which will be of interest to Lowell merchants and others, and Mr. Maurice Vaillant, local agent for the American Express company, said that within a few days he will know the final rates with regard to express traffic to be carried on with the state.

It has been stated that the zone system, as successfully used in the parcel post business, will be partly adopted by the express companies of the state, and express packages will probably be divided into first, second and third class matter. Many will benefit by the changes, while others will probably suffer to a certain extent.

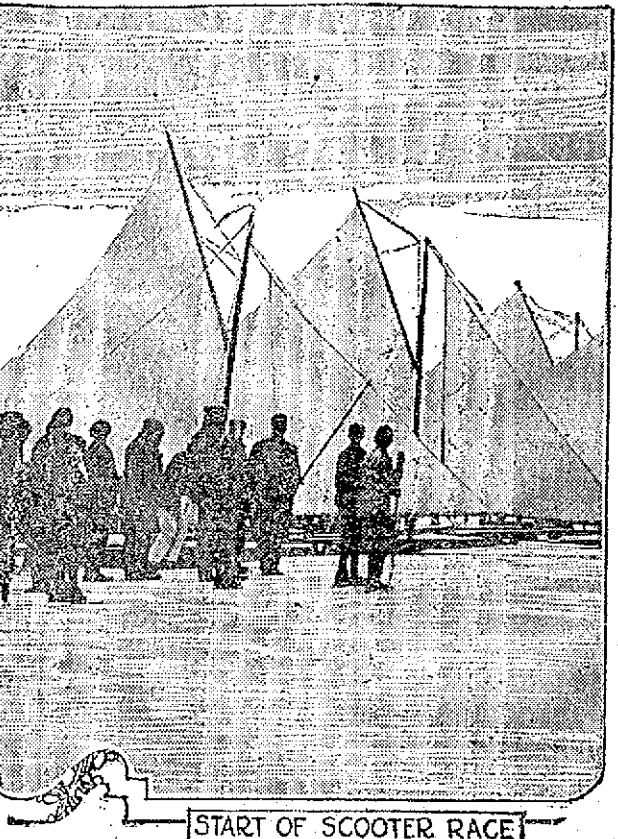

ELECTRIC BARBER SIGN BROKEN

The costly electric barber sign owned by Henry Smith, the Bridge street barber, situated opposite the shop in bridge street near the corner of Paige street, was wrecked this morning by one of the wood delivery sleighs of the Daniel Gage Co.

The sign, which was erected but a short time ago was placed on the sidewalk near the curbstone. This morning at about 9 o'clock one of the large sleighs of the Gage Co., driven by a young man, skidded to the curbstone and the rear end of the sleigh struck the post, breaking it in two places.

BILL TO PROTECT TURKEYS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—The protecting wing of the federal government is extended to turkeys shipped in interstate commerce under a bill introduced by Rep. Diefenderfer of Pennsylvania. The measure authorizes the interstate commerce commission to see that food and drink is supplied to all poultry in shipment from the time they are crated. At 24 hour intervals inspection must be made to remove the dead and separate the sick from the healthy poultry.

START OF SCOOTER RACE

MORE PLAYERS SIGNED

MANAGER GRAY RECEIVES CONTRACTS FROM NEW MEN—CATCHING DEPT. SAFE

Jimmy Gray's ball club begins to look like the real thing again. In spite of the fact that the Lowell manager had the hardest time of any of the New England league pilots to get together a team which would be in the running for the flag in 1914 he has received the signed contracts of four new players and with those already signed the Lowell club looks to be in practically as strong a position as it held last year at this time. The contracts arrived at the baseball office yesterday.

In John Fryer the team will have a shortstop of no mean ability. Fryer played this position for the New York team of the United States league last year and his batting and fielding were of a high order. As the Federals have taken away all chances of a resurrection of the United States league Manager Gray procured Fryer.

Two promising youngsters, who both play the outfield, will report here for practice on April 13th the day set for the arrival of the entire roster of Lowell players. Henry Dunner comes from East Dedham and has been heartily recommended by several good judges of players. John Billingsly, hailed from Ashton, R. I. and is said to have given baseball future before him. Both are noted as catchers and have a good fielding record as well.

A stranger to the fans of these parts will don a Lowell uniform next spring in the person of A. Jarosik. That is just the way he signed his name to the contract. Jarosik is a native of a name. This player is a backstop and was sent on by no less a personage than Scout Ketchner of the St. Louis Americans. Ketchner is of the opinion that he will make a name for himself in the circuit. Jarosik comes from Curtis Bay, Maryland.

Burke, the Wichita, Kan. second baseman signed several days ago, and Wayne, the catcher who also came from Wichita, were among the first fielders in the Western league. But two catchers in the circuit allowed less base runners to steal than old Wayne and he also stood third in the fielding averages. Burke fielded for 227 and Wayne's average was .384.

Thomas, the stocky little backstop of last season, was a dandy infielder before he stepped behind the bat. It is possible that, with two such catchers as Wayne and Jarosik, Thomas may be shifted into the infield. Certain it is that no matter who shows up in a Lowell suit, Thomas will stand the staff "saunter" proved himself a great little ball player last season and we look for a big lift for him this year.

DIAMOND NOTES

Ernie Greenwell, the former New England leaguer and once on the Lawrence payroll, has signed a contract to pitch for New London in the eastern association this coming season.

Frank Chance of the New York Highlanders has issued orders to his new coach, Tom Daly, to arrive at Hot Springs, Ark. 15, and take charge of the club's training. Daly is a well known Ford, Ray Caldwell, Jack Warhop, Ray Keating and Marty McHale; catcher Ed Sweeney and outfielder Brian Cree.

Keating is glad to go to Hot Springs. He claims that the trip to Bermuda last year was the reason for his arm going lame. He is now much over weight.

The Boston Sunday Post selects Jake Daubert of the Brooklyn team as the first best sacker. He received five of the 11 votes of the experts, McInnis receiving three, while the other three were scattered.

Paul H. Shumton of the Post voted in favor of Daubert. The three who stayed with McInnis, the former New England leaguer were Jack Ryder of the Cincinnati Enquirer, Mark Roth of the New York Globe and William G. Went of the Philadelphia Evening Telegraph.

The proposed new league, which is being fostered by John H. O'Brien and others will be known as the Interstate league. It will apply for membership in the national association of professional baseball clubs and while the

Plans for a Legal Battle Outlined by the Federal League

CHICAGO, Jan. 23.—Plans for a legal war on organized baseball have been outlined by the Federal league and lawyers who will direct the campaign are rapidly preparing for defense or offense as developments require, according to President Gilmore, who returned yesterday from Cincinnati. He refused to discuss the report that the Toronto franchise might be transferred to Cincinnati, though other leaders of the new league seemed to think it likely that such a transfer would be made.

"I expect the league will start the season with the present lineup," said Gilmore.

Except that the league in time of peace had prepared for war, Gilmore would not discuss any plan of action which may result from the signing of William Killefer by the Philadelphia Nationals after he signed with the Chicago Federals. Every point that might be made in court was watched for by the league officials today, however.

With this view, Charles Weeghman, the local club owner, refused to receive a postman a registered package marked in one corner "William Killefer," and thought to contain Killefer's contract with the Federal league and the advance money said to have been given him by Weeghman.

Manager Joe Tinker of the Chicago club received a telegram yesterday from Brennan, which he believes indicates that Brennan will remain with the federals. The telegram quoted a message received by Brennan signed by Killefer and read as follows:

"Joe Tinker, Chicago: Telegram received this morning: I have stood out. Would advise you to take contract offered by Mr. Baker. Wire me this city: William Killefer. Was misled by him but will stick with you. Wire me immediately when I can see you. (Signed)

DO "BUNNY HUG" IN ALASKA

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—The "Bear dance" and the "Bunny Hug" have penetrated even to the depths of wild Alaska, according to Capt. Klein-schmidt, the Arctic explorer, who is here to lecture before the National Geographical society. These dances, he says, are fully as popular with the Eskimo lovers of the dance as they are with the Eskimo devotees in the United States. But the "Turkey Trot" and the "Hesitation Waltz" are barred from the Eskimo dances.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Jan. 23.—To perpetuate the celebration of the Mecklenburg declaration of independence an organization has just been formed here to be known as the Mecklenburg Declaration society. F. B. McDowell and Dr. John Caldwell are president and secretary respectively of the new society. Both are lineal descendants of signers of the Mecklenburg declaration.

ADMIT FORTY ROBBERIES

THREE YOUTHS DO DAMAGE OF $10,000 IN GLOUCESTER HOUSE-LOOT WORTH HIT FID

GLOUCESTER, Jan. 23.—City Marshal Marchant is more pleased at the apprehension of three youthful house-breakers than anything that has been accomplished in the police department in a long time.

Charles F. McNeil, aged 15, of 5 Poplar st.; Thomas A. Warren, 17, of 14 Myrtle avenue; and Thomas L. Welch, 15, of 1 Springfield street, confessed that they had broken into and looted 40 cottages at West Gloucester, Wynnabbin, Amisquamis and Parson Island and on the Gloucester shore from Wolf Hill to Riverview.

While articles taken did not exceed $10 in value, more than $10,000 worth was destroyed, said the marshal. The arrest was brought about by confronting McNeil in the marshal's office with a French horn taken from the Marchant cottage on Parson Island and a pair of boxing gloves secured at McNeil's house.

Welch, who is in the 8th grade, has been kept from attending school by a scarlet fever quarantine, and in that time fell in with the older boys. His share in the looting was small, as he was in only three recent breaks. McNeil said that he and Warren began at the end of the season, and have kept continuously at breaking and entering these houses. The last depredations were committed three days ago at a West Gloucester cottage.

McNeil has served a term at the Lyman school for similar depredations. Warren prior to this had a clean record. The boys were detained on a charge of breaking and entering, and their cases will come before the district court today.

GREEK SOLDIER

Will Purchase Discharge From Army to Get Back to Lowell

James Karvelas, who conducts the blackboard stand at the corner of Bridge and Pudge streets, is in receipt of a letter from his brother, Athas Karvelas, a former resident of this city, who is now doing service in the Greek army. The young soldier was recently promoted to the rank of captain, and he asks his brother's advice as to whether he should remain in the service of his country or return to Lowell, and the reply was "Come back to the spindle City at once."

Athas Karvelas had been living in Lowell four years when the Balkan-Turkish conflict broke out. At the time he was working for his brother and the call to arms appealed to him and he was one of the first to leave for the motherland. He left a wife and a child in this city, who are now living in Jefferson street, and who are being looked after by the young man's brother, James.

Athas served in the first war and during a battle which lasted forty-eight hours, he was wounded in the right shoulder. He was removed to a hospital in Athens, where he remained two months. He then returned to the front, this time taking part in the Bulgarian-Greek war and his service was such that at the close of hostilities he was promoted to the rank of captain. He loves military service, but the pay is not sufficient to keep a

A TONIC FOR DYSPEPTICS

When food lies undigested in the stomach it ferments and gas forms. This gas distends the stomach and presses on the heart, causing a pain that sometimes arouses fear of heart trouble. The condition in which gas forms is caused by a low tone of the digestive organs and a lack of rich red blood resulting in deficient nerve force. It is a condition that calls for a tonic. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, a tonic for the blood and nerves, have been used with great success in the treatment of this form of stomach trouble. Cold baths in the morning followed by brisk friction with a rough towel will help as they stimulate the circulation but a tonic treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills by building up the blood, restoring the nerve force and making the stomach able to do its work gives the most lasting benefit. With their use the appetite increases, digestion becomes normal and improvement in the general health follows with certainty.

You are trying no experiment when you take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They cannot harm the most delicate system.

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills at the nearest drug store. A copy of the diet book "What to Eat and How to Eat" will be sent free by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

family alive and that is why they own certain bought his brother's advice. The result was that his brother advised him to return to Lowell and accompanying his letter was a check of $200 to defray all expenses. Of this amount Athas will give the Greek government about $160 in order to receive an honorable discharge, for recently he reenlisted for two years. The young soldier is expected to return to this city in a month or so.

POLICE COURT SESSION

A woman named Niland, arrested by Lieutenant Maher yesterday afternoon, appeared in court this morning and pleaded not guilty to the charge of larceny. She was accused of stealing a suit valued at $25 from Nellie Hamilton and a clock valued at $12.50 from Hattie G. Clark. Both complainants testified to the fact that the defendant lived in the same house with them and that their goods were stolen.

Two dealers in second hand articles testified that the defendant had sold the suit for 15 cents and the clock for 10 cents. Inspector Maher informed the court that the defendant has been drinking heavily for the past week. The object of the theft was to get money for drink. The Niland woman was found guilty and sentence was reserved until Tuesday.

John McCarthy pleaded guilty to the charge of drunkenness. He has been before the local court on many occasions. When booked at the station last night he gave his name as John O'Brien. Judge Enright ordered him sent to the state farm. James J. Clinton was also sent to the state farm.

Officer Lenay arrested Simon Chappin in a hallway of a house on Cheever street early yesterday. The man was a raving maniac, said the officer. Officer John Guthrie corroborated the arresting officer's testimony.

Chappin acknowledged that he had partaken of intoxicants but did not think he was drunk. He was found guilty and ordered to the state farm.

THOUSANDS OF SUBURBAN RESIDENTS DELAYED IN REACHING BOSTON BY FIRE ON BRIDGE

BOSTON, Jan. 23.—Thousands of suburban residents were delayed from 30 minutes to an hour in reaching the city today because of a fire on the West Boston bridge, which for a time tied up traffic to and from Cambridge. The blaze was caused by the short circuiting of the wires.

The signal system was disabled and the movement of all Cambridge subway trains was regulated by signalmen with flags and lanterns.

JAPANESE MINISTER'S ADDRESS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—Although Secretary Bryan knew in advance the substance of the address of Baron Makino, Japanese minister of foreign affairs, reviewing the California anti-alien land legislation negotiations, it was said today that the senate did not know of that portion of the minister's address which dealt with Japan's relations with other powers and the Mexican situation. Officials said it had not been expected that this government would be consulted as to those features and the fact that it had not been advised was without significance. Officials also declined to attach any significance to the portion of the baron's address touching on the Mexican situation. It was said the United States had been fully informed of the steps Japan was taking to protect her nationals there.

POLICE CAPTURE BANDITS

Quick Work by the Brookline Officers Lands 3 Armed Burglars Who Had $2500 Loot

BOSTON, Jan. 23.—Three armed burglars, two of them from New York and one of Boston, were arrested by five policemen of Brookline about 9 o'clock last night as they were concluding their work of looting the home of Mrs. Ella F. Bailey, 31 Kent square, Brookline.

When surprised at their work by the police the men had collected and placed in a box for removal $2500 worth of personal property.

Miss Nellie Kerrigan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Kerrigan of 26 Kent square, Brookline, observed three suspicious-looking men loitering about the Bailey residence a little after 8.30 o'clock. Assured from their continued inspection of the residence and the surroundings that they were bent on robbing the place, she telephoned the police station.

Lieutenant Bartlett at once detailed Patrolmen Tolman, Knowles, Joseph O'Connell, Jr., and Wharton to the scene. On their way they were joined by Reserve Officer Kelly. Tolman was assigned to the rear of the house, Wharton went through a basement window into the cellar, O'Connell and Kelly guarded the front and Officer Knowles prepared to follow Wharton through the cellar window.

As these plans were being executed the front door opened. John Lester of New York City stepped forth into the open mindless of the presence of the policemen. Officer O'Connell drew his revolver and told him to raise his hands.

Officer Knowles, who was half way into the cellar through the window, heard the order, backed out of the window and ran to the porch, where he placed the handcuffs on Lester after taking a magazine gun from his pocket.

Officer O'Connell held Lester at the front door. Officers Knowles and Kelly entered the house and met Officer Wharton coming from the basement with a lighted lantern. The three searched the first and second floors.

Hiding Under Beds

Doubled up in small space, they found Fred Doveney of 224 Richmond street, New York City, hiding under one of the beds. Officers Kelly and Knowles went through the rest of the 15-room residence for the third man. He was found under a bed on the third floor, hiding behind the overhanging counterpane. He is James J. Stevens, 18 Harrison avenue, Boston.

The looting had been ransacked from top to bottom. A box 24 feet on the second floor was found filled with the loot that the burglars were preparing to take away when they were surprised by the police. For coats, silks, jewelry and jewelry of varied descriptions were among the property.

The box and its contents were removed to the station. The cleanup is said to have been one of the most thorough and the quickest in the history of the Brookline police. Mrs. Ella F. Bailey, with her daughter, had been visiting at the time. They identified their property at the police station.

Much of the loot that was found did not belong to the Baileys, and the police believe that the men had burglarized another place in the community before their capture.

APPROPRIATION - BILLS

NEW YORK ASSEMBLY TO BEGIN INVESTIGATION ON MONDAY NEXT

ALBANY, Jan. 23.—The assembly ways and means committee, in which the annual appropriation bills originate, will begin next Monday afternoon an investigation of the state department in order to determine to what extent the appropriations for this year may be cut.

Assemblyman MacDonald of Franklin county, chairman of the committee, says that the plan was to limit the appropriations to the actual needs of the state.

"The ways and means committee will go ahead with the work itself instead of appointing a special committee and spending more money," declared Mr. MacDonald, "and it is confident of being able to produce satisfactory results. While it proposes to get on first hand information, it will seek such assistance as it may be able to secure not only from the comptroller and the department of economy and efficiency but from the heads of the various departments themselves and from the governor."

It is said that one result of the investigation may be a refusal on the part of the assembly leaders to include in the appropriation bill an appropriation for the efficiency and economy department. The appropriations for the state fire marshal's office and the state conservation committee may also be greatly reduced. Some of the republicans say they consider the fire marshal's office useless.

The committee will have its first hearing on Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock. It will obtain its information from the heads of departments and state officers and if this is not given willingly it will be demanded. The committee approved yesterday a resolution authorizing the chairman to issue subpoenas for "such witnesses as in his discretion he may desire to have sworn at that time, and to make all arrangements necessary in his discretion for the orderly conduct of said investigation." The committee will give special attention to the pay rolls, office, contingent and traveling expense funds.

It is said that the first departments to be subjected to inquiry will be that of State Superintendent of Public Works Duncan W. Peck, the state fire marshal's office and the department of efficiency and economy.

Assemblyman Solomon Saffrin of New York progressive introduced a bill Wednesday providing that the municipal court judges shall assign one of their number to sit from 5.30 to 10.30 in the evening to hear cases of workmen seeking to collect back wages from employers if the amount involved is under $500. All the East Side improvement societies favor the bill. Another bill by Mr. Saffrin puts private banks under the state bank department for supervision.

Senator Torburg of Brooklyn introduced a bill providing that before any franchise is granted by the board of estimate and apportionment of New York, a public hearing must be held on the application. The hearing must be advertised ten days before the date set and the board is to make an investigation of the money value of the franchise and is to draw up a contract stating the terms upon which it is proposed to issue the franchise.

THE INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL

Splendid Chance Offered to the Young People to Learn Something Useful

With so much agitation over the proposed new building for the industrial school, it is interesting to learn the views of the principal, Mr. Thomas E. Fisher. According to him the new school building would be one of the greatest educational benefits that could be provided for the young people of the city. At the present time both of the buildings now in use are filled to overflowing, while each day sees a large number turned away for lack of accommodation.

This, however, is not the only reason for advocating new and improved quarters. While the undertaking at first was more or less of an experiment, results have proved that the industrial school has come to stay. In the beginning endeavors were made to adopt a system that would be complete as well as simple. However, such progress has been made in this direction, that at the present time instead of advancing along these lines, much time is lost owing to lack of proper facilities. Not only time, but money is lost, as is evidenced by the greater expense involved for heating. This item alone is well worthy of consideration.

Since as it has been proven, the school has become an essential part of our educational system it should have at least the proper facilities as to buildings. Several new departments should be added, so that students need not be limited to the work as at present taught. With the increasing number of students, this argument is readily understood.

Advices from Germany and France show great progress made in this branch of education, Germany especially being at the present time far in the lead of every other country. It can be readily understood what this branch of education means to the future generations. Necessarily the United States will fall far behind in this work, unless opportunities are grasped in time. In this day of specialization, we, above all countries, should be in the lead with progressive

Some talk has arisen as to opposition to industrial schools by labor unions. Just why this is so seems hard to comprehend. In the first place they should realize that there are now no apprentice schools, such as were in vogue in former times, and that provision should be made for teaching those desirous of taking up this kind of work. It should also be very evident that in the industrial schools, pupils are taught with a definite purpose in view, that of completing in a thorough manner, a course which they have elected to learn. Advantage is given them of the latest improvements in all branches, so that at the expiration of their course, they are as well equipped as possible. In this way they will be in a position to command higher wages which are always willingly granted for efficient labor. Taking this viewpoint along, it does not seem plausible that the labor unions should enter even the mildest complaint.

Recently several graduates of the industrial school have been placed in responsible positions and their work has been highly satisfactory to their employers. Needless to say their records are being carefully watched by Mr. Fisher, whose interest does not cease when the pupil completes his course.

It is a fact that at the present time less than one-half of those completing the grammar school course, enter the high school. In the past their disposition has been to seek any position to be found. Without proper accommodation, the majority of those not entering high school and desirous of continuing their education, could be and should be allowed some other means to equip themselves for later years. With no set purpose in mind after the grammar school, very frequently young men and themselves, after several years of labor, entirely without anything but labor. Their position in the meantime diminishes so that they are forced to accept whatever is offered them. With the advantages of a practical education under scientific teachers, they could pursue their ambition and in a few years be in a position to demand rather than to beg. This, of course, would have its effect on the standing of the community at large and in view of this, improvements should be made as soon as possible.

Domestic Department

In the girls' department the work is being earnestly carried on by over 100 regular pupils, who learn the lessons of practical housekeeping. In the dressmaking department there is an excellent opportunity for girls to learn to be their own dressmakers. Last year the pupils went to the school to get dresses made after being cut and fitted by the teachers. Now the rule is that the pupils cut, fit and finish their own dresses under the teacher's direction. They are taught to do the work themselves. There is room for about half a dozen more pupils. This, of course, is also an added asset in these days of high prices. Each week finds the number of students increasing and it is quite evident that some steps should be taken to relieve the congestion. Whether or not this important work will be taken care of in the near future, it is safe to say that conditions under the present handicaps cannot be improved. The machine shop, the auto repairing, the electrical work as well as the textile classes are all doing good work. They offer valuable opportunities to young people to learn the rudiments of certain trades.

HIGH ST. CHURCH

The Annual Supper Attracts Large Attendance—Mayor a Guest

The vestry of the High Street Congregational church was the scene last night of the annual parish supper and there was a very large attendance. The guests were Mayor Dennis J. Murphy, Rev. Appleton Grants, rector of St. Anne's church, and Rev. Raymond C. Clapp, pastor of the First Trinitarian Congregational church. There were brief speeches by the guests, the mayor speaking on municipal affairs, and the other two gentlemen on church affairs. Robert F. Marden was toastmaster. The business meeting was presided over by Rev. A. C. Ferrin, and Carl D.

DIED SUDDENLY

Burt submitted the report of the prudential committee. He urged the people of the church to support the committee in its efforts to meet the financial obligations of each year. The musical program was given by Miss Edna Gray, Warren T. Reid, Nelson Chase and Charles Whidden. Chas. O. Allen was the accompanist. There were readings from Henry Drummond by Dr. William B. Jackson.

DETROIT, Mich., Jan. 23.—Nell W. Snow, probably the best all around athlete ever graduated from the University of Michigan, died suddenly in a physician's office here late last night. He became ill after vigorous exercise at racquets and was taken to the doctor's office, where he collapsed. He had the distinction of winning more varsity A's than any man, four in basketball, four in football and three in track. For the last few years, Mr. Snow had officiated in some of the big eastern football games, acting as umpire last fall at the Harvard-Yale and the Yale-Princeton games.

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—Mayor Mitchell made a statement this afternoon carrying the suggestion that Col. George W. Goethals, chief engineer of the Panama canal is to be the next police commissioner of New York City.

"From the beginning," said the mayor, "I have wanted Colonel Goethals to head the police department. Recently George W. Perkins urged him to accept the place. I am to have a personal interview with Mr. Perkins tomorrow and such that time can make a statement."

Mr. Perkins called for Panama early in the month and had a conference with Col. Goethals. If the colonel accepts the position of police commissioner it will be necessary for him to retire from the army.

Union street that everybody is dishonest. She won't believe you because she was given a practical demonstration in honesty this afternoon. The incident occurred in The Sun building. At about 2.30 o'clock Mrs. W. H. Hladgett of 5 Lambert street handed the building manager a purse which she had just picked up in the main corridor. The purse, which contained quite a sum of money, was dropped by Mrs. Ball and was returned to her within ten minutes after she lost it.

MALDEN, Jan. 24.—Two men, one of them unconscious, were taken from the fifth floor over fireladders and several women made their escape by ordinary exits from a burning building on Pleasant street today. One of the rescued men was dangling from the end of a fire escape rope. The fire originated from an attempt to thaw out frozen water pipes.

TRINIDAD, Col., Jan. 23.—Twenty or more persons, including eight women, are under arrest, and at least five are known to be suffering from slight injuries as the result of a serious street riot which took place here yesterday afternoon when the militia, under the personal direction of Gen. John Chace, broke up a mob of strikers and strike sympathizers which was attempting to march to San Rafael hospital where "Mother" Jones is held under military arrest.

Stones, bottles and bricks were hurled at the militiamen by a crowd of angry women who precipitated the outbreak when they were ordered to turn back by the soldiers.

Several soldiers, including Major H. B. Randolph, were assaulted and not until the cavalrymen, with drawn swords, had charged the crowd several times was the mob dispersed. One horse fell, and one of the rioters was cut by a sabre.

The riot came after a parade of wives and children of the striking coal miners. Permission for this parade had been granted by General Chace with the understanding that no effort would be made to march to the hospital.

Bernardo Verna, an Italian striker, is under arrest charged with being the leader of a crowd of strikers which attempted to break through the lines of cavalry stationed near the postoffice.

Most of the arrests were made while the soldiers were attempting to clear the streets.

One shot was fired during the demonstration. A soldier's rifle was discharged when it fell from his hands on the pavement. Above the mob was occupied in clearing the streets.

Large details of soldiers patrolled the streets last night and all saloons were closed.

"DEVIL FIRST AND LAST"

Tango "Last Slah of Expiring" (Mothers' Evangelist) Rees Tells Noshua Young Women

NASHUA, N. H., Jan. 23.—In a mass meeting for young women at the First Congregational church last evening Evangelist Milton S. Rees took for the subject of his sermon "The Fast Young Man." He pointed out the pitfalls in the path of many a girl in social life of recognized respectability.

Referring to dancing he said the tango is "the last slah of expiring modesty; the devil first and last." It ought to be ruled out of every organization and above all never be allowed in connection with any school or church affair.

LOCAL MACHINISTS MEET TO CALL STATE POLICE

To Discuss Housing and Transportation of the 600 Machinists Coming to Work in Car Shops

To Stop Sunday Work on Bungallows In Dracut—Building of Shacks to be Restricted

One of the most interesting meetings in the history of Spindle City lodge No. 529, International Association of Machinists was held last night. The chief feature of the meeting was the adoption of resolutions requesting the Lowell board of trade and such other bodies as are interested in the city's progress to take such steps as will insure proper transportation facilities for the machinists who are coming here to work in the car shops at North Billerica.

The speakers included Roscoe L. Hall, business agent of district 10; International Vice President Frank Jennings, of Boston, and Mr. Frank Young, International organizer. The local lodge is very much interested in the housing and transportation facilities for the machinists who are coming to work in the Billerica car shops. The men are coming from Keene and Concord, N. H., Charlestown, Mass., and Lindenville, Vt., about 100 in all.

One of the speakers stated last night that the business men of the city should be more interested than even the local machinists in seeing to it that the new comers will be well cared for. "It looks to me," said the speaker, "as if a majority of the men who are coming here would have to live in Lowell. Some of them may find tenements in Billerica but there are very few vacant houses there."

"Everybody interested in the welfare of the city should assist in making arrangements for these men and the business men surely will not remain idle in the face of the situation as it presents itself today. These 600 men are coming to work in the Billerica shops and the minimum wage paid there men will be greater than the maximum wage paid machinists in this city. The 600 men will represent a pay roll of at least $10,000 and I do not think that Lowell merchants can afford to see so pretty a penny go by default, to to risk, without the men to come to Lowell because we want them to become members of this lodge, but above and beyond that we are interested in the city and we want to see those men come here and spend their money here."

Lowell a Fine City

Speaking of Lowell as a city organizer Frank Young said: "Lowell is one of the finest cities I have ever visited. I came here last August and remained about eight weeks. I came here to organize the machinists and I met with the greatest courtesy from the mayor down. James E. O'Donnell was mayor at that time and he assisted me in every way in getting our cause before the people. Lowell is an orderly city, a safe and sane city and when I hear anything said against Lowell I am right there with the defense, for the men who destroy Lowell don't know what he is talking about."

It was stated at the meeting that the 600 machinists would come to Billerica some time during the latter part of February.

One of the resolutions adopted by the machinists last night:

Whereas: The Boston & Maine railroad shop in Billerica have so far increased completion that a large number of men employed by the road have been ordered to report there before Feb. 15, 1914, and

Whereas: More than 600 of these men who are highly skilled and through the efforts of organized labor are highly paid, will be obliged to move their families to some point upon the line within reach of the Billerica shops, where they are expected to form the nucleus of the mechanistic working force to be employed in those shops.

Now, therefore, be it resolved by Spindle City lodge No. 529, in regular meeting assembled that we do hereby request the Lowell board of trade and such other bodies as are interested in the progress of our city to take such steps as will insure proper transportation facilities between Lowell and the said Billerica shops, and to encourage the location of these employees in said city of Lowell, for the betterment of trade in general; and

Be it further resolved: That a copy of these resolutions be sent under seal of the lodge to the president of the board of trade, the mayor of Lowell and the Trades and Labor council for their endorsement, and that a copy be spread upon our records.

Arnold Olson, Secretary.
Adopted Jan. 22, 1914.

MANSFIELD AGAINST SWIFT

State Treasurer and Ex-Attorney General Opposing Counsel in Slender Suit

BOSTON, Jan. 23.—State Treasurer Frederick A. Mansfield and ex-Attorney James A. Swift are pitted against each other as opposing counsel in a slender suit filed yesterday in superior court. The suit is for $10,000, brought by Maile T. Anderson of Boston against Roland C. Nickerson of Brewster.

This is the first case in which Mr. Swift has entered appearance as counsel in a long time. He appears for the defendant. Mansfield is counsel for the plaintiff.

OPPOSED TO BOY SCOUTS

committee has not announced its action yet.

One of the resolutions read:

"Be it resolved that this organization go on record as opposed to any of its members joining the militia and that the organization oppose the Boy Scout movement as harmful to the best interests of the working people."

One resolution proposed there be a general strike of miners in case an international war is engaged in by the United States.

The scale committee has before it a resolution demanding that the organization take a stand for a six hour working day on the contention that the mining industry is overcrowded and in this way it is hoped to obtain work for all.

DENIES SULZER'S STORIES

N. Y. State Commissioner Says Statements by Former Governor are False

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—John H. Dolan, state commissioner of efficiency and economy, is expected to call on District Attorney Whitman on his arrival from Albany today to ask that he be permitted to appear at the John Doe inquiry into alleged graft in highway construction and give his version of statements made on Wednesday by William Sulzer, the former governor.

These statements Dolan has declared are false and he is anxious to be given an opportunity to make a general denial under oath.

Sulzer was averse to discussing the things touched upon by him in his testimony before the grand jury yesterday but it became known that he had not finished his testimony and probably would be called again next week.

There are reports that Sulzer had a clerical device installed in the governor's mansion at Albany and that by means of records thus obtained he hopes to substantiate many of his charges.

The grand jury remained in session until long after the dinner hour last night. This caused considerable conjecture but it was not until this morning that it was learned its time was taken up in investigating another story of graft. This, it is stated, related to a contract for work on the Catskill aqueduct, which called for the payment by the city of over $500,000. Five per cent of this, or more than $25,000, is charged, was paid to a Tammany politician by the concern which was awarded the contract even though it was only the third lowest bidder.
